'AIR FIGHT ONLY STARTED,' DECLARES COL. MITCHELL

Deposed Officer Would Welcome Arrest 'to Convince Public of Defects in Service'

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

FORT ARANSAS (Tex.) Sept. 6.—Col. William Mitchell, deposed assistant chief of the Air Service, commenting today, during a tarpon fishing trip, on his long indictment of the War and Navy departments for what he termed "incompetence and criminal negligence," said that he had just begun to fight, as the people were "tired of seeing men killed because of gross ignorance and criminal incompetency."

Formal Steps to Discipline ex-Official, However, Expected Soon

Dismissal From Army May be Sequel to Comment on Air Tragedy

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Officials of the War and Navy departments continued to remain silent today relative to the outbursts of Col. William Mitchell's stormy petrel of the Air Service. There were definite indications, however, that formal steps will be taken within the next few days looking to the disciplining of the former assistant Air Service chief.

Maj.-Gen. John L. Hines, chief of staff and Acting Secretary of War in the absence of Dwight Davis, the Acting Secretary, will confer with Mr. Davis upon the latter's return from New York early this week. The general opinion among army officers as privately expressed is that Col. Mitchell's attack upon the administration of both the War and Navy departments in connection with Air Service matters is of so serious a nature that it cannot be overlooked.

Court-martial proceedings for violation of military rules in putting forth his criticisms of superior officers appear more than likely. Dismissal from the Army might be the outcome of such proceedings. When Col. Mitchell was relieved of his post as Assistant

ASSEMBLING AT GENEVA

League Meeting Opens Today

French Premier to Outline Past Achievements and Future Plans

Important World Affairs Are Expected to Come Up for Discussion

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

GENEVA, Sept. 6.—The sixth assembly of the League of Nations will be called to order tomorrow by Paul Painleve, Premier of France, who will deliver an address reviewing the League's achievements and telling of its hopes for the future.

Geneva is crowded with visitors drawn from all lands, especially the United States. Although this year's agenda is less spectacular than that of last year, the assembly is expected to indulge in a kind of review of the world's affairs, and it is generally expected that some important political problems will emerge for discussion.

The presence in Geneva of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, who is here to attend the sessions of the assembly, gives a speculative note to the proceedings. She has already received honors from the League Council, the Geneva authorities and the Swiss Republic, and will be present at the inaugural session of the assembly tomorrow.

Senator Arthur J. Capper of Kansas and Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana with a large number of other representative Americans will attend the opening.

Foreign ministers of fourteen nations are in Geneva to attend the assembly. Among the delegates the picturesque is not lacking, for Maharajah of the Indian native State of Patiala, reputed to be fabulously rich, has arrived with a suite of fifteen retainers, royally representing the Princes of India.

On the eve of the assembly there are indications that the Ministers representing the great powers will have need of considerable dexterity to ward off embarrasing discussions of the Geneva peace protocol, evolved by last year's assembly. They are eager to keep the decks clear for the hoped-for conclusion of a security pact with Germany, but the smaller states seem to be equally eager that the Geneva protocol be not entirely abandoned.

To this end it is expected that a strong drive will be made to obtain the acceptance of the principal of compulsory arbitration as the main pivot of some revised protocol in which the German pact can be made to fit along with others of similar nature.

Greece's delegation is here, eager to get through a pact of guarantee and security with her Balkan neighbors and wishing to see the erection of a general framework for various regional pacts of this kind, including both the Grecian and the German.

ANTISTRIKE COAL MINE DYNAMITED

Oklahoma Works Where Men Ignore Walkout Order Scene of Violence

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

McALESTER (Okla.) Sept. 6.—The fan house of Mine No. 12, owned by the Rock Island Mining Company at Hartshorn, was dynamited at 8 o'clock tonight, according to word received here by Sheriff Will Anderson.

Sheriff Anderson left immediately for the mine with a posse of men and bloodhounds.

The Rock Island mine is the largest mine in the Hartshorne field and had been operating all of last week despite the general strike order issued by district head of the United Mine Workers of America.

The explosion followed an investigation made this week by W. E. Gotcher, County Attorney of Pittsburgh county, of reports that men working in the mine last week had been subjected to intimidation.

ONE KILLED IN PLOTTED TRAIN CRASH

Suspect Confesses to Running Fast Kentucky Passenger Into Siding

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 6.—John F. Dudderar, engineer, was killed, and several passengers were injured slightly last night when Louisville and Nashville passenger train No. 21 crashed into steel cars on an open switch at Knoib Lick, Ky., 100 miles southwest of here.

Railroad officials announced here today that first investigations showed the wreck was due to spikes having been removed from the ties and a switch lock broken off to turn the fast train into the siding.

One man, arrested at the scene, is asserted to have confessed wrecking the train, and to have named two companions, who were sought by special detectives. The prisoner was spirited to a jail in a near-by county this afternoon for questioning.

LIGHT RAINS FALL ALONG COAST LINE

Showers Also Reported by Bureau From Central Part of State

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—A scattering light rainfall along the Coast, but particularly in the bay region, and a general unsettled condition in the northern and central sections of the State, were reported by the United States weather, the Bureau reported.

Noticeable rainfalls were recorded at Stockton, Colusa, Sacramento and San Jose, while the heaviest precipitation was the early morning showers in this city, Oakland and Point Reyes. The last rainfall worthy of note in the State was on July 4, last. There also was a short and light shower on August 22, last.

The general outlook is for unsettled but not generally stormy weather, the bureau reported.

With clearing weather soon there is little damage expected to the grape crop, the harvesting of which will be in full blast in a few days.

Following are the figures for rainfall for the past twenty-four hours ending 5 p.m. today:

THREE KILLED BY TORNADO

Dozen Injured as Illinois Town is Swept by Storm Causing Heavy Property Damage

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 6.—Reports received tonight of a tornado this afternoon at Brownstown, Ill., about sixty-five miles east of here, stated three were killed and a dozen injured, five seriously. An unestimated total of property damage was also reported.

The dead:

Mrs. Frank Evel and her 6-year-old son of Ashland, O.

Three-year-old son of Walter Kemper, Mattoon, Ill.

The injured included:

Frank Evel, husband of Mrs. Evel; his 12-year-old daughter and another son, 10 years of age.

Mrs. W. Kemper and Mrs. W. D. Gray, sisters, Mattoon, Ill.

Earl Daily, Panama, Ill.

Elden McCormick, garage man.

Silas Davis, 72 years of age, pioneer resident of Brownstown.

All of the dead and injured had sought shelter in the garage operated by McCormick, where the Old National Trail enters the town. The building was demolished at a loss of approximately $10,000.

The Christian Church, a $40,000 structure, was partially wrecked by the twister, which descended about 2 p.m.

The tornado lasted about fifteen minutes, covering an area not more than 300 yards wide and less than half a mile long.

CHICAGO HEAT AND DROUGHT UNBROKEN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—Heavy thunder storms over Northern Illinois early this morning failed to break the heat wave that has prevailed for ten days. Nor was the rainfall sufficient to afford much relief from drought conditions.

Chicagoans who did not leave the city for an over-Labor Day outing swarmed to the beaches. An official estimate put the number of swimmers along the entire lake front at more than 75,000.

At 1 p.m. the mercury climbed to the day's maximum of 90 deg. A brisk breeze blew up then and in the next hour the thermometer dropped 10 deg.

Advices from Southern and Central Illinois, Iowa, parts of Missouri, Lower Michigan and Indiana and from some Southern States, say the continued drought is working havoc among crops. The damage is chiefly in corn and pasturage. Corn, which had a jump of nearly three weeks over last year, promised a record crop, but heat and drought have cut the estimate by millions of bushels. Much of the corn in the great belt is now dry enough for feed and practically out of danger from frost, but has shriveled and lost weight, failing to fill out properly.

Some of the more pessimistic observers predict that the crop will not be much in excess of last year's production. Rains at this late date will not be of benefit to corn, but will revive withered pastures and put the baked soil in condition for fall plowing.

CONDITIONS SERIOUS

Drought conditions are serious in South Central Illinois, where water is being hauled many miles and sold by the gallon. Herrin is now hauling its meager supply ten miles from Marion. The customary Saturday night bath is being dispensed with and orders are issued against miners and others washing their automobiles.

Operators of coal mines are forced to haul water from the Ohio River by the carload. Plutocrats are able to buy a tank of water, hauled from Marion, for $4 plus the cartage charges, but the ordinary run of citizens buy it by the jug, at five cents the gallon.

Experts at the University of Illinois say the long drought has badly damaged timothy and rye grass, in addition to shriveling the corn. Fruit also is suffering.

In some of the northwestern States heavy thunderstorms afforded temporary relief. Temperatures are ranging twenty degrees higher than for the corresponding period one year ago.

AMERICAN'S LIFE IN PERIL

Military Protection Asked for United States Citizen in Hotbed of Agrarianism

BY JACK STARR-HUNT
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 6.—Military protection for the life and property of Dr. John J. Morton, American ranch owner living in the State of Puebla, has been asked of the Mexican Foreign Office by the United States Embassy, according to Charge D'Affaires H. F. Arthur Schoenfeld. Schoenfeld added that his representations were based on information supplied him which "seemed to indicate that Morton's life was in danger."

Up to noon the embassy had received no report or reply as to what steps had been taken. Recent press dispatches announced renewed activities on the part of armed agrarian forces in the Atlixco district of the State of Puebla, in which is located Morton's property, as well as the property owned by William O. Jenkins, the American Consul at Puebla.

RESISTING ORDER

These dispatches indicate that Atlixco agrarians are resisting President Calles's order to the Federal commander to disarm them. This order followed the recent assassination near Morton's property of a French citizen who was Morton's friend and neighbor, according to dispatches published in Mexico City newspapers.

The Atlixco district in Puebla is perhaps the greatest hotbed of agrarianism in this country. It is near this section that is located the property owned by the late Mrs. Rosalie Evans, American-born widow of British citizenship, who was murdered last year. It was in this district that a German ranch owner was murdered several months ago, Federal forces immediately capturing half a dozen culpits who were strung up on the nearest trees.

This served to instil order throughout the district, but coincidental with the outburst in the Chamber of Deputies last week of Deputy Soto Y Gama, agrarian party boss, when with great eloquence he called on the government to disregard its international obligations, his party followers in Atlixco apparently gained courage. Press reports from there indicate that they have renewed and intensified their violent landgrabbing activities while federal authorities were carrying out Calles's orders to disarm them.

Both "Excelsior" and "El Universal" publish dispatches from Puebla stating that the agrarians are in a renewed campaign against landowners, including threats to Jenkins's property, and that in this respect President Calles issued specific instructions that Jenkins's life and interests be safeguarded.

Jenkins is counted among the richest land-owners in Mexico and frequently has gained international prominence by periodical clashes with the outlaw element in Puebla, but so far has adhered to his original attitude of not calling upon the embassy for protection, even though he is United State Consul. Charge D'Affaires Schoenfeld states in this connection that he has no information of Jenkins's latest difficulties other than that published in newspapers.

CHURCHMAN COLLAPSES IN ROSTRUM

Bishop Mead, Conducting Conference of Methodist Episcopalians, Stricken

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—Just as he concluded a brilliant sermon in St. John's Methodist Episcopal Church today, Bishop Charles L. Mead of Denver, who is conducting the Pacific Coast conferences of the Methodist Episcopal Churches, collapsed to his chair.

Rev. Bernard C. Voll, pastor of St. John's Church, and several of the laymen near by, rushed to the stricken bishop and carried him to the pastor's study. Physicians were called and pronounced it an attack of acute indigestion.

Although he is confined temporarily to his bed, he will be able to proceed with his conference work late this week, it was said.

HOPE OF HAWAII PLANE RESCUE AGAIN BLIGHTED

Object Thought to Be Drifting PN-1 Proves to Be Derelict Japanese Sampan

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

HONOLULU, Sept. 6.—Weary and worn from the tedious searching of seas off the Hawaiian Islands for nearly a week, Navy officials engaged in looking for the PN-9 No. 1, lost on a flight from San Francisco to Honolulu, saw another spark of hope blighted late today. What an interisland steamer had reported by radio to be a drifting seaplane off Hawiliwili Island in Kauai Channel was found to be a derelict Japanese sampan. The abandoned boat was found by two seaplanes that took the air from Pearl Harbor immediately after the report that a seaplane had been sighted floating in the channel.

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 6.—A message stating that a plane had been sighted by the steamer Manukua five miles off shore from the Island of Kauai was received this afternoon by the naval radio station from Honolulu. The message said the plane was drifting north from Nawiliwili. It was dated 12:30 Honolulu time and received here shortly after 4 o'clock.

Nawiliwili, on the Island of Kauai, near which the steamer Manukai reported sighting a seaplane thought to be the missing ship of Commander John Rodgers, is approximately 350 miles west of the place where Commander Rodgers was last heard of.

Navy officials here expressed the belief that the Honolulu station, is sending out the report to all ships and stations, had checked up on all planes engaged in the search for the missing flyers and that the plane sighted by the Manukai was not one of the searching planes.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—With the fate of the PN-9 and her crew established almost certainly as tragedy, the Navy nevertheless wept doggedly into the sixth night of the search today with its hope tied to the slight thread of chance that the craft drifted into yet unexplored Hawaiian channels.

From Hawaiian waters came to local flight headquarters today a radio communication telling how submarines, mine sweepers and airplanes have formed a new web in a quest bow reaching into areas about the various islands.

While the surface of the waters was being scanned probes were also thrust into the depths for the possibility of encountering wreckage that may speak definitely of the plane's fate.

Submarine division No. 9, numbering eight craft in addition to the mine sweeper Pelican, was sweeping the area between Oahu and Kauai. They are maintaining a large lane while "feeling" by detachment.

The mine sweeper Widgeon augmented by submarines was stationed in the channel between Oahu and Molokai. The Sea Gull was dispatched to the stretch of water between Maui and Hawaii.

Overhead was the force of planes from Pearl Harbor making flights to the southeast and northwest from their base. And as a flagship in the quest was the airplane carrier Langley sending out its own planes.

The search will proceed, according to local navy headquarters, until the last hope for the lives of the five flyers has been shattered.

SEAPLANE PB-1 MAKES TEST FLIGHT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—The naval seaplane PB-1 which hopped off from San Pedro Bay shortly after 3:30 this afternoon for a test flight cruised around in the air for about two hours, landed and was tied up off Crissy Field at 5:35 o'clock. Naval officers said that the flight was in no way a test to determine the plane's durability for a long flight such as the proposed air trip to Honolulu. No significance was attached to the test other than to keep the motors in proper order.

LABOR FETE AT JUBILEE

Gigantic Parade on Program

Fashions and Races Capture Attention at Second Day of Affair

Native Sons and Daughters Drill Teams Compete for Honors

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—The part that labor has played in building up the world will be set forth in pictorial fashion in a parade that is scheduled to start up Market street at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, and literary and musical tributes to labor will be paid at the Civic Auditorium tomorrow night just preceding a grand ball. Supplementary events include an organ recital in the afternoon and a fireworks display in the evening to fill out the program, for what is expected to be one of the biggest days of the entire jubilee.

Fashions and the races occupied the attention of Jubilee visitors today. Trim white-sailed yachts glided forth on the sunlit waters of San Francisco Bay this morning, and in the afternoon automobile racers whizzed dizzily around the track at Tanforan.

PARADES COLORFUL

A riot of colors and decorations and a crowd of more than 3000 attended the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West at their competitive drills at the Civic Center this afternoon. The various drill teams, mostly Native Daughter organizations, gave splendid exhibitions of fancy drilling and the silver trophies were awarded to the following winners:

Native Sons band contest, won by Piedmont Parlor, Oakland.

Native Daughters' drill, won by Castro Parlor, San Francisco.

Native Daughters' drum corps, won by Bear Flag Parlor, Berkeley.

Native Sons' drum and fife corps, won by Castro Parlor, San Francisco.

RIFF DRIVE ALARMS PARIS

Advance Against Spanish Protectorate Capital; Desperate Fighting in Progress

BY RAYMOND FENDRICK
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, Sept. 6.—The few telegrams filtering through the Spanish censorship in Morocco today are highly alarming. In the western sector the Riffians have arrived within two miles of Tetuan, the capital of the Spanish "protectorate," and are fighting desperately along the Tetuan-Ceuta road to cut off the reinforcements arriving hourly from Spain.

The Spanish have blockhouses every 1000 yards along this vital road, but several Riffian '75s are playing havoc with the traffic.

At Madrid the directorate sat all day under the chairmanship of King Alphonso and decided on many extraordinary measures to meet the situation.

SERIOUS SETBACK

In the Alhucemas sector the Spanish received a serious setback during the past week, according to news slowly coming through Tangier and other free points. The Spanish made several attempts to land troops at Alhucemas during the Franco-Spanish aerial and naval bombardment, lasting almost continuously from Monday to Thursday, losing one transport filled with troops, and suffered severe losses on the other transports. The official French Havas Agency, which announced the sinking of the loaded transport, Espana Quinta, has refused to make a denial, and Riffian and English reports from Tangier confirm the disaster.

French troops which tried to land at Alhucemas found the rocky hillsides impregnable with trenches, barbed wire and machine-gun nests. The mass of barbed wire around the hillsides absolutely amazed the French naval officers. After a four-days' bombardment the Spanish failed to land a single man and all attempts to

TEMBLOR ZONES UNDER SCRUTINY

New York Skyscraper Takes Shock Insurance

Lines of Earth's Weakness Mapped Out

Disturbances Average 60 to 70 Annually

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Recently the owners of one of the great skyscrapers of New York City took out an insurance policy to indemnify them in case their building should be damaged or destroyed by earthquake. Their precaution was ridiculed in some quarters, but scientists are now saying that it was wise.

It is not suggested that the great metropolis of the country is likely to be visited by an earthquake. However, the experts who ought to know say that the study of earthquakes points to their occurrence in definite lines or belts of weakness over the earth's surface and that some of these lines pass through or near some of the largest cities in the United States, including Boston, New York and Washington.

What is known as the east coastal line extends along the Atlantic from a point south of the mouth of Chesapeake Bay north far above Newfoundland. The Pacific Coast line skirts both the North and South American continents. The transcontinental line extends from Southern California east to and across the Mississippi Valley, with a lateral running north and south in the Middle West. Still another line starts in the Arctic regions near Alaska and runs south and east through Canada to the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River.

PROTECTION

Millions of people live in the constant shadow of a possible earth disturbance while the property values in these areas runs into the billions. It is for the protection of life and property that scientists call attention to the earthquake menace. They say that it is of extreme importance that an intensive seismological survey be made of the United States and Canada, an undertaking that has been neglected because its possible value has not been realized. They also insist that it is highly desirable that architects, engineers, and builders develop proper foundations and earthquake-proof structures for those sections that may be visited by earth tremors. Buildings of the type prevalent in most of our cities would mean an appalling disaster in case of a severe shock in any of the cities that are situated along the faults or lines of earth weakness in this country.

What is called the transcontinental zone in the United States extends eastward from Southern California along about the thirty-fifth degree of latitude and as it crosses the Mississippi sends a branch up and down that stream, the northern spur also branching off up the Ohio and running thence easterly to the Atlantic Coast, following the coastal ranges up to Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland.

In the oceans are to be found depressions that are marked on the charts as "deeps," and these are established centers of earthquake activities, most of the severe shocks of recent years having occurred along lines of weakness close to one or more of these deeps.

MORE THAN ONE A WEEK

There are, according to recognized authorities, from 60 to 70 world-shaking earthquakes to be expected every year. This means an average of more than one a week, and if each one was a disaster there would doubtless be a great deal more insomnia in the world than there is.

However, while the great majority of these tremors may be classified as world-shaking they are not always fraught with tragic consequences. The seismograph in Washington frequently registers the telltale zigzag line, but residents of the nation's capital do not lose much sleep on that account and have had as yet no occasion for serious alarm.

Supplementing the fashion display was a gorgeous ballet spectacle staged by Lois Fuller and her Parisian dancing girls.

OLDFIELD RACES

The veteran Barney Oldfield set the pace for the drivers at Tanforan and in his wake were such noted stars of the speedway as Harry Hartz, Eddie Hearne and many others. The track was in fine condition, the time was fast and there was a large and colorful crowd to witness the races.

In the Labor Day parade tomorrow morning there are to be more than forty special floats. It is expected that never before in the history of California will the dignity and achievements of labor have been pictured so gloriously as in this parade. Artists and decorators have been working for several weeks building the floats that will picture the activities of labor in the various crafts. Many of the exhibits will be "practical," and there will be actual bridges built, cakes baked, etc. The parade is in nine divisions.

FIREWORKS DISPLAY

At the fireworks display in Civic Center tomorrow evening the main exhibit will be a set piece representing the clasped hands of labor across the world. A literary and musical program is to precede the grand ball in the Civic Auditorium and many special features are planned for this event.

The Embarcadero fieste grande, the joy zone of the Diamond Jubilee, runs along every day and every night. The zone is a mile and a half of San Francisco's broad waterfront, extending south from Howard street. Here the carnival spirit reigns supreme, and there is informal entertainment all the time for the Jubilee visitors who are unable or disinclined to attend the more formal events.

TUJUNGA, Sept. 6. — Several thousand persons yesterday and today attended the fifth Moon Festival of the Tujungans, which is being celebrated here in the Garden of the Moon, with various exhibit and entertainment features. A big tent housing industrial displays is one of the features of this year's festival, presided over by Leon Carr of the Tujunga Chamber of Commerce, and George B. Shaffer of the Valley Center Improvement League. The festival is in the nature of an old-fashioned county fair, with modern-day improvements, and will continue until Monday night.

LORDS HIT IN CANADA CAMPAIGN

Upper House Abolishment to be Asked by Premier in Federal Election Drive

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OTTAWA (Ont.) Sept. 6.—Laying the blame at the door of the upper house for failure of closer co-operation between Canada and the United States in halting the great trek of beer and liquor from this side of the border into Uncle Sam's domain, it was announced tonight that one of the high lights of the dominion federal election campaign will be an appeal from Premier King to the people of Canada asking for the abolishment of Canada's House of Lords.

The Premier charges that the upper house threw out or emasculated measures passed in the House of Commons for social and moral reform, restriction of gambling, of railway aid for the State-owned system, extension of rural credits and measures of concern to returned disabled war veterans and labor.

He also charges that ex-Premier Right Hon. Arthur Meighen has fallen but a step short of being a propagandist for annexation with the United States and that his "blue-ruin" cry in Canada has kept the United States money out of this country and caused the great trek of Canadians from their native heath to Uncle Sam's domain.

INCREASE ARMIES

A French communique today reports that Abd-el-Krim has ordered a levy en masse in all the territory under his control and will have between 100,000 and 150,000 fighters under arms in a few days.

The Spanish directorate rushed 15,000 troops to the defense of Tetuan from Malaga and Ceuta last night and this morning and is reported to be sending 30,000 more tonight.

On the French front Marshal Petain has 200,000 men, but on account of the mountains has only been making one five-mile advance weekly and is still twenty miles from the Spanish Riff frontier.

The French and Spanish both are preparing for big offensives this week, but the crushing of Krim has been definitely delayed until 1926 or 1927.

The coming offensive is bound to have more profound reactions in France and Spain than in the Riff itself, where Krim can hold out for years.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE]

JERUSALEM, Aug. 15. — The Hebrew Opera Company, organized only two years ago, has proved that it can successfully conduct opera in Palestine. The company has produced seven operas with a total of fifty-one performances and the proceeds have been more than enough to cover investment and expenditures. The company has grown from a small group of enthusiastic opera lovers, mobilized by Dr. Golinkin, a former conductor of Leningrad.

ADMITS KILLING KIDNAPED GIRL

Youth Also Slays Chauffeur to Get Death Car

Held for New Examination on Record of Insanity

Two Mothers Prostrated by New Jersey Crime

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Harrison Noel, 20 years of age, son of a New York attorney and former Harvard student, once an asylum inmate broke down late today in the Montclair police headquarters and confessed that he had kidnaped and then murdered Mary Daly, 6 years of age, last Friday.

The youth then led detectives to a lonely spot near a stone quarry, on Preakness Mountain, Little Falls, N. J. He guided them to a clump of bushes and the body of the child was found. She had been shot twice but apparently no other crime had been attempted.

Standing over the small form and proudly admitting that he "had put two bullets into her," Noel calmly confessed to another murder. He admitted that he had shot Raymond Pierce, negro taxicab chauffeur, through the back of the head. This crime, he said, was to gain possession of Pierce's automobile.

NO MOTIVE GIVEN

Noel gave no motive for his deeds. He refused to tell anything about why he had stolen and killed the child. He did admit that he had telephoned a demand for $4000 ransom, however, and at one point in his examination when he had admitted the kidnaping but was maintaining that the girl had been unharmed, he offered to tell all for $4000 in cash. The youth made his admissions after he had been grilled almost continuously from 6 p.m. Saturday night until 5 p.m. today. Brilliant mentally at times, and then seemingly clouded as his brain dimmed, he had fenced with the police officials skilfully. He seemed to have no fatigue as they took turns in questioning him and his answers were ready. Occasionally he would lapse into silence and just return a stare to all queries.

He maintained his poise even when his mother was brought into headquarters at 1 o'clock this morning. Mother and son were closeted alone. She begged him to tell for she knew he had been demented at one time. He persistently declined to speak.

Then David S. Daly, father of the slain girl, was sent for. Daly, broken by the long strain, reached the room at 4 o'clock in the morning. He sought to persuade the youth to open his lips. The same calm gaze met his entreaties. The father, worn to a frantic state, tried to leap at the young man. The police held him back. Daly in a revulsion of emotion fell on his knees before the boy. He prayed for him to tell and then again pleaded with Noel. The youth held out.

Finally, long after the father had gone back to comfort his prostrated wife, Noel admitted he had snatched the girl from near her home. He insisted that she was safe with a family in Little Falls. He then made his demand for money, offering to return Mary safe and sound if the money was given him. A check was offered. He spurned it. Then detectives scurried around Montclair in the dawn of Sunday and got $4000 in cash. Noel had changed his mind when the detectives got back.

What caused the young man to finally confess, the police did not disclose. Neither did they disclose all of the story until Noel had taken them to the hiding-place of his victim.

Announcement of the solution of the dual crime was made by Chief of Police Edward S. Reilly, through Capt. James Mason in command of the detectives on the staff of Essex County Prosecutor John Bigelow.

In making the statement, Capt. Mason said that Noel will be charged with his crime in two counties. He will face a charge of kidnaping and atrocious assault with intent to kill in Essex county. The assault charge rises out of his shooting of John Sandine, chauffeur for Joseph A. Bower, vice-president of the New York Trust Company. Sandine was shot in the head as he pursued Noel. The chauffeur positively identified his assailant today. The youth will be arraigned Tuesday before Recorder Trimble at Montclair.

FOUR CHARGES LIKELY

In favor of the fact that Preakness Mountain, where Noel killed Mary at 2 a. m. on Friday, is in Passaic county, he will be charged with murder there. An autopsy was in progress at Little Falls tonight to determine whether the child had been criminally assaulted and on the result will depend whether four major crimes will be charged against the youth.

Capt. Mason said a strong case had been made out against Noel even before he confessed. He said detectives had found a .30 caliber automatic pistol in Noel's possession. It was steel jacketed bullets of that weight that killed Mary and Pierce and wounded Sandine.

Mrs. Anne Noel, mother of Noel, was told of her son's confession by reporters. When the newspapermen went to the big house at 295 Upper Mountain avenue, only the confession of the kidnaping had been elicited from her son.

"I know that my son is demented and I thank God that he has confessed," she said, tears streaming down her cheeks. Then she added this pathetic prayer:

"And I only pray that the child is safely found."

Mrs. Noel is a writer and a contributor to the Atlantic Monthly.

MRS. NOEL COLLAPSES

She kept murmuring to herself: "If only the little baby is saved; if only the little baby is saved!"

She was told that her son insisted that Mary was unhurt and alive.

"Merciful God!" she cried. "If it's only true."

Later when the full story of her son's crime came out, Mrs. Noel collapsed. She was under the care of the family physician tonight and her condition was reported to be causing alarm.

The Daly's may never see the body of little Mary. At 8 o'clock, less than two hours after she was found, a deputation composed of Police-Chief Reilly, Detective Gallagher of Montclair, and two Jersey City officers went to the Daly home. There was the usual crowd about the home. Reilly asked for Daly and was told he was asleep.

"Want him," he said gently.

Daly was told of his child's fate by Chief of Police Reilly.

"Oh, my God," cried the stricken man, as he threw up his hands. He staggered to a chair and buried his face in his hands. Gradually he regained his composure to some extent. Then Daly went back to his wife's bedside. She awakened soon and the father, with trembling lips and halting words, told her. She sank back unconscious without a word.

DETAILS OF CRIME

Detectives tonight said Noel lied and twisted his tale frequently. At first they said he insisted he had kidnaped Mary and left her in the woods at his rendezvous by Van Giesen's gap, going there with food for her Friday night. Subsequently he admitted, they said, killing her, without delay, after shooting her and getting away.

Noel confessed he killed Pierce, shooting him Thursday from the back seat, then reaching over and yanking the emergency brake, stopping the car. He climbed in front and drove three miles with the dead negro jolting beside him in the darkness. Then he dumped the corpse in the bushes by Peckman Creek, where it was found Friday night by Herman Mattz.

He said he then drove the open car along the lower Notch road to Bradford road, and went in the blind road at Van Giesen's Gap, where he previously had hidden his own car. He left the stolen car and drove home Thursday night in his own car. This, the police point out, indicated premeditation of the complete crime. His own car was the give-away.

Friday morning he left home in his own car and got the open car again. He kidnaped Mary Daly a few blocks from his own home and was chased by Sandine, whom he shot. He then killed little Mary, he said, hiding her body, and then going back and changing cars again, abandoning the open car. This completed the plan.

WILL STUDY SANITY

Inquiry at the asylum where Noel was confined disclosed that he had gone insane through depression occasioned by a falling off in his scholastic brilliancy. He was committed to the Essex County Hospital for the mentally afflicted at Overbrook, N. J., February 23, last. He escaped on June 28. He was picked up in this city on June 29, in a coma. His father claimed him that night. The boy went with his father to the institution on July 28, and passed a test. Physicians said today that at the time the youth was in full possession of his mind. They are inclined to the belief that his mind is sound now, but admitted that more thorough tests will be necessary before this can be definitely determined.

Noel was taken to the hospital today after Dr. Guy Payne, superintendent of the institution had been called into the police examination at headquarters and had observed him. Dr. Payne suggested that the youth be subjected to further scrutiny by Dr. H. G. Smith, assistant superintendent. Dr. Smith said the youth appeared to be perfectly normal and self-possessed, even when admitting the kidnaping.

A crowd of 2000 persons was outside the prison of Noel tonight at 9 o'clock. The crowd was increasing in numbers steadily. Twelve policemen were stationed outside the building. Seventy additional policemen and State troopers were reported to be inside the headquarters. The crowd appeared to be calm enough and apparently had been drawn there simply out of curiosity. Here and there, however, younger men engaged in angry discussion of the crime.

MITCHELL CALM ON FISHING TRIP

Navy officials will study carefully the complete statement before issuing a response, Mitchell's only reply was an expressive grunt of impatience. He gave utterance to the same sort of exclamation when mention first was made of his possible arrest and then amplified the exclamation by declaring he was not worrying over such a probability.

The great value of aeronautics in the cause of the Allied forces during the World War will be one angle of an educational campaign that will be emphasized, Col. Mitchell said. On certain major operations, Col. Mitchell, who formerly held the rank of brigadier-general, commanded all the Allied air forces. Today he spoke proudly, although sadly, of that honor.

"STORY UNTOLD"

"The story of the great air battles, of the service rendered the Allies by the men of the air has never been half told," he said. "We want to tell that story, for it is on the basis of experience gained from actual warfare we presume to say what changes are sorely needed in the administration of the United States Air Service. It seems almost unbelievable high Army and Navy officials want to close their minds to lessons taught us during the war—lessons learned with so much cost of blood and treasure."

The Air Service, practically to a man, is behind Col. Mitchell in his fight for changes, Maj. H. H. Hickam, an aviation official from Kelly Field, near San Antonio, said. Maj. Hickam, with Harry C. Short, civilian aide of Col. Mitchell, is a member of the fishing party.

"I personally don't blame mismanagement on any person or persons. It's simply the system that is to blame," Hickam said. "I feel that I can speak with authority. I am a West Pointer and served ten years in the cavalry before transferring to the aviation branch.

"Air men speak a language entirely different from that employed by the members of any other branch of the service."

Maj. Hickam expressed belief that the controversy will be threshed out to the good of all branches of the service.

CONGRESSMAN CURRY BLAMES INCOMPETENCY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 6.—Mistaken economy caused the Shenandoah disaster and incompetent and inexperienced officials directing United States air policies sent the P.N. 9 No. 1 to defeat and apparently cost the lives of five men aboard, according to a resume of the air failures of the week given in an interview tonight by Congressman Charles F. Curry of the Third California District.

Congressman Curry reiterated the declaration made last night that he will introduce a bill at the next session of Congress to have Col. William Mitchell promoted to the rank of major-general.

TRADE PACT WITH POLES IMPERILED

Warsaw Expulsion and Raids Cause Germany to Fear Public Opinion

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BERLIN, Sept. 6.—The negotiations for a German-Polish trade agreement will be resumed on the 15th inst., though Wilhelmstrasse is not optimistic. Poland continues to deport Germans from their homes in the Polish corridor, and it is believed that unless the expulsions are stopped Germany's public opinion will refuse to consider the trade negotiations.

The atmosphere in both countries is tense. The Berlin newspapers this morning feature the "inroads of Polish military patrols in German territory." Last night the government, to soothe public opinion, issued a communique stating that the Poles who marched in Germany were not members of the Polish army, and, besides, they overlooked the boundary lines while pursuing a horse. The public is skeptical, especially since the nationalistic papers stress that German maneuvers were being held in the district where the Polish groups overlooked the boundary line, and consequently they were "spying on the German troops."

For the first time since the war most of Germany's army will take part in the fall maneuvers in the eastern sector of the country. The army has no heavy artillery or tanks, but it will operate, "keeping in mind that these weapons exist," the Bosen Zeitung declares, adding that it may even use cardboard tanks to make it easier to train the soldiers to keep the modern weapons in mind.

HIGH CIVIL JOBS OPEN TO WOMEN

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Sept. 6.—Englishwomen may henceforth aspire to filling the highest posts in the civil service, for another barrier against women's advance into professions hitherto reserved for men was removed recently when for the first time women were admitted to the difficult examinations for Class 1, the highest administrative grade in that service.

The thirty-four women who are competing on equal terms with men are all university graduates, most of them from the women's colleges at Oxford and Cambridge. If they succeed, they will receive appointments carrying salaries beginning with $1000 to $2000 a year, plus bonus, the same for women as for men, and they may rise by merit and seniority to permanent secretaryships, where salaries range from $15,000 to $17,500 a year.

MITCHELL MAY LOSE POSITION

Chief of the Army Air Service and sent to Texas, the ranking officials of the Army, to whom his activities had been a constant source of irritation, thought he would be out of the way.

WOULD LIKE CHANCE

They would much prefer not to take notice of him, particularly in view of their belief that he would like nothing so well as to be court-martialed and given a further chance to put forward his views. His dismissal from the Army, they realize, might give Col. Mitchell a chance to take the lecture platform, where he could bombard the War and Navy department chiefs without restriction and possibly further the movement for a separate Air Service more effectively than if he remained in uniform.

Friends of Col. Michell within the Air Service, it was learned today, are disturbed over his action. They fear that some of his statements were a little too sweeping in their nature and that he will have considerable difficulty in substantiating them. Failure to make them good, they think, will cause a public reaction which will cause a public reaction which will injure the cause of a separate Air Service independent of the War and Navy Departments.

The Mitchell affair, together with the Shenandoah disaster, the failure of the Pacific naval plane venture and other developments are certain to bring the whole subject of aviation prominently before Congress at the coming season. Demands for a new investigation of the question with all its ramifications are expected to be made as soon as Congress convenes in December. Members of the House Committee on patents which conducted an inquiry in the last session may seek new power or there may be a move for the appointment of a special committee of the House.

HOUSE COMMITTEES

The House Committee on Appropriations is certain to devote considerable attention to the matter in connection with requests for funds for Army and Navy Air for funds for Army and Navy Air Service activities and the House Committees on Military and Naval Affairs also can scarcely avoid the subject. The bill for the creation of a separate Air Service, in behalf of which Col. Mitchell appeared before Congressional committees last session, will be introduced. The administration opposed the bill in the last session and will continue to do so.

Secretary of the Navy Wilbur again declined to comment on Col. Mitchell's criticism of the Navy with respect to the Shenandoah disaster and the loss of the naval plane in the Pacific. There were intimations that in due course the Navy Department will disprove some of Col. Mitchell's assertions. Results of the inquiry being conducted into the circumstances surrounding the Shenandoah disaster are being awaited in this connection.

SHENANDOAH CREW FREED OF BLAME

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CALDWELL (O.) Sept. 6.—There was no negligence or misconduct on the part of any officer or member of the crew of the Shenandoah, according to the naval court of inquiry which was assembled here to investigate the wreck of the giant dirigible which brought death to fourteen of its personnel.

The wreck was due to a line squall and the impacts of a succession of rushing currents of air so powerful that no vessel of the Shenandoah's form of construction could withstand them.

The members of the court made their final inspection of portions of the wreck at Ava, O., today and returned to Caldwell this afternoon to draft their report for presentation to the general court of inquiry which has been instructed to assemble at Lakehurst, N. J., next week.

BUCKLED IN MIDAIR

"It has been definitely determined," said Capt. George W. Steele, commander of the Lakehurst station, "that there was no remissness of duty. We do not believe it would have been humanly possible to have set the ship on an even keel and to have prevented the catastrophe after the first terrific blast of air struck her. It is definitely settled that the ship buckled and broke apart in midair."

It has been established that the Shenandoah broke apart when at an altitude of 2100 feet, that reading being the last recorded by the barograph.

Rear-Admiral C. W. Dyson, inspector-general of the Navy, who came here as the personal representative of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, accompanied the members of the court of inquiry in their inspections today and will make a special report to him. He declined to make any comment on his observations.

OFFERED AS SCRAP

The remains of the huge "queen of the air" will be put to prosaic uses. The vast amount of aluminum used in its construction will be melted down and recast into lowly kitchen utensils, in all probability. The Navy Department has instructed officials here at the scene of the wreck to advertise the wreckage for sale to the highest bidder without delay. Representatives of several metal companies are already on the ground and are preparing to submit bids.

Thousands of souvenir-hunting motorists rode today to Ava and Sharon, O., where huge remnants of the vessel lay, but were held back by the bayonets of State militiamen.

HELIUM DECLARED DANGEROUS MEDIUM

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—"The only way to avoid a new disaster similar to that of the Shenandoah is to return to the use of hydrogen instead of helium," Dr. Hugo Eckener declared today, carefully adding, "provided the intimations which have reached Berlin are correct. Fear of losing the valuable helium was the cause of many minor difficulties experienced in the Shenandoah's flights.

"It is probable that when the ship was soaring upward several gas cells burst, all the gas in these cells escaping. This weakened the body of the ship, which for strength relies to a great extent on the pressure of the gas cells. Once several of them are entirely empty, even a slight storm is sufficient to bend and break the structure. The sudden loss of gas explains the rapidity with which the Shenandoah fell to the ground.

"Capt. Anton Heinen believes the saving of the valuable gas caused the accident. I must add that one of the fundamental rules of flying a Zeppelin in entering a storm area with a heavy airship is to exhaust part of the gas, especially after a long flight, because the airship is always lighter than normally then, having used great quantities of fuel and its ballast having been reduced. It is probable that the Shenandoah already was light when it reached the storm area after its long trip. If hydrogen had been used nobody would have hesitated to lose part of it instead of risking a rupture of some of the cells before the ship was tossed upward in the storm.

OTHER DIFFICULTIES

"Several times the Shenandoah experienced difficulties in landing because to save helium not enough gas was exhausted to increase the weight of the ship downward bound.

"All these discussion are of a minor value as far as the Shenandoah is concerned. The fundamental cause of the disaster was that the tornado swept her to a tremendous height, it lost gas too suddenly and acquired sudden weight, which precipitated her to the ground."

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 6.—Despite intermittent showers which fell throughout the mornin gand afternoon thousands wended their way to the State Fair Grounds today and aided in making the second day of California's seventy-first annual exposition a great success. The feature of the day's program was a band contest in the afternoon for senior amateur and junior amateur bands of the State.

The memory of the late H. A. Jastro of Bakersfield, for many years a member of the State Board of Agriculture, which governs the State Fair, was honored when Redwood trees were planted in what is to be known as Jastro Memorial Grove, located at the south end of the agricultural pavilion.

Gov. Richardson used a silver spade in putting the first shovelful of earth into each tree hole, while Judge E. C. Hart of the Third District Court of Appeals delivered a eulogy in behalf of Jastro, who was one of the best-known cattlemen in the West.

John M. Perry, a member of the Agricultural Board and chairman of the committee on agriculture and horticulture, today announced the following judges to pass on the displays in the agricultural pavilion:

George P. Weldon, pomologist of the Chaffey Junior College of Agriculture at Ontario; Dr. W. H. Chandler of the University of California; Fred C. Brosius of the State Department of Agriculture, and William Harrison, horticulturalist. Thirty counties are exhibiting this year and their displays are original and striking. the southern counties have particularly attractive exhibits.

Los Angeles county has a large booth constructed along the lines of the old missions, even to the great bells hanging from the ceiling. Stacks of grapes, peaches, oranges and other fruits and field products of the southern county fill the booth. There are a myriad of soft lights about the exhibit.

The Riverside county exhibit savors of the early Spanish period, with its Spanish art, Indian baskets and tapestries, the principal fruits grown in the county including dates are artistically arranged in the booth.

Lemons, oranges and avocadoes are featured in the exhibit being shown by Orange county, and these products are set off with a large relief map, which depicts every city, town and hamlet in the county.

AIR TOURIST CAMP OPENS IN MICHIGAN

Aerial Meet Concluded in Which Thirty Ships Took Part

BATTLE CREEK (Mich.) Sept. 6.—The first aerial tourist camp in the world has been opened by the city of Battle Creek at the town's new civic airport, where a successful three-day aviation meet was concluded recently.

More than thirty commercial ships and fifteen various types of Army ships participated in the meet. Approximately 15,000 air miles were flown without an accident and officials said 37,000 persons attended. Prize money to the winners amounted to $3500.

The show comprised five speed races for the commercial craft, a speed trial by the Selfridge Field fliers in Curtiss PW 8 pursuit ships, parachute jumping, sky-writing, bombing exhibitions and several unique contests.

The field is the result of five years of effort on the part of the local Chamber of Commerce. It has 150 acres, is only three miles from the center of town and is ideally laid out. The field is the only municipal airport in Southern Michigan. There is only one other in the State, the one at Cheboygan.

TABLET HONORS WORLD FLYERS

Bronze Plate Dedicated by Maine Citizens

Marks Spot of Landing on American Soil

Dignitaries of Nation at Ceremony

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BRUNSWICK (Me.) Sept. 6.—A giant boulder, bearing a plate of bronze, has been dedicated by the citizens of this State to mark for all time the spot where airmen of the United States Army first set foot on the shores of their homeland after they had made history by being the first to circle the world in the air.

Citizens of half, if not more, of the States of the nation joined with the proud home folks in a rousing demonstration, which came as, with planes of the Army and Navy roaring overhead, members of the Maine National Guard tore away a canvas and bared to the cheering thousands the rugged monument of natural rock.

Before the unveiling, dignitaries of the nation and State, together with representatives of the Army, Navy and Congress, the latter represented by Senator Hale, chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee, voiced a verbal tribute to the flyers.

Facing the tablet as it was unveiled stood Lieut. Leight Wade, commander of the air cruiser Boston, of the history-making ships of the air. When he arose to talk, as the final speaker of the day, he was accorded a tremendous ovation.

The tablet is a wonderful one. It is of bronze, mounted near the top of the large boulder and shows two globes, representing the two hemispheres, with a band surrounding them, reading: "Maine's tribute to the American 'round-the-world aviators." It shows three airplanes making for the water off Mere Point and then bears the following inscription:

"On the shore of Mere Point, Casco Bay, Me., 200 feet west of this spot, on September 5, 1924, the United States Army 'round the-world aviators, after starting westward from Seattle, Wash., April 6, 1924, made their first landing on the soil of the United States. To this point, they covered a distance of 22,369 miles in 153 days, actual flying time 300 hours. They arrived at Seattle, September 28, 1924, and there completed the first air flight around the globe, a distance of 26,103 miles in 176 days, actual flying time 375 hours, 11 minutes.

"The personnel and airplanes were: Air Cruiser Chicago, First Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith in command; First Lieutenant Leslie Arnold. Air Cruiser New Orleans, First Lieutenant Eric H. Nelson, Second Lieutenant John Harding, Jr. Air Cruiser Boston First Lieutenant Leigh Wade; Second Lieutenant Henry H. Ogden, Cruiser Boston from Seattle to point near Iceland and sank there August 3, 1924. Officers proceeded by steamer to Pictou, N. S., where in Boston II they flew to Seattle.

"Air Cruiser Seattle, Maj. Frederick E. Martin, Sergt. Alva L. Harvey, wrecked off Alaskan Coast April 20, 1924.

"This memorial erected 1924 by order of the Governor and Council of the State of Maine to commemorate a grand achievement." ment."

At the close of the ceremonies, hats were doffed and military and naval men stood at salute as a huge American flag, the gift of Mrs. Lawrenc Parkhurst, was raised to the top of a lofty pole donated to the boulder plot by the Cottagers' Association.

COLD GRIPS EUROPE

Unseasonal Fall Driving Many Americans Back Home

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, Sept. 6.—September has turned traitor upon England, leaving thousands of vacationists, including many Americans, shivering from icy draughts, which have suddenly descended from the pole and have turned summer into bleakest winter, placing overcoats and fires in great demand. Frost, rain and in many northern places, snow has not improved the drooping spirits of those Americans who have made England and Scotland the last lap in their European tour.

The temperature went down as low as 36 deg. and the hottest spot only managed to squeeze 56 deg. from the thermometer. A fifty-mile gale blew in the Irish Channel and high seas swamped some coast resorts. The people refused to be consoled by reports of an airman who went up to a height of 19,500 feet and reported it was much colder up there.

A party of Americans arriving from Italy this morning, where it was 90 deg. in the shade, suffered more than anybody else. The usual mildness of September made the wintry weather seem all the more severe and is forcing many of the tourists to return home.

POLITICAL WAR WAXING WARM

Further Exposures Hinted in New York Fight

Closing Week of Campaign Promises Action

Gov. Smith Declares Hylan Ruled by Hearst

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Everybody knows that New York City is a very wicked place. New Yorkers themselves take a certain secret pride in the fact, shuddering at the thought of the deadly dullness of life away out there beyond the Hudson and Harlem rivers where virtue is reputed still to have the upperhand of vice.

Hence, it should occasion no surprise to learn that the city's rulers and would-be rulers and political leaders high and low, according to their own solemn and candid characterization of each other in this Mayoralty campaign, are more depraved, corrupt, hypocritical, mendacious, traitorous and otherwise unrighteous than in simpler communities and that their machinations and countermachinations, double and treble dealing baffle the comprehension of the average mind.

EXPOSURES LOOM

The indications are that the remarks and editorials of the week on both sides are but a sketch introduction to the exposures in store for the final week of the nominating campaign when the shocking details of secret acts and relationships of which the principal participants are accusing each other will be filled in upon proper demand.

The most sensational utterance of the campaign up to date, the one arousing the greatest interest and speculation as to its full meaning, was Gov. Smith's assertion in his letter to the editor of Hearst's New York American that the life of William Randolph Hearst, journalistic crusader against iniquity in many forms, is not a fit example for the youth of our land.

"The fathers and mothers of New York," wrote Gov. Smith, "resent Mr. Hearst's interference in the politics of this city because of the example of his life is such as to make it undesirable that our youth be impressed with the fact that a man like him can wield any considerable amount of political influence in any community."

The Governor shudders and asks all others to shudder with him at the thought of such a man as Hearst ruling New York for another four years as the power behind Mayor Hylan, who, according to the Governor, has confessed his complete subserviency to the editor and whose speeches, says the Governor, are written in the sanctums of Hearst's New York newspapers.

CRITICISM ANSWERED

Just what the Governor had in mind when he referred to the undesirable influence on youth of the example of Mr. Hearst's life is not known. Mr. Smith has declined to be more specific up to date but there is reason to believe that he is ready to go more into detail in this matter if Mr. Hearst cares to challenge him to do so. Mr. Hearst replied to the Smith letter in which this animadversion upon the life of the editor occurred, ignoring the accusation except in so far as he characterized the utterance as Billingsgate and blackguardism.

Mayor Hylan had been contending all along that the whole move to deprive him of a third term was a plot of the traction barons to get rid of the only obstacle to increasing street railway fares from 5 to 8 or 10 cents.

Warming up a bit, the Mayor said that his scalp is now sought not only by the traction interests, but "underworld grafters" seeking the restoration of a wide-open town and in a letter to Senator Copeland, Democrat of New York, a Hearst partisan, Mr. Hylan said he was going to get right down to cases and show up the "moral stamina" of Walker and expose all sorts of baleful influences invoked to shelve "his honor."

Then Gov. Smith came to New York and made his opening speech against Hylan. He studiously avoided personalities and in a lengthy discussion of transportations, garbage and other municipal problems which he charged the Mayor with failing to solve, pronounced Mr. Hylan incompetent for his job.

HYLAN ANGERED

That riled Hylan right down to the roots of his red hair. He observed that he had been sufficiently competent to suit Mr. Smith eight years ago! And again four years ago when the Governor came down to the steps of the City Hall and launched the Hylan re-election candidacy with many handsome encomiums on the Hylan administration.

Gov. Smith now began to boil over. He said it was true Hylan had supported him on four elections because there was nothing else for him to do, but asserted Hylan had been against his nomination for Governor consistently. He said Hylan went to Syracuse in 1922 to do everything possible to prevent Smith from getting the nomination. Passing on to the 1924 chapter the Governor gave vent to the utterance on which Hearst based his charge that Smith, who is a Roman Catholic, had called Hylan, who is also a Roman Catholic, a Ku Kluxer.

That was all the Governor said but it brought forth a long letter from Hearst the next day charging Smith with dragging in the religious intolerance issue in an attempt to defame Hylan. Smith came back with a denial that he called his coreligionist a Kluxer and then paid his respects to Hearst's character.

The Governor said something else in that speech upon which he dearly would love to be taken to task by either Hylan or Hearst. He accused Hylan of "blind obedient subservience to a superboss, who stood over him and was the keeper of his heart, the keeper of his conscience, and the director of his political will." The superboss, of course, is Hearst and the Governor added that "Hylan cannot deny this and when he does I will give him his own words for it, given to myself."

FLOOD TOLL OF DEAD INCREASES

Ten Persons Die as Torrent Sweeps Into Town

Nine Injured and One Man Still is Missing

Damage to Washington City Not Yet Known

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WENATCHEE (Wash.) Sept. 6.—With the flood waters slowly subsiding, the toll from the cloudburst which swept the upper Squillichuck Canyon at 4:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon, tonight stood at ten dead, nine injured and one missing. Two hotels and five houses were wrecked by the flood.

The dead: Mrs. Cleveland, 50 years of age, Wenatchee; Ralph Pettit, 22, Everett, a fireman; Mary Groff, 8, Wenatchee; Evans, 75, Wetnachee; Mr. Overmand, 30, Wenatchee; Mrs. Butts, Wenatchee; Anna Earnest, 2, Wenatchee; George Groff, Florence Groff, Alice Groff, children of Mrs. Edward Groff, who was injured.

The injured: Esther Hanson, 9 years of age, Wenatchee; Mildred Hanson, 7; Dorothy Hanson, 6; Paul Hanson, 4; Etta Palmer and 4-month-old baby; Mrs. Edward Groff, Harold Groff, 13; Fanny MacDonald.

ONE MAN MISSING

Mr. MacDonald is the only one missing, according to present reports.

A roaring wall of water twelve feet high swept down from the canyon upon the Great Northern Railway terminal at Springwater, picked up five dwellings in its 100-yard path, tore them to splinters and hurled the three-story Springwater Hotel, a frame structure, sixty feet across the street. The building crashed into the Terminal Hotel, wrecking it.

The disaster came without warning. Occupants of the hotel building heard the sudden roar of the waters and attempted to escape, but many were caught and carried down with the torrent. For the most part, the victims were occupants of the dwellings. These received absolutely no warning and few were saved.

This morning water four feet deep was still swirling over tangled wreckage of dwellings and houses. Box cars and locomotives were buried over the wheels in mud, washed down by the torrent.

RELIEF GIVEN

The local American Legion and Red Cross organization are doing relief work. The National Guard is in charge of patrol duty, and the Salvation Army is also on the scene.

Clasped tightly in Mrs. Butts's arms, Fanny MacDonald, 6 years of age, scattered, bruised and muddy, was pulled from the ruins of a house at 9 o'clock this morning after being in the wreckage all night. Mrs. Butts was dead, but her crushed body had sheltered the child, who asked for "Mamma." She had been listed among the missing.

Heavy damage was done to East Wenatchee orchards by a heavy hail which fell at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Five trains are stalled here.

PHILIPPINES INCREASE SCHOOL EXPENDITURES

Improvement Declared Need of Private Institutions by Island Educator

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

MANILA, Sept. 6.—The annual report of Vice-Governor Eugene A. Gilmore, ex-officio secretary of public instruction, shows that the Philippine government spent $7,336,000 for public schools during 1924, an increase of $115,000 over the previous year.

There was a total enrollment of 1,126,736 in the 7746 schools in the Philippines, the males numbering 674,232 and the females 452,504. During the year 26,339 teachers were employed, including 326 Americans. Discussing the private schools of the Philippines, the report says:

"Much remains to be accomplished in the improvement of the education offered by private schools. The instruction is too academic in character. Industrial education, although it has received greater attention than heretofore by the authorities of the private schools, still needs development. It may be stated that one-half of the schools do satisfactory industrial work, one-fourth do the work fairly, and the other fourth do nothing at all.

"One of the problems of the private schools is found in the teaching staff. Many excellent teachers are being employed, but the majority do not possess qualifications needed for effective instruction due to the low salaries and temporary employment and the fact that the majority of such teachers are employed in other places."

BONES OF ANCIENTS FOUND

Skeletons of Fifteen Mound Builders Taken from Graves by Kentucky Exploring Party

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LEXINGTON (Ky.) Sept. 6.—What is considered by Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, noted University of Kentucky scientist, to be the finest collection of mound builders' skeletons ever discovered in Kentucky have been uncovered in Nicholas county by an exploring party composed of Funkhouser and Prof. W. S. Webb of the University of Kentucky, and W. J. Curtis of Mt. Olivet, Funkhouser announced here today.

Fifteen adult skeletons with a varied collection of bone and shell ornaments worn by mound builders comprised the trophies.

The fifteen skeletons, carefully sacked, were brought to Lexington tonight when Funkhouser and Webb returned home, and will be mounted and placed in the university museum.

The skeletons were found on the farm of S. S. Clay, who did not know of the presence of the ancient burial grounds until the bones were unearthed by the archaeologists. The skeletons were taken from a mound which measured approximately fifty feet across and five or six feet above the level of the surrounding ground. The mound has for many years been under cultivation and the plowing and harrowing over it has greatly reduced the original height, in Funkhouser's opinion.

Most of the skeletons were found at a depth of seven or eight feet, some being at a greater depth than others.

Beads, shells, forehead ornaments and pendants were found in great numbers, Funkhouser said, and utmost care was exercised in unearthing these fragile relics. The skeletons were those of adults and are practically the same size as humans of the present day. One skeleton was found without a head indicating decapitation before burial.

BIG TREE PARKS' FUTURE SHOWN

Speakers at Opening of Highway Enthusiastic

Playgrounds Held Greatest California Asset

Tribute Given Pioneers of General's Route

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

GIANT FOREST (Sequoia National Park) Sept. 6.—Sequoia and General Grant national parks are not only two of the greatest western assets but will ultimately become among the most magnificent national playgrounds in America, was the sentiment of speakers gathered round the banquet table in celebration of the opening of the General's Highway to the public. George Welch of Three Rivers, former civil engineer and surveyor, who ran the original survey on the old Giant Forest Road in 1900, was honor guest on this occasion.

Mr. Welch, who will celebrate his ninety-fifth birthday in October, had not visited Giant Forest for twenty-one years. He was greeted with cheers from the crowd, being visibly moved with emotion.

"SUPREME PARK"

Benjamin M. Maddox of Visalia, former vice-president and manager of the Mt. Whitney Power Company, which built a portion of the original road over which the General's Highway passes, told of the fight made in the early days to bring attention of the Sequoia and Gen. Grant National Park regions to attention of officials at Washington. He mentioned that with the coming of Stephen T. Mather, director of national parks, to Giant Forest in 1912, hiking from Hospital Rock with Mrs. Mather for his first view of the big trees, the most important chapter in history of the region was written as immediately his utmost influence was secured in perpetuating and developing these parks.

Howard Hays, connected with Yellowstone National Park for fifteen years, and now associated with Sequoia National Park, declared science values this park equal to any other national playground in America, but that it should be preserved as a great primitive park and that it is "perhaps destined to be the supreme national park in America." Impressions of the forest primeval to the city man, the problem of preserving it for the public and yet providing facilities to care for the visitors, formed bases for an interesting talk by Myron Hunt, architect of Pasadena, who has designed many buildings in national parks of America.

ASSET FOR WEST

Carl McStay of the Automobile Club of Southern California emphasized the asset of the national parks of the West, declaring that the eleven Western States should strongly unite in presenting their problem of transcontinental highways to Congress, insisting that nothing be done to curtail road appropriations.

California has had the field, he stated, for many years in recreational travel. Other States are now making a strong bid for this business and California and the entire West must look to their opportunities and build for the future with continued improvement of roads, on which depend this asset of progress. He cited the General's Highway as an example of highways needed.

A tribute of appreciation was paid to people of the San Joaquin Valley, Tulare county and the State Highway Commission in connection with assistance given in making possible construction of the Generals' Highway by Stephen T. Mather, director of national parks. He declared government officials had learned that a high grade of road should be maintained with least possible chance of danger, yet retain scenic beauties along the way. He spoke of co-operatin of the bureau of public roads and said at an early conference with that body development of roads in some of the larger parks of the West will be considered, this project having support of the powers at Washington.

TRIBUTE IS PAID

He expressed hope that the greater development of the Sequoia Roosevelt National Park might come into its own next year. Tribute was also given to Col. George W. Stewart of Visalia, who was largely responsible for first creation of these parks, and he commended the work of Col. John R. White, superintendent of Sequoia and General Grant National Parks.

A resume of the creation of these parks was given by Col. Stewart, who declared that anything struggling as long as the big trees for a chance to live should be given all the national and public protection possible. Congressman Barbour declared he did not believe Congress will curtail building of public roads and that if any of the officials doubted the wisdom of expending money to develop park roads in the West, all that was needed to convince them and return them to Washington enthusiastic was to bring them out and personally conduct them over the region involved. He stated that the Generals' Highway was not a local institution, of interest just to the valley, Tulare county and California, but was destined to become one of the most magnificent mountain roads of the West.

STRUGGLE TOLD

W. A. Collins, chairman of the Fresno County Supervisors, told of Fresno county's desire to improve the region and of their willingness to co-operate.

C. H. J. Hausch, Visalia, Tulare County Supervisor, in whose district the Generals' Highway lies, told of struggles in building the road and spoke with pride of its achievement. W. M. Austin, resident engineer at Giant Forest, and J. B. Woodson of Fresno, division engineer of the State Highway Commission, spoke of construction of the Generals' Highway.

Col. John R. White, superintendent of Sequoia and General Grant, welcomed the enthusiastic crowd to Giant Forest and proudly acted as chairman on this memorable occasion. The Generals' Highway, which is so called as it will finally connect General Sherman tree in Giant Forest and Gen. Grant Tree in Gen. Grant National Park, is open for up travel during this Labor Day vacation. Visitors must leave Three Rivers not later than 5 p.m. in order to make the last evening check at Alder Creek station at 5:30 o'clock. Tomorrow evening it will be closed for construction, but probably will be open to permanent travel by Christmas.

PLATICAS DE LOS LUNES

Por el Profesor R. Guerrero
DEL DEPARTAMENTO ESPANOL DE "THE TIMES"

Número 360

En el primer párrafo de la Plática 358 me pusieron "femina" por "femenina". En el segundo, "periendo terreno" por "perdiendo terreno"; "cambinamos" por "cambiamos", y "llevaré" por "llevare". (En la Plática 359, apartado e), dice "Pago" por "Pagó", y "pagarâ" por "pagara".

El Diccionario Universal de Historia y Geografía (Méjico, 1853) nos dice en el artículo "Dueña" que, aunque se distingue con este nombre a la mujer de edad madura a quien se confía el gobierno interior y económico de una casa, el título de "dueña" se aplica más particularmente a las mujeres asalariadas que había antiguamente en las casas de los grandes y personas de distinción para autorizar los estrados y para acompañar a las doncellas y a las esposas jóvenes, vigilando su conducta.

Entre los más conocidos apotegmas que mencionan a las dueñas, citaré los siguientes: "Cien dueñas en un costal, todas dicen un cantar", refrán que indica que cuando se reúnen las comadres, no hacen más que murmurar del prójimo. "Cual digan dueñas" es expresión figurada y familiar con que se explica que uno quedó mal, o fué mal tratado, principalmente de palabra; aplícase también al que está mal parado, y asimismo a aquellos que quedan sin blanca. "Parecerse a la dueña Quintañona" es locución figurada que significa "ser repugnante y ridícula una persona". No está por demás advertir a mis lectores que el adjetivo "quintañón, quintañona", se deriva de "quintal", por alusión a las cien libras de que éste se compone, y tiene el mismo significado que el adjetivo "centenario-ria", aplicándose por lo tanto a la persona que tiene cien años o por ellos anda.

Hacia la mitad del párrafo tercero del artículo de Z. (Pl. 352) nos encontramos con la expresión "pollo bien". "Pollo", como mis lectores sin duda saben, significa "mozo de pocos años"; pero lo que probablemente ignoren es que en "pollo bien" está incorrectamente empleado el adverbio "bien" como adjetivo, para dar a la citada expresión el significado de "pollo de buena sociedad". No sólo es ella un inaceptable solecismo que debemos desechar, a pesar de que a cada momento nos lo mienten por los ojos los reporteros y por los oídos los pollos ultra-modernos, sino que es traducción literal del solecismo francés "jeune homme bien". Aún no aceptan los diccionarios franceses esta adjetivación del adverbio "bien", por más que en la conversación francesa sean usadísimas, así la citada expresión, como sus análogas: "une dame très bien", "un monsieur bien", etc.

En el cuarto párrafo del artículo que venimos comentando topamos con la oración: "Hiciéronlas los más desenfadados escritores blanco de sus desenfados . . .", en la que "blanco" no es adjetivo, sino substantivo, y significa, según el diccionario oficial, "un aparto pintado por lo común de 'blanco' con círculos negros, o de negro con círculos 'blancos', que se fija a una distancia determinada, con el fin de ejercitarse en el tiro y puntería de cualquier arma, o bien para acostumbrase a medir con la vista las distancias, y a veces para conocer y calcular el alcance de los proyectiles". Equivale, pues, en inglés a "mark", "aim", "target", y la frase transcrita puede traducirse así: "The most free and easy writers made them a target for their taunts".

Al final del cuarto párrafo del artículo de Z. nos habla el escritor de la "bizarra" defensa que hizo Cervantes de las dueñas. Con toda propiedad está empleado aquí el adjetivo "bizarra", y lo subrayo tan sólo para prevenir a mis lectores contra el uso vicioso que suelen hacer de esta palabra los galiparlistas: "bizarro accidente", "bizarra coincidencia", suele oírse y leerse hoy con bastante frecuencia. hace observar justificadamente don Miguel de Toro y Gisbert. Lástima grande, agrega, que ese adjetivo de tan bizarra apostura no signifique lo mismo en castellano que en francés. "Bizarra" en castellano quiere decir "valiente", "denodado", y en francés, "extraño", "extravagante".

Al comenzar el quinto párrafo del referido artículo hallamos la voz "recluta" usada en sentido figurado. En sentido recto, "recluta" o "reclutamiento" (enrollment, draft, conscription) es la acción y efecto de alistar (enlist) reclutas (recruits). Se da también en España a los reclutas el nombre de "quintos", porque antes, para escoger a los que habían de servir en filas (serve in the ranks), se quintaba a los mozos aptos para el servicio de las armas; es decir, se sacaba por suerte uno de cada cinco de ellos.

Con trazos muy felices nos pinta Z. en el párrafo quinto a las señoras de compañía, esos pobres seres de edad indefinida, casi asexuales, en los que ya ni siquiera se adivinan las huellas de pasados encantos femeninos. Sólo sus palabras y sus modales decentes y señoriales dos testimonian que la pobre "carabina" ha alternado siempre con personas bien educadas.

En el primer párrafo de la Plática 353 habla el articulista de otro acomodo femenino que presupone pobrezas o tragedias domésticas: el del "ama de cría", "ama de leche" o "nodriza" (wet-nurse), tan común en los países latinos, y casi desconocido en los Estados Unidos. Como mis lectores seguramente saben, desígnase así a la mujer que cría a sus pechos alguna criatura ajena. Esta servidora de las familias burguesas entra a formar parte de éstas durante la lactancia del bebé, y recibe allí el trato privilegiado que sus importantes funciones exigen. Frecuentísimo espectáculo en las poblaciones españolas e hispanoamericanas es el de ver a la familia toda—padres, hijos e hijas—salir de paseo, y, abriendo o cerrando la marcha, a la emperifollada nodriza, que, en blanquísimo ropón, y entre una nube de velos y listones, traslada en sus robustos brazos al tierno bebé.

Al principio del párrafo tercero de la Plática 353 encontramos la palabra "parienta", femenino de "pariente", autorizado por el Diccionario de la Academia. Hay muchos nombres terminados en "ante", "ente", "ete", "ote", que no alteran su terminación al aplicarse a personas del sexo femenino; otros hay que cambian la "e" final en "a". Sobre el particular nos dice lo siguiente Baldomero Rivodó en sus Entretenimientos Gramaticales:

Sustantivos terminados en "ante", "ente", "ete", "ote", que truecan la "e" final para la formación del femenino: "alcahuete-ta", "almirante-ta", "asistente-ta", "comediante-ta", "danzante-ta", "elefante-ta", "farsante-ta", "figurante-ta", "gigante-ta", "hotentote-ta", "infante-ta", "intendente-ta", "mendigante-ta", "pariente-ta", "presidente-ta", "pretendiente-ta", "recitante-ta", "sirviente-ta", "teniente-ta", "Vicente-ta".

Cita luego Rivodó algunos nombres, que mencionaré en la Plática siguiente, los cuales a veces se ven con dos terminaciones. En varios de ellos la Academia no autoriza aún el cambio de terminación.

TRADE WITH ARIZONA AIM OF PARLEYS

New Business for Local Concerns Already Gained Through Co-operation

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TUCSON, Sept. 6.—Work of developing closer trade relations between Arizona and California, and of co-operation of Southern California bodies in colonization and development efforts in this State, were discussed by directors of the Arizona Industrial Congress with Frank S. Coates, representing the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, at a meeting today on Mt. Lemmon, a summer resort in this section.

Mr. Coates, who will spend some time in Arizona in connection with trade relations work, declared Arizona an important factor in the trade territory of Los Angeles and expressed the desire of Los Angeles interests to aid in the development of this State in the interests of fostering closer commercial relations.

Reports presented by the Industrial Congress showed that real progress in developing business has resulted from the co-operative proposal made only a few weeks ago. As one example, it was announced that the contract for a $1,500,000 construction program at the Copper Queen smelter at Douglas has been let to a Los Angeles firm. Further, another mining company has placed a $35,000 fabricated steel order in Los Angeles, for the first time.

An even more pronounced indication of the interest Arizona is taking in the plan was an announcement that the Salt River Valley Water-Users' Association has held up the purchase of a huge sixty-one-ton crane until Los Angeles firms can enter bids.

Proposed colonization work in Arizona, to settle the large acreage made available by reclamation projects now under way, was the principal subject at the meeting.

"The organization that is founded on right principles and maintains right practices deserves success."

ONE of the most powerful influences in California for the enhancement of property values through development is CALIFORNIA REAL ESTATE. This important periodical five years ago was just a 4-page bulletin. Today, at the beginning of its sixth year, it is a magazine that averages 60 pages, and the coming October number will be of 100 pages.

CALIFORNIA REAL ESTATE, published by the California Real Estate Association under the direction of an advisory committee, has the largest circulation of any real estate magazine west of Chicago. It is read by realty brokers, title men, property owners, and thousands of homeseekers throughout the country to whom it is sent.

The October number is the Annual Convention and Official Roster Edition of the California Real Estate Association which is to hold its 21st Annual Convention at Fresno, October 7-11. Fully three thousand persons are expected to attend this great Reunion of Realtors.

The printing of CALIFORNIA REAL ESTATE long has been entrusted to us. We also produced the fine color printing used to advertise the forthcoming convention.

Whatever your printing requirements may be—from a simple advertising circular to a full fledged magazine—we are prepared to care for them to your entire satisfaction. Let us prove what we can do for you.

LAW CONGRESS TO USE CAPITOL

Legislative Chamber Scene of Coming Session

Coolidge to Greet Envoys From Thirty Nations

Debate of World Problems Comprises Program

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Probably for the first time in history, the chambers of the Senate and House of Representatives will become available for the use of a body other than the American Congress, when the Interparliamentary Union begins a six-day meeting here on October 1. Illustrious members of foreign parliaments over the world will join American lawmakers to consider international problems, with the codification of international law forming the major topic of discussion.

The twenty-third conference of the union, as it is known officially, will bring the organization to the United States for the second time. It met in 1904 at St. Louis—the only time it has assembled in the two Americas. Thirty countries are represented in the membership and the official languages of the conference will be French, German and English. If the South American representation is large, Spanish may be added as one of the official tongues. Australia and New Zealand will not send delegates, because of elections in those lands.

INVITED BY COOLIDGE

As the conference is coming here on the invitation of President Coolidge, on request of the Senate and House the Chief Executive will officially receive the delegates. Preliminary information indicates that there will be 300 foreign parliamentarians participating, and sixty-five members of the American Congress.

Arriving in New York toward the end of September, a large group of the delegates expect to be granted the freedom of the port, thus waiving the usual customs examinations, as they have been advised to obtain diplomatic passports. A special train will carry them from New York to Washington, but a stop for an entertainment in honor of the visitors is being arranged at Philadelphia.

PROGRAM OUTLINE

The program here embraces discussion of pan-American problems; the development of international law; European customs understanding; reduction of armaments; dangerous drugs, and topics bearing on the parliamentary system in general. Questions local to one country are ruled out of the proceedings.

Mt. Vernon, the home and tomb of George Washington, will be visited by the delegates during their stay at the capital, and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States will tender them a reception and luncheon. Secretary Kellogg will preside at a State dinner at the Mayflower Hotel on October 6, supplementing the American government's cognizance of the visitors at the White House reception earlier in the day.

On October 8 and 9, the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace will entertain the visitors in New York. In their special train the delegates will go to Niagara Falls, N. Y., for a sightseeing tour on October 10 and 11.

VISIT TO CANADA

The Canadian group of the union then will take over the duty of host and the delegates will visit Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec. The final sitting of the twenty-third conference of the union will be held in the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa, where national minorities and dangerous drugs will be discussed. This probably will take place on October 13.

The 1924 conference of the union was held in Berne and in Geneva, Switzerland, where its headquarters are located. Peace by arbitration and international law is the prime object of the union.

Senator McKinley of Illinois is general chairman of the conference. Representative Burton of Ohio recently returned from Europe, where he made arrangements for the Washington gathering.

FORTUNE REPEATS SMILE

Fickle Dame Beams Upon Poor Chicagoan Twice, Giving Riches After Many Lean Years

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—For seven years James Nolan, an employee of the Chicago Telephone Company, went his weary rounds, counting the coins in the boxes at the residential phones. He listened patiently to the complaints of patrons, used diplomacy in refusing to accept slugs, buttons and other devices and averaged about 5 cents on each box he counted. The pay did not put him in the income tax list, but he was a cheerful soul.

Then, out of his wide experience, he suddenly evolved an idea and overnight he became a millionaire.

Nolan invented a pencil which enabled him to write out the sum of short nickels twice as rapidly as with the old type. Simultaneously his aunt, the wealthy widow of Matthew C. McMillan, founder of the American Window Glass Company, died in Pittsburgh, leaving an estate of $2,500,000 and one-third of it is willed to Nolan.

Mr. Nolan confirmed the news by telephone yesterday and immediately relayed the information to his wife, who has stood by valiantly during the seven lean years when he was a nickel collector.

Then he called up his office. "You owe me a commission on just one box today," he told his superior. "You can pay it or not, just as you like."

"And, finally," he told a reporter as he stepped out to buy an automobile, "I am going to buy one of those nickel telephones and endow it and I'm going to unload it every day, just for the thrill of making a check of the contents without fighting somebody."

ARMY AIRWAYS PLANE MAKES RECORD TIME

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Sept. 6. With a passenger each way and baggage weighing approximately seventy-five to one hundred pounds, what is believed to be record time over the Kelly-Scott Field army airways was made by Lieut. H. W. Sheridan, piloting the airways plane for the first time. Actual flying time on the four-day trip totaled eighteen hours and thirty-four minutes for the 1320 miles, or an average of approximately ninety-eight miles an hour. A De Haviland plane makes the weekly trip to Scott Field, Belleville, Ill., leaving Kelly Field, Monday morning and returning Thursday afternoon. The route is via Dallas, Tex., and Muskogee, Okla.

RAIL CONTRACT LET

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Sept. 6. The Walker Construction Company of this city has been awarded the contract for building the Gulf Coast Lines extension of fifty miles from Raymondville to Edinburg, Tex., in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. The Gulf Coast Lines is a part of the Missouri Pacific System. This will be the second new extension of these lines since they have passed under control of the Missouri Pacific System.

PASTOR WARNS OF EVIL FORCE MENACING LABOR

Dr. H. C. Culbertson Points Out Christian Solution to Our Industrial Problem

Declaring that civilization must be allowed to defend itself against that ignorant and vicious element which criminally advocates violence and destruction of property, Dr. Henry C. Culbertson, pastor of the Mesa Congregational Church, voiced a strong appeal for honest labor and political sanity in his sermon yesterday from The Times broadcasting station. Preaching on "The Christian Solution of Our Industrial Problems," Dr. Culbertson spoke in part as follows:

"It is fitting that Labor Day should be a distinctively American holiday. Here, above all other countries in the world, work has been honored. Whereas in old Europe work was despised, and a gentleman or nobleman was one who did not have to work here, from the beginning in colonial days our gentlemen, our noblemen, our heroes have been those who have through toil and constructive achievement won their place in our admiration.

"From the terrible hardships and privations of toilers' families a century ago, now in this land of machinery and enterprise we have made it so that the humblest homes may have conveniences and delights beyond the reach of kings in ancient times.

"Man is God-like when he works. Work is doubly glorious in these days when we can read by modern education and history the achievements of the past and take a conscious joy in sharing in that toil.

"While we can paint a wonderful picture of the glory of labor and achievement, we must also look at the dark shadows in this picture. Intricate problems must be solved by every generation as we adjust ourselves to the industrial and commercial conditions of a rapidly changing world. Earning a living on this planet has always been fraught with uncertainty and probably always will be uncertain, on account of natural conditions and human limitations beyond our control. No government can prevent crop failures. Whereas once Great Britain manufactured goods to supply such countries as China, today factories are starting in China, and hundreds of thousands of idle men in England are walking the streets in consequence. American ladies bob their hair and as a result, the Chinese industry of making hair-nets is destroyed and a whole province of workers impoverished. In our own land 158,000 coal miners have gone on strike, and that strike will cost the men $1,000,000 a day, will cost the mine owners more, and the public still more before the struggle is ended.

"In Russia a small group of men have gained control of the government and industry of that country, and by combining all political, financial and commercial power in their own hands they have set up such a concentrated tyranny as the world has not seen since the days of the Pharaohs. These few men claim to do this in the name of the proletariat, the hand laborers, but in fact we know that it is a small group of unscrupulous or deluded leaders who are exploiting the class-consciousness of ignorant workmen to get and hold for themselves unbridled power. If by rousing the jealousy of the poor against the rich, and the hand-workers against the brain-workers, a few bosses or chiefs can oust the owners and executives who have built up the industrial life of any nation, and take possession for themselves, they are not furthering the cause of freedom but the cause of tyranny and injustice.

REVOLUTION SOUGHT

"These tyrants who are exploiting Russia are maintaining an organization in America, and are attempt to foment such disturbances here as will throw this rich nation into their power. When I was in Chicago this summer I was told about a man who formerly was a candidate for the Presidency of the United States, who now is in the employ of the Russian secret revolutionary organization and is devoting his time and his brilliant abilities to promoting class hate, jealousy and the spirit of revolution among the laborers of America. When a convention of the Communist party in America was raided by officers at Bridgman, Mich., in August, 1922, abundant evidence was found showing the widespread conspiracy that is undertaking to overthrow our American institutions and American civilization. The I.W.W. in our country proclaim openly their policy to be that of direct action as distinct from political action In other words, they are not seeking by means of persuasion and the legitimate means of the ballot box to make such changes as may commend themselves after due debate to the majority of our people, but, knowing that they never can persuade a majority of our people to indorse their program, they announce their purpose to stir up such strife and destruction as shall make our present industrial system unworkable. Plainly, they are open enemies of property and enemies of our form of civilization.

"One of the most earnest discussions of our time is how to deal with these men. They claim that we ought to give them freedom of speech, and that we are false to our ideals in such laws as that against criminal syndicalism. Church organizations are being asked to protest against the imprisonment of men who have committed no overt act themselves, and who are incarcerated merely for their teachings. In response it must be said that no such trouble would ever have arisen had these Communists confined their teachings to the exerting of political influence to bring about changes in a legitimate way, according to the will of the people. To advocate violence and the destruction of property, however, is in itself a crime, and must be restrained and dealt with as a crime. They are making war against our civilization and civilization must be allowed to defend itself.

"Very different in spirit and attitude from these men, are the many sincere persons, who are seeking a solution of the problems of modern industrialism along the lines of Socialistic theories. Thousands of ministers and college professors and others of high standing believe that the adjustment of industry to the new conditions of our modern world can best be brought about through government management of all business instead of private ownership and enterprise. For years I also took this attitude, until during the war I was in Washington and saw government management of business, and what I saw completely convinced me that the path of Socialism or government ownership is not the way to prosperity and freedom, but the reverse.

"The vital defect in all Socialistic schemes is that they have never yet suggested a satisfactory method of securing efficient leaders and executives. Promotion comes in all public service, not on the basis of efficiency, but because of election, or seniority, or partisan appointment. This destroys initiative. Business fails and the people suffer unless efficiency can be produced. I earnestly believe that our individualistic system of private enterprises, voluntary co-operative enterprises, and the wide-spread ownership of great corporations through stockholding, is the system which in the long run offers the greatest possibilities for the highest development of mankind and the promotion of the public welfare. There are many evils in the business world of our day, but they are the evils of human nature and character, and they can be cured more quickly under the free conditions of our present individualistic system than would be the case if all political, financial and commercial power were concentrated in the hands of Socialistic government bosses. We have millions of business men in our land today, free and independent, who can try the great adventure of conducting their business, according to the Christian ideals, and who can prove for themselves the truth of the teachings of Jesus about brotherhood and the golden rule of service."

EXPLAINS WHAT THE THE CHURCH IS FOR

What the Church is For" is the topic of a sermon preached yesterday by Dr. M. Howard Fagan at the Wilshire Boulevard Christian Church. In part Dr. Fagan said:

"Every church building, of whatever name or creed, is a challenge to remember God, and to worship Him. The church offers necessary soul culture. This age has no greater need than a consciousness of the reality and presence of God. The church exists to proclaim Jesus Christ as man's only Savior from sin. Every man needs forgiveness. That forgiveness comes only through obedient faith in Jesus Christ.

The church exists to proclaim and to practice unity among Christ's followers. The scandal of the church is her divisions. In order to be effective the followers of Christ must be united. This church proclaims a definite program, based upon the New Testament, for the unity of all Christians. More than any other institution the church is responsible for the stability of our present civilization. No other organization has the message and purpose of the church. If the church fails these fundamentals of our civilization will perish from the earth."

DRAWS INSPIRATION FROM MOUNTAIN TRIP

The first of a series of sermons on "God of the Mountains," inspired by his hikes among the high hills of California during his vacation, was preached yesterday by Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher at the Temple Baptist Church. Dr. Brougher said in part:

"It was from a mountain side that Jesus delivered his great sermon known as 'The Sermon on the Mount.' That message is the greatest ever preached to mankind. It contains more ideals that have been translated into epigrammatic sentences than any speech ever delivered by man. Its keynote was, 'Be ye, therefore, perfect even as your Father, who is in heaven is perfect.' Jesus sought to have heavenly perfection lived on earth. His desire was to bring down heaven and put it in the hearts of people in order that they might take heaven with them when they went into the other world. On these matters He spoke with authority and a finality that astonished those who heard him. He taught things elemental, essential and fundamental. He had the authority of a divine character and a divine knowledge and a divine mission. His mountain message has been the ideal and the inspiration of all mankind. The Mount of Transfiguration was the mount of light and glory. The entrancing personality of Jesus formed by living the Sermon on the Mount radiates His whole body and the glory of heaven shines in His form and face. Jesus was everything that He taught. His transfiguration was the natural revelation of His pure soul and life. The magnetism of a kind and generous personality will attract and win others when all other things fail. What kind of a personality do you radiate as you come in touch with the needs of humanity?"

SAYS LAND IS CURSED WITH PROPAGANDISTS

Dr. E. F. Magnin of Temple B'nai B'rith, preached Friday on "The Evolution Controversy." He spoke in part as follows:

"The evolution controversy is more than an argument between some of the followers of religion and some of the followers of science. It is more than a dispute as to what constitutes truth or falsehood. It is a matter affecting the future progress and policy of our country and the place of free speech and free thought under our Constitution. If legislation is to throttle education and free expression of thought, then woe to our liberties! All through the ages Europe has been reeking with the blood of religious martyrs and men of science have died because they would not renounce what observation taught them to be true. Liberty is a priceless, precious thing. Our farthers fought and died for it. America was born and established to give birth to it. Bigotry and fanaticism, no matter how sincere the motive, of any shape, form or description, will wreck our country, overthrow our peace and well-being if we permit them to do so. We are cursed today by propagandists and paid reformers, who would interfere with the liberty and rights of people to live in freedom and pursue happiness and such people as these fatten upon the suspicions and fears of innocent, well-meaning, ardent religionists and others who are made to believe that all will be lost if others disagree with their own peculiar conceptions of right and wrong."

TELLS HOW BIBLE CAME INTO BEING

Dr. Bruce Brown of the South Park Christian Church, preached yesterday on "How We Got Our Bible." He said in part:

"Many good people have been troubled because there are about 120,000 variations in the ancient manuscripts of the New Testament. Some are ready to conclude that we are left with nothing certain and tangible. But it should be remembered that all these variations have to do with only one-eighth of the words, leaving seven-eighths beyond dispute. The great mass of these variations consist either of differences in spelling or grammar and do not affect the meaning. Eliminating these, we have fifty-nine sixtieths of the text left without dispute. Many of the remaining variations are no ore than transpositions of words like 'King Herod' or 'Herod the King' and do not make any difference in the meaning. We have much better evidence that we have the precise meaning of the writers of the New Testament than we have for any of the secular writers of that time."

PLACES REASON ABOVE SCRIPTURE AUTHORITY

"Bible or Reason?" is the subject of a sermon preached yesterday by Rev. E. B. Backus at the First Unitarian Church. Mr. Backus said in part:

"Two different kinds of authority are contending for mastery in the field of religion. The first is the traditional authority of the Bible, conceived as the inherent Word of God, the measure of all truth. The second is the authority of the facts of life interpreted by the reason of man—the kind of authority which science has developed, and on which it relies for the discovery of truth. The supporters of each are equally honest, equally earnest. Both cannot be right. In the conflict between the two I throw my weight unreservedly on the side of the authority of human reason. The Bible, while it contains much that is sublime, has been proved conclusively to be human in origin and full of the errors of the ages in which it was produced. It does more harm than good in the world so long as it is held to have a supernatural authority. It, too, must submit to the test of reason. While the substitution of the authority of reason for that of Scripture may shock our sensibilities at first, we shall ultimately discover that our emancipation from the tyranny of 'The Book' has been a necessary step in the progress of mankind and that the authority which science has developed serves the interests of men far better."

UNITARIANS HEAR PROMINENT MASON

"Belief in immortality is a sublime act of faith," declared Reynold E. Blight in an address before the Unitarian Church of Hollywood yesterday. "The desire for continued existence beyond the grave rises from the deepest instincts of the human soul. Insight convinces us that life only is real; death is a delusion. Man is not a material being, helpless victim of dissolution and decay. Man is spirit, God having breathed into his nostrils the breath of life. Therefore, he is divine, partaking of the nature of deity. All great souls have believed in immortality, from Pythagoras and Socrates to Lincoln and Emerson, and all Christendom thrills to the promise of Christ; I go to prepare a place for you."

DIVINE HEALING IS THEME OF DISCOURSE

Rev. J. A. V. Pieters of the Hoover-street Baptist Church preached yesterday on "Divine Healing." He said in part:

"As to the question of God being able to heal, there is but one answer, and that is—yes. The omnipotent God who made the body, can just as easily heal it, if it be His will. There is no limit to His power. Does God ever heal? Here too, there can be but little difference of viewpoint. The Bible frequently records the exercise of God's power in healing the sick, both in the times of the Old Testament and in the New. Besides, there are too many well-proved cases of God's healing power in these latter days for any fair-minded person to deny the fact that God still uses such power. But whether it is always the will of God to heal is a mooted question. That wonderful scripture passage, 'The prayer of faith shall save the sick,' is worthy of careful consideration. It teaches that sickness comes under the sphere of prayer; we are to go to God in prayer when sick, as we go to Him in prayer for many other things. But the mere praying, and claiming healing, does not bring healing; it must be a certain kind of prayer, and here it is called the 'prayer of faith.' It is not a forced faith. True faith does not rest upon its own daring and rashness, but upon the revealed will of God. We are to pray according to the will of God; every prayer that is within the will of God, will have an answer. The 'prayer of faith' is the kind of prayer in which God gives the petitioner an inward assurance by the Holy Spirit that the thing he prays for is according to God's will. It is not general faith, but specific faith, that brings answers to prayer. Above all of our praying, we must recognize the sovereignty of God, and remember that our Savior Himself prayed 'Not My will, but Thine be done.'"

DUTIES OF TEACHERS POINTED BY RABBI

"Honor, the Basic Principle in Human Relations" is the theme of a discourse delivered Friday by Rabbi Mayer Winkler at Temple Sinai. Dr. Winkler said in part:

"The teacher in the classroom as well as the preacher in the pulpit, if he is to inspire his pupils or audience, must bear in mind always to respect and appreciate those intellectually and spiritually inferior to him. A thread of human love must be the connecting link between teacher and pupil. Those who sit at the feet of the wise and learned must be attracted only through leniency, mildness and patience. The honor of those thirsting for information and instruction shall be safe-guarded as the honor and self-respect of those who impart the instruction and knowledge. In our association with our fellowmen we should be led by the principle of self-respect and appreciation. Very often we can avoid trouble and aggravation if we approach our fellowmen lovingly and with a heart of understanging."

FAR NORTH MANY-HUED WITH BLOOM

MacMillan Tells of Bluebells, Daisies in Blossom Amid Snows

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Patches of bluebells and daisies amid heavy frosts and snowstorms are described by Dr. Walter N. Koelz, chief naturalist of the MacMillan Arctic expedition, now working along the west coast of Greenland, in a radio dispatch to the National Geographic Society today.

The movements of the birds are the sure signs of approaching winter, Dr. Koelz says, and flocks of snipe and plover frequent the open beaches on their way south.

In his dispatch to the society, Dr. Koelz summarizes his work from the ship base of the Bowdoin and the Peary at Etah and on the expedition's way south to Sukkertoppen, the next important Greenland port north of Godthaab. His message, relayed through a St. Paul (Minn.) amateur station, says:

"When we went ashore at Umanak Fjord there had been heavy frosts and snowstorms. In spite of that the flowers were still in bloom and patches of the ground were covered with lovely bluebells and daisies. The ferns were as fine and as large as those that grow around us at home. The grass was still green but the willows, birches and heath have taken on their autumn stage of red and yellow and on the hills the newly fallen snow yields but slowly now to the sun's rays.

"The birds, by their movements, give signs of approaching winter and flocks of snipe and plover frequent the open beaches on their way south. The elders have already gone.

ORDERS 'HOT DOGS,' FINDS RUM SUPPLY

Dry Officer Listens in on Conversation Leading to Wright Act Arrest

"Hot dogs" and a telephone contributed to the causes of the arrest of two asserted bootleggers during the week-end activities of the crews working under George Contreras, dry enforcement officer of the District Attorney's office.

Having missed his dinner, Contreras was waiting in front of a "hot dog" stand in Venice, when the pangs of hunger drew him to the counter.

As the last "dog" was being crunched between Contreras's teeth, Charles Buchanan, four times previously arrested for Wright Act violations, was reported to have driven up in a car. There was a whispered conversation with a man near by and Contreras gulped his fifth "hot dog." The result was that Buchanan was arrested for transportation and possession of five gallons of liquor.

The telephone was used in the arrest of John L. Perdue at Belvedere for the sale of two cases of gin for $50 to Contreras and his operatives. Perdue, a taxicab driver, was called on the phone and given an address in Belvedere, with a cabalistic number, which meant two cases of gin. He understood the number, delivered the gin and was arrested.

Twelve others were arrested in various parts of the county and were lodged in the County Jail until bail was deposited.

DAUGHTER OR $5000, SAYS NOTE

"Black Seal" Threatens to Kidnap Girl if Mother Refuses to Pay

"The Black Seal" is after Mrs. Harry Sherman, 600 North Soto street, in approved film thriller fashion. It wants $5000 or her 15-year-old daughter.

Last Thursday night Mrs. Sherman found under the front door a slip of paper on which a diamond-shaped seal had been drawn in black. The white interior contained the words, "The Black Seal."

Mrs. Sherman showed the seal to her landlord and other apartment tenants. They laughed at her, saying it was the work of children whose imaginations had been stirred.

Saturday night another seal appeared under the back door. This announced that, unless Mrs. Sherman deposited $5000 in a bottle on the back porch, her daughter would be kidnaped.

Deciding to take no chances in the matter, Mrs. Sherman reported the case to the Boyle Heights Police Station. Detective is now on the trail of the "Black Seal" gang.

The Shermans moved here recently from Chicago. They say they have never been bothered by black seals before.

COTTON HARVEST BEGINS

Kings County Gins to Be in Full Swing Within Next Thirty Days

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HANFORD, Sept. 6.—The cotton harvest is on in Kings county, but it will be a month before it is in full swing, owing to the unusual coolness of the weather in the San Joaquin Valley during August. Corcoran, center of the cotton belt, is all tuned up for the harvest. It has two new cotton gins added to those it already has, also a new cotton seed oil mill, and its factories will be able to take care of the immense increase in acreage and production.

The condition of the crop is excellent, the plants showing a remarkable uniformity of growth and development of blossoms, and this will cause a minimum of labor in harvesting. There has been great improvement in the cotton crop in the San Joaquin Valley the past month, due to the cool weather.

The Corcoran Chamber of Commerce has its handsome float, a freighter ship bearing Corcoran cotton to Liverpool, nearly ready to sail over the pavements of San Francisco at the Diamond Jubilee parade next week, and it will also be exhibited at the Tulare County Fair this month.

The prune harvest is beginning in this county of Kings, and growers are greatly pleased with crop prospects and prospective prices. The crop will be the heaviest in several years and likewise the price bids fair to be much advanced over that of several recent seasons. There is reported to be no holdover stock and European countries have contracted for a large portion of the smaller sizes, the disposal of which has in the past been a decided problem.

Local vineyardists are receiving their part of the $1,000,000 worth of checks which the Sun-Maid Raisin Growers' Association, the big raisin combine, is now mailing out as advances to its stockholders on their 1925 stock of raisins. Kings county is feeling excellent financial effects from its diversity of fruit production, for growers have just sold their good crops of grapes and peaches, fresh grape shipments bringing ready money are just opening up and prunes will soon be bringing in the money also.

Rubber Company to Open Factory at Beach Town

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Sept. 6. E. L. Cline, formerly connected with the Goodyear Rubber Company, will be in charge of the local plant of the Rubber Products Company of America, which will start operations here soon, it was reported today by F. H. Yetman, president of the company.

According to Yetman, the plant will be ready to start operations within sixty days. Yetman is leaving this week for New York and Pittsburgh, where he will meet Cline, and together they will purchase machinery for the new plant.

The company has perfected a method by which they can melt and use old automobile tires in making floor coverings and a material similar to oil cloth.

The California National Supply Company, an oil-well supply concern, will be required to move from their present building immediately, it is reported. The Rubber Products Company recently acquired the building and grounds occupied by the oil-well supply company. According to reports, a consideration of more than $100,000 was paid for the property. The land formerly was owned by a group of local men.

Yetman, in presenting his proposition to the Chamber of Commerce recently, declared that the establishment of his industry here probably would result in several other factories locating in this city. His plant, it was pointed out, will require several other materials which will probably make it profitable for other concerns to locate in Huntington Beach.

The plant will be expanded as rapidly as possible, according to Yetman. Orders for a large amount of the finished product of the company already have been placed.

PLAN NEW CITY HALL

El Monte Trustees Seek Site for Municipal Building

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

EL MONTE, Sept. 6.—This city may have a new City Hall and park in the near future if plans of the Board of Trustees materialize.

Among the sites being considered by the Trustees are the Lexington School Building and grounds and the woman's clubhouse. There is also some sentiment in favor of building an addition to the pumping station now being utilized as a City Hall.

At the request of the Trustees, F. M. Colville, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has negotiated with the grammar school board relative to the purchase of the Lexington-street property, and reports that it would take approximately $30,000 to buy it.

There has been much agitation for a new City Hall and park for many months, and many citizens maintain that the present building used as a City Hall is a discredit to El Monte.

POMONA TO OPEN TERM NEXT WEEK

Freshman Week Fete to Displace Old Custom of Hazing First-Year Men

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

CLAREMONT, Sept. 6. — Two hundred and twenty-five freshmen, including 100 women and 125 men, representing many Southern California and Coast communities, a majority of the States of the Union and several foreign countries, open their collegiate work at Pomona College, Monday, the 14th inst.

This year's freshman class will be the first in the history of the school to participate in the advantages provided by Freshman Week, a new innovation in Coast institutions. Some four years ago a Freshman Week plan was instituted at the University of Maine. It was so successful there that last year saw Harvard and the University of Chicago adopting it. To date only six institutions in the West have perfected the plan and Pomona is believed to be the first institution on the Pacific Coast to substitute a week devoted to assisting freshmen in becoming adjusted to their new environment, in place of the old and worn-out form of browbeating and hazing an incoming class.

Under the new plan all freshmen will be required to be on the campus during the week of the 14th to the 20th inst. Student-faculty dinners, general assemblies at which college conditions and traditions will be presented to the freshmen by professors and student leaders, and a number of social events are included on the program.

William E. Nichol, dean of men, and Charles T. Fitts, registrar, sponsored the plan and will, in company with Miss Wilma Bruce of the Associated Women Students, and Paul Jones, president of the student body, direct the general activities of the week.

Freshour and Blakeley claim a "frame-up," according to officials here in regard to their arrest. They allege that they were approached by a stranger in a La Habra dance hall, who asked if they wanted a drink. They claim that they followed the stranger outside of the hall, and were arrested for possession, while the stranger escaped.

The men will appear before Justice of the Peace William French, acting for Justice H. E. Hart of La Habra.

FORM MENNONITE COLONY

Project Involves $5,000,000 and Settlement of Large Tract by 500 Families

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, Sept. 6.—Filing of articles of incorporation for the Kerman Mennonite colonization board here yesterday marked the initial step in what may be one of California's greatest colonization projects, involving a total of more than $5,000,000, settlement of 12,000 acres of land and influx of 400 to 500 families of Mennonites from Kansas and Canada. Options are being exercised on 12,000 acres of land of the Fresno Farms Company in the Kerman district and already several twenty and forty-acre farms have been settled by members of the sect.

The land is part of what originally was a 28,000-acre holding of W. G. Kerckhoff, with whom were associated A. C. Balch of Los Angeles, A. G. Wishon of Fresno and others.

Leaders of the project have declined to make any specific statements concerning their plans, other than that part revealed by their incorporation papers, which set forth that the organization is to be co-operative. Directors of the colonization board are P. H. Neufeld, J. P. Nord, F. A. C. Cornelson, E. H. Nikkel, P. A. Buhler, C. H. Janzen, B. J. Frissen, D. F. Harder and C. D. Firen.

The articles of incorporation limit membership on the board to those who have actually purchased land outright or under contract, and provide for close co-operation between the colonists and the Fresno Farms Company in development of the project and meeting problems of the newcomers.

For several months it has been known that negotiations were under way for disposal of the land, but no definite information was obtainable concerning the identity of the prospective owners until the plans for the colonization were revealed in the filing of incorporation papers. Negotiations are also said to be pending for leasing of oil rights on the property.

HEAVY RUSH OF TOURISTS PREDICTED

Pasadena Inquiries Show City Will Entertain Many of Eastern Visitors

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Sept. 6.—This city will entertain an exceptionally large number of tourists and visitors during the coming winter season, according to indications available at the Chamber of Commerce, where inquiries, and favorable reports from railroad offices, hotels and eastern tourist agencies have been greater in volume than ever before.

"The reports we have received are all optimistic about the prospects for heavy travel to Southern California during the fall and winter," said William Dunkerley, secretary of the Pasadena Chamber of Commerce. "Local hotels and railroads are unanimous in reporting that their eastern representatives are warning them to prepare for a large influx of visitors, and their advance reservations indicate that the migration will begin early."

Mr. Dunkerley stated that returning summer vacationists are regularly calling at the Chamber of Commerce offices to express their belief that the Southland will be invaded by guests in greater numbers than ever, next winter, and that Pasadena will harbor a liberal quota of the visitors.

"The volume of inquiries received indicates that many of the present eastern residents are coming with an avowed intention to stay," declared Mr. Dunkerley.

T. F. Fitzgerald, traveling passenger agent of the Southern Pacific, a recent visitor in Pasadena, corroborated the predictions of the Chamber of Commerce official.

The boys, who will be the guests of the association at Camp R. J. Werner, will act as junior judges at the live-stock and agricultural shows. They will be instructed in the methods of judging by their teachers.

CONTRACT LET FOR FOUR-MILE TUNNEL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, Sept. 6.—Calling for an expenditure of $1,263,000 for labor alone, contracts for the construction of the San Joaquin Light and Power Company's four-mile-long tunnel on the Kings River project was awarded yesterday to John De Luca, C. Dennis and Floyd T. Huntington, it was announced by Harold K. Fox, chief construction engineer for the power corporation. The tunnel will be 19,400 feet long and twelve by twelve feet bore, and will be used to divert water from the north fork of the Kings River to the Balch powerhouse. In order that the work may be completed in about twelve months, two side tunnels, each 300 feet long, will be driven into the mountainside to permit driving crews to work in both directions and the employment of five crews continuously. Three hundred men will be employed on the job in three shifts.

ZELZAH MELON PATCH TO NET LARGE PROFIT

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ZELZAH, Sept. 6.—One of the best-looking patches of Persian melons ever seen in San Fernando Valley is the ten-acre field owned by T. Angelo and Matio Ghiglia in the Zelzah district, ranchers in this vicinity assert. The melons average about twenty pounds apiece and are of the very finest quality in taste. Angelo today stated that he and Ghiglia expect to take about 12,000 melons from the ten acres, which would bring them about $4800 net, if the buying market holds to present prices. Soil in the Zelzah district, it has been proven in the last two or three years, is of the best type for canteloupes and watermelons, being light and friable, high in certain organic matters and with sufficient mineral salts adaptable to melon culture. Properly irrigated, Angelo said today, a Zelzah melon field will grow a twenty-pound Persian canteloupe or watermelon to each square yard of ground.

GLADIOLUS CENTER IN STATE NEAR

Rancho Santa Fe Expert Predicts Growers Will Get $2500 an Acre

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

DEL MAR, Sept. 6.—"Southern California is going to be America's leading gladiolus center in the near future and growers who specialize in this most absorbing and delightful phase of floraculture will make as high as $2500 an acre annually from their bulbs."

Dr. A. R. Sprague, California horticulturist and now chief of the staff of horticulturists at Rancho Santa Fe, seven miles from here, made this interesting statement yesterday upon his return from the National Gladiolus Show, an annual event in the world of blossoms, held this year at Rochester, N. Y.

"The hundreds of men and women in this part of the State who are interested in gladiolus culture," said Dr. Sprague, "should feel mighty proud of the fact that the orchid, my exquisite new-type gladiolus, is an exclusive product of Southern California soil. It was grown on our experimental grounds at Rancho Santa Fe, and not only opens up just one more income-producing opportunity for land purchasers on this wonderful 9000-acre tract, but has already won more laurels for this great property in that it was acclaimed by all the leading growers at the Rochester show to be the most remarkable break from type so far produced anywhere."

The distribution of this unusual new type of gladiolus is eagerly awaited all throughout the East, it is said, and because of this fact Dr. Sprague predicts great things for bulb growers.

Cost to Venice for Widening Street Fixed

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

VENICE, Sept. 6.—The total cost of the widening of the North Trollyway will be $1,811,240, including the cost to be distributed over the entire assessment district, according to a report made to the City Trustees by Engineer Chapman.

According to the report, the tier of lots on the east side of Trollyway will be condemned to make a 145-foot street, which is not now a roadway but property owned by the Pacific Electric Railway.

Some time ago the trustees decided, when opponents of the plan claimed that the cost would be excessive, that if the cost was more than $2,000,000, it would be abandoned, no matter what stage the proceedings would have reached.

Acting under instructions of the Trustees, City Engineer Chapman has had a crew of engineers at work for several weeks gathering data for his report which not only describes the land which must be condemned for the widening project, but lists the expenditures which will be necessary, including purchase of the necessary rights of way.

Denver Woman Seeks Clew to Her Parentage

DENVER, Sept. 6.—Kept in ignorance of her parentage all her life by her foster parents, who took her in as an 8-months-old baby, Mrs. Herminia Brodie, 42 years of age of Denver, is making a final effort to learn her real identity, and, if possible, the whereabouts of her parents.

She was left with Mr. and Mrs. William Bemer in 1884 and lived with them until she was married in 1902, Mrs. Brodie says. Her first husband died two years later, and in 1910 she was married in Cheyenne, Wyo., to John Brodie, who together with two children, died two years ago.

Her foster father, William Bemer, a pioneer Denver expressman, died in 1921.

From occasional statements made by her foster mother, Mrs. Brodie believes, she says, that her own family name is Barton.

According to the latest official census, that for the year 1924, Japan has a total population of 59,138,900—the increase being at the rate of 750,000 per annum.

New Members Are Added to College Faculty

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

REDLANDS, Sept. 6.—Registration at the University of Redlands will pass the 500 mark of which almost half will be first-year students, it is indicated by the reservations made for dormitory rooms on the campus. Although one new 100-room dormitory for the women has just been completed, making it possible to take care of more than 300 in dormitories on the campus, there will not be enough to accommodate those who want them.

V. L. Duke, president of the school, announced today that registration will begin September 14 and continue for three days and that the first sessions will be on Wednesday. At that time the seven new members of the faculty will be welcomed and two who were away last year greeted. They are Prof. J. W. Kyle, who spent a year in Greece, and Prof. H. E. Marsh, who spent a year in Berkeley.

The new members of the faculty are all here. They are Lawrence E. Nelson, from Sioux Falls, S. D., in the English department; W. C. Dennis of Indianola, Iowa, and Simpson College, who will be debate coach; E. W. Maunce of William Jewel College, who will teach political science and history; J. B. PASADENA FARE PLEA FILED

Hope for Compromise Wanes as Pacific Electric Carries Case to Rail Commission

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Sept. 6.—Hopes for an early compromise in the battle between the city of Pasadena and the Pacific Electric Railway Company over a proposed increase in street car and bus fares here have been abandoned with the filing of a brief with the State Railroad Commission in which the Pacific Electric Company insists that the fares must rise from 6 to 8 cents.

City Attorney James H. Howard of Pasadena had previously admitted that a 1-cent rise might be necessary, but had contended that a rearrangement of transportation lines would eliminate the necessity for a greater increase, and it was hoped that some such compromise might be agreed upon.

PREPARE FINISH FIGHT

The transportation company is prepared to carry the fight to a finish, however, and the 2-cent increase will go into effect if the commissioners heed the plea of the company. A small rate-rise would not be sufficient to meet expenses and insure a reasonable margin of profit, the brief declares

Agreement by traffic engineers engaged by the city that the present service cannot be maintained without a loss was seized upon by the plaintiffs in support of their plea, despite the fact that the city's admission was qualified by the statement that a revision of schedules and increase in efficiency would avert the necessity of a 2-cent rise in fares.

Pasadena's attorneys are now preparing their arguments in support of a small increase or a curtailment of service that will permit the present 6-cent fare to stand. The city's brief will be filed within the next week.

PETITIONS FILED

Two petitions have already been presented to the Board of City Directors by citizens who oppose the rise and are also opposed to any curtailment of the number of bus lines now in operation. Another petition signed by H. Russell Case and 368 others is expected to be presented to the board at its next meeting, urging the directors to use their power to maintain bus service in the North Marengo-avenue section of the city. Other petitions from various sections of the city are also expected to be filed.

10-Years-on-Seventh Street Sale.

"Why! Have Robinson's been on Seventh Street that long? Oh, I thought it was longer ago than that."

To some it seems that Robinsons' removed but recently. To others the great Robinson Store Building at Seventh Street and Grand Avenue seems always to have stood in the midst of the fashionable shopping district.

For it is an extraordinary fact, that although five hundred thousand people remember, as though it were but yesterday, when J. W. Robinson Co. came out to Seventh Street alone; another five hundred thousand have no recollection of that audacious move, because they have come here within the past ten years—and they are one-half of the city's population.

Interesting indeed then, and most deserving of celebration, is the moving of this store, which established a new shopping district and changed the map of retail Los Angeles.

Woman—Lovely Woman

I FEEL SORRY FOR POOR MRS. ZANDER BUT I DON'T SEE HOW SHE COULD BE SO FOOLISH AS TO TRUST A MAN LIKE CARLOS WITH ALL HER MONEY—
THAT'S THE TROUBLE WITH WOMEN—THEY FALL FOR ANYTHING—A STRANGER CAN COME ALONG WITH A GOOD SUIT OF CLOTHES AND A SWELL LINE OF GAB AND THEY FALL FOR IT—IF HE TELLS THEM THEY HAVE BEAUTIFUL EYES THEY'RE CONVINCED HE IS AN HONEST MAN—THEY'RE ALL ALIKE IN LOVE, MARRIAGE OR BUSINESS—SOME SAP COMES ALONG WHO HAS NOTHING TO SELL AND THEY BUY IT—
I TOLD HER NOT TO TRUST CARLOS BUT SHE'S LIKE THE REST OF HER SEX—THEY REGARD GOOD, SOUND ADVICE AS AN INSULT—WHEN A WOMAN SEES A GUY WAVING A RED LANTERN SHE THINKS IT'S A SIGNAL TO GO AHEAD—IF A SALESMAN CAN TICKLE THEIR EARS HE DOESN'T HAVE TO BOTHER ABOUT THEIR BRAINS—A WOMAN LIKE WIDOW ZANDER HAS AS MUCH CHANCE IN A BUSINESS DEAL WITH CARLOS AS A BUTTERFLY IN A BLIZZARD—
THAT'S WHY I HATE TO CARRY SO MUCH LIFE INSURANCE—IF ANYTHING EVER HAPPENED TO ME I DON'T KNOW WHAT WOULD BECOME OF YOU—I COULD WILL MY MONEY TO YOU BUT WHILE I WAS CLIMBING UP THE GOLDEN STAIRS YOU'D BE INVESTING THE COIN I LEFT IN GALVANIZED SOAP BUBBLES—A WOMAN THINKS EVERY BODY IS UPRIGHT AND HONORABLE BECAUSE HER HUSBAND WAS AND IT COSTS ALL THE MONEY HE SPENT HIS LIFE WORKING FOR TO FIND OUT SHE WAS MISTAKEN—

BENGALS' WIN STREAK ENDED

Shellenback Baffles Tigers in Nightcap, 4 to 1

Johnson Fans Fourteen Sacs, But Loses Decision

Two Runs in Fourth Give Solons Opener, 8 to 6

BY ROBERT RAY

After losing five straight games, Buddy Ryan's so-so Senators turned and took the Vernon Tigers down the line in both sections of yesterday's double-header, winning the opener by an 8-6 count and the night-cap, 4 to 1.

The second game resulted in a pitching duel between Frank Shellenback and Sylvester Johnson, with the spit-ball hurler winning despite the fact that Johnson struck out fourteen men.

Johnson struck out the side in two innings, but the Sacs bunched hits off the Vernon twirler in the first and sixth frames to push over their quartet of [illegible].

Shellenback had his saliva ball working to perfection and limited the Bengals to four hits. But for [illegible] McDowell, who hit one over the left-field fence in the fourth inning after two were out, Shellenback would have had a shutout as the Tigers were unable to do anything to his moist offerings.

The opener was a two-hour and [illegible]-minute struggle that lagged badly. The pitching offered by both sides was ineffective as well as slow and, all in all, the first game might well be considered [illegible] a waste of time. Both Eckert and Canfield, the starting hurlers, failed to last the route, Bill [illegible] relieving the Solon southpaw in the seventh and Buzz giving way for a pinch-hitter in the

What's What in Sportsdom

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—The ranks of sportsdom's supermen were opened tonight to receive a great amateur golfer, in Bobby Jones of Atlanta, Ga.

Although, as a two-time champion, Bobby still has two more journeys to make over the title trail to equal the achievement of Jerry Travers, and one more trip to tie the performance of Walter J. Travis, he established in his conquest of his 20-year-old neighbor and pal, Watts Gunn, at Oakmont yesterday, a mark for low scoring which has amply justified his acceptance as the game's most famous amateur.

Spikes driven into the Dempsey-Wills fight hopes by failure of Floyd Fitzsimmons, Michigan City (Ind.) promoter, to supplement his early negotiations by depositing with the negro's management a $100,000 guarantee of good faith, coupled with the return from Europe of Wills bearing a dipper of pessimistic views to dash upon the proposed match, turned fistic followers to prospects of other battles as a closing salvo of outdoor boxing.

Trailing a light-heavyweight title match next Friday night into the ring will be a long struggle later in the month between Mickey Walker, titleholder, and Dave Shade, as well as a middleweight class between Harry Greb and Jimmie Slattery.

In spite of the failure of Paul Berlenbach's padded mittens to fashion an impressive championist showing in the first defense of the crown against Young Marullo, Berlenbach tonight ruled a favorite over Jimmy Slattery, whose challenge was accepted after

Lockhart Hangs Up New Record for Tanforan Track in Race Program of Jubilee Celebration

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—Before a crowd of several thousand race fans, who turned out despite the threatening weather, Jack Petticord [illegible] home the winner, in the main event of the Diamond Jubilee auto races this afternoon at the Tanforan race track, San Bruno. On the one mile track, Petticord covered the fifty miles of the main event at an average speed of more than a mile a minute, completing the race in 49 minutes and 8 seconds. Second to Petticord in the main event was Eddie Hearne, with Elmore third; Fred Lecklider fourth and Cliff Bergere, fifth. The winners divided purses totaling [illegible].

A new record for a mile on the Tanforan track was set by Frank Lockhart in the opening event, in which he won the Diamond Jubilee [illegible]. The event was a trial around the track, with all drivers participating. Lockhart made the mile in 47.6 seconds, chopping an even two seconds off the former track record, held by Ralph De Palma. Lockhart also won the second event, a fifteen mile event for a purse of $500. He made the distance in 12 minutes and 42.6 seconds. Petticord was second; Bergere, third; Elmore, fourth, and Jack Logan, fifth.

The third event on the program, another fifteen-mile event was won by Eddie Hearne in 12 minutes and 17 seconds. Second to Hearne was Babe Stapp with Lecklider, third; R. E. Lamming, fourth, and Bert Spencer, fifth.

HELEN WILLS WINS HANDILY

Bay City Champ Eliminated in Fifteen Minutes

Johanna Gunzburger Beaten by 6-0, 6-0 Score

Griffin-Roberts Cop Doubles Feature Match

BY BLANCHE ASHBAUGH

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HELEN WILLS

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6. — Helen Wills, making her first appearance in competition since she won for the third time the national tennis championship, defeated today in the second round of the women's singles of the California State tennis tournament, Johanna Gunzburger, San Francisco city champion, 6-0, 6-0. The match was witnessed by a large gallery that braved threatening weather to see the three-time champion.

In the first set, Miss Wills made twenty-five points while her opponent was making nine, and in the second the champion obtained twenty-six and Miss Gunzburger got ten. It took fifteen minutes for Miss Wills to eliminate her opponent and she went into the third round by the victory, having obtained a bye in the first round.

SPECTACULAR EVENT

The best match of the day from the standpoint of competitive tennis was the doubles which was won by C. J. Griffin and Roland Roberts from Howard Langlie of Seattle, and Stanley Almquist of Oakland. The score was 6-3, 8-10, 6-2, but it does not tell how close the veterans, Peck and Roe, came to being put out of the tournament. If Almquist had given his partner the support he deserved the score would have been different.

Most of the visiting players came through successfully in their matches today. The match that drew the gallery in the morning was between Louise McFarland of Pasadena and Ethel Burkart of San Francisco, in the junior girls' national hard-court championship event. The score was 3-6, 6-3, 6-4. Miss McFarland is called "the Helen Jacobs of the south" and her game was principally in the back court for the reason that when she attempted the net she was passed.

SURPRISES FOLLOWERS

Morgan Fotrell in the men's singles surprised the followers of the game by defeating Ward Dawson, a veteran who has been ranked nationally. Fotrell played the best tennis of his career and covered more court than he ever before attempted.

A full day of tennis has been scheduled for tomorrow and the matches will be called at 8:30 o'clock.

The summary:

Men's singles, upper half: First round—C. F. Stickney defeated Dr. E. J. McCord, 6-2, 10-8. Second round—H. F. Falk defeated Samuel Welles, 2-6, 6-1, 6-4; W. P. Hornsberger defeated L. Wesnitzer, San Jose, 6-3, 6-3. Third round—Gervais Hills defeated Roland Stringham, 6-1, 6-3; Ray Greenberg defeated Tom C. McCleave, 2-6, 6-3, 6-2; Morgan Fottrell defeated Ward Dawson, 6-2, 6-1.

Lower half: First round—W. E. Bodinghouse defeated Louis Feinberg, default; C. J. Griffin defeated Phil Kelly, 6-0, 6-3. Second round—John Basham defeated Louis Feinberg, default; C. A. SAN DIEGO ROWERS WIN

Southerners Lead Field in Regatta Championships at San Francisco; South End Club Second

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—San Diego led the field in the Pacific Athletic Association rowing championships held today off the Marina in competition for the Diamond Jubilee cup. The southerners lead with a score of 24 points, and the South End Rowing Club was second with 13½. The Alameda club, the Dolphins, and the Ariels finished in that order with 4, 3 and 1 points, respectively.

Both weather and water were ideal and the bay was as smooth as a lake. This is the first time that racing shells have been used on San Francisco Bay in championship competition for twenty-five years, according to officials of

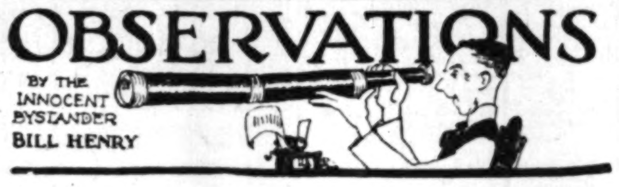
OBSERVATIONS

BY THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER
BILL HENRY



THERE ought to be a lot of interest in the performance of Young Bob Fitzsimmons when he meets Jimmy Delaney at Vernon tomorrow night. We can remember seeing the young man quite a few years ago when old Ruby Robert, more than 50 years of age, was making a swing around the vaudeville circuit and boxing with the boy. At that time the youngster, who certainly seemed to be the apple of the old man's eye, had a fine build and a clever left hand. Since then he seems to have found a wallop. They played on the Pantages Circuit when Pantages was showing on Broadway a couple of doors from the present Arcade Building.

PETER DE PAOLO TAKES FIFTH PLACE AT MONZA

Kreis Has Miraculous Escape from Death in Accident; European Classic Won by Brilliperi

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MONZA (Italy) Sept. 6.—Italy was wild tonight after an Italian driver, in an Italian car, won the 800-kilometer (497-mile) Monza autodrome this afternoon, defeating the best pilots in the world. Brilliperi, from Naples, covered the long and hazardous course in 5h. 14m. 33s.

TOMMY MILTON

Brilliperi received the 100,000-lire gold trophy for his victory and will be proclaimed champion race driver of the world within a few days. He is the hero of Italy. Thousands of excited Latins are parading the streets of the big cities here singing his name.

Campari, considered Italy's greatest driver until Brilliperi's victory today, drove another Romeo to second place after he had been extremely ill for nearly a week. Constantini, piloting a Bugatti, was third.

Tommy Milton and Peter De Paolo of America finished fourth and fifth, respectively. They were the most feared of all the drivers, but were received with thunderous cheers when they crossed the line. Milton's performance was an example of sheer pluck. He was dogged by engine and tire trouble from the start to finish. He took the lead at first, but was last when they started on the last eighty kilometers. He opened the big Deusenberg wide and roared past car after car to go all the way to fourth place, passing De Paolo less than two kilometers from the finish.

Peter Kreis, the third American driver who entered, narrowly escaped death in the second lap, when his car skidded and crashed into a post. He withdrew from the race miraculously unhurt.

BABE RUTH REINSTATED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Sept. 6. — Babe Ruth, champion home-run hitter, was reinstated today by Manager Miller Huggins of the New York Yankees and will probably be in the line-up tomorrow when the Hugmen open a series in Boston.

Ruth, who has been taking a forced vacation since he was suspended in St. Louis August 29, was within hearing distance when Manager Huggins called for him before today's game.

"Well, Hug," Ruth exclaimed, "I'm here."

"Yes," Huggins replied, "so I see. I have decided to accept your apology and to lift the suspension. You will not play today but you can accompany the team to Boston. The $5000 fine stands."

"All right, Hug, I'll be there," smiled the Babe.

St. Louis Beats Sox, 9 to 4, to Near Third Place

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The champions broke a winning streak of seven straight games by losing today to Boston, 5 to 3. The loss did not prove expensive to the Senators in their race for the pennant, however, since Philadelphia also lost today.

Zachary started on the mound for Washington, but was replaced by Russell in the sixth. Russell yielded to Ballou in the eighth. Zahniser went the whole nine innings for Boston. Score:

MACKS LOSE ANOTHER

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—The New York Yankees defeated the Athletics today, 4 to 3, giving the Hugmen the two-game series and also counted as their fourth consecutive victory. It was the tenth straight defeat for the Mackmen. A four-run rally by the Hugmen in the sixth was too big a handicap for the visitors to overcome.

Shocker argued with Umpire Hildebrand in the seventh on Bishop's pass and was banished, Pennock replacing him in the box. It was announced that Manager Miller Huggins had reinstated Babe Ruth and that he probably would play in Boston tomorrow.

Joe Schlocker and O'Hara to Box at Legion

When Hollywood Post No. 43 of the American Legion through their go-get-'em matchmaker, Tom Gallery, signed Teddy O'Hara and Joe Schlocker for the main event Friday night at the Legion Stadium they put over a bang.

O'Hara recently had Johnny O'Donnell on the floor at the Legion and he copped the decision. It was the first time that O'Donnell had ever been dropped by a fighter on the Pacific Coast.

After the O'Hara-O'Donnell fight, Tom Gallery used all the diplomacy he packs around with him to get Ace Hudkins to fight O'Hara. It was a joke. The Hudkins brothers, Ace and Clyde, had rather talk about most anything in the world than a battle between Ace and O'Hara. That is a pretty good tip-off as to what Ace and his brother-manager think of Teddy O'Hara as a fighter.

Joe Schlocker got this fight because he deserves it. He has dropped Hudkins, Tommy O'Brien and Jack Silver. All this was done in the gymnasiums, where they selected Schlocker to box with them. Once was enough for them. After Joe dropped all three, of course, at different times, he was told that he wasn't needed as a sparring partner any longer.

RUBY BOB'S SON MEETS JEFFRIES

Young Bob Fitzsimmons, son of the former heavyweight champion, took a run out to Jim Jeffries's ranch yesterday and met the man who won the title from his father many years ago. Photo shows—from left to right—Hugh Gartland, Young Bob's manager; Jim Jeffries, Mrs. Fitzsimmons and Young Bob himself. The latter meets Jimmy Delaney at Vernon tomorrow night.

YOUNG BOB LIKES RING

Finding Knockout Punch Gives Fitzsimmons the Desire to Follow in Dad's Footsteps

If Young Bob Fitzsimmons—son of old lanky Bob—had been given his choice of professions, he wouldn't be in Los Angeles today preparing to box Jimmy Delaney at Vernon Tuesday night.

He doesn't know what line he would have followed—but it would not have been fighting.

"I have always wanted a college education," says young Bob. "After going through school then I'd have known what I wanted to do. My father wanted me to be a fighter—follow in his footsteps.

"All my life, ever since I was born at Houston, Tex., in 1896, I have been within sound continually of the tap of boxing gloves. I was just learning to walk—a toddler—at the Carson City camp, where my father knocked out Corbett and won the heavyweight title. From the start my father insisted that I learn to box.

NOT GOOD PUPIL

"I wasn't a very good pupil, for I didn't like it. The entire atmosphere of fighting never appealed to me. When my father lost his money and went on the road with the circus and vaudeville he took me with him. That ended my school days.

"And when he died in Chicago in 1918 I was forced to take up boxing for my living. I didn't know how to do anything else to make money.

"The normal person doesn't like to quarrel and fight. If given an opportunity the average man will walk away from a battle. I have always disliked to hurt another person. In the last year, though, I have taken a different attitude toward my profession. All at once I have got on to the hang of knocking an opponent out.

"It doesn't seem so brutal to stop a man with one punch, as it does to cut him to ribbons and smear him with blood. My father used to feel the same way as I do now. He has told me that he never fought a fight in his life that he didn't feel sorry when he saw his opponent drop.

"When he fought Jack Dempsey, the Nonpariel, at New Orleans, he had Dempsey bleeding and staggering all over the ring. He begged Dempsey to stop—as he had no chance of winning. But the Nonpareil wouldn't. Dempsey finally fell face forward in the mud, coloring it with his blood.

"My father told me he would never forget the sight of the fallen Nonpareil.

"Yes, I would like to be the heavyweight champion. Every one likes to be the best in his line. You would like to be considered the best writer in the world, wouldn't you? Well, that's the way it is with me since my business is fighting.

Beavers Drop Another Pair to Seal Team

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PORTLAND, Sept. 6.—San Francisco took two more games from Portland today, the scores being 8 to 3 and 8 to 2. In the first game Yarrison and Big McWeeny coasted along on pretty even terms until the San Francisco ninth when the Seals unfurled a rally which scored five runs and ruffled the struggle. Valla's homer with the bases loaded scored four of them. In the second game the Seals got the jump in the first inning on Ellison's homer with one on, and the dispirited Beavers never had a chance. PIRATES BEAT CHICAGO, 9-2

Pittsburgh Wins and Gains as New York is Idle

St. Louis Takes Easy Game From Cincy, 9 to 3

Boston Takes Double-Header From Robins, 14-1, 11-4

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—Pittsburgh had little difficulty in disposing of Chicago here today in a loosely played game, 9 to 2. Timely hitting, coupled with erratic Cub fielding, which was influenced somewhat by a high wind permitted the league-leaders to pile up an early lead which the locals never disputed. The Pirates' play was far from showing any loss of efficiency because of the absence of Eddie Moore and Johnny Rawlings. Young Frisco Thompson played effectively at second base and made one hit. REDS UPSET

CINCINNATI, Sept. 6.—St. Louis beat Cincinnati today, 9 to 3, mainly through the wildness of Brady and a timely triple with the bases filled. A chest of silver was presented to Ivy Wingo by Cincinnati Shriners before the game. The score:

PARKRIDGE TO JOIN GOLF ASSOCIATIONS

The Parkridge Country Club, it was announced today, has applied for membership not only in the Southern California Golf Association, but the United States Golf Association as well, and, according to club officials, every assurance has been given them that favorable action will not long be forthcoming. Dan Gilkey, president, and Hutt Martin, "pro," plan to bid actively for championships.

According to John Duncan Dunn, who designed the course, the "gallery" never will be crowded, because the fairways are in different valleys with natural amphitheaters, one of which has "standing room" for 4000 or 5000 spectators.

BENGALS' WIN STREAK ENDED

same inning. Clyde Barfoot wound up on the mound for the locals and managed to hold the Solons scoreless in the last two frames, although he was touched for a single, double and a triple.

A five-run rally in the fourth inning sewed up the game for Sacramento, late rallies by the Bengals failing to overcome the big margin.

McDOWELL STARS

Jimmy McDowell, Vernon first-sacker, Ike Wolfer and Harry Brown, rival center-fielders, divided the fielding honors of the day. Wolfer and Brown made seemingly impossible catches of long drives in deep center, while McDowell performed around the initial sack a la Hal Chase, saving his mates about four errors by picking up low throws out of the dirt.

The Tigers played minus the services of Pat O'Shea, their sensational young rookie infielder. O'Shea is suffering from an infected foot, which was lanced yesterday morning, and he watched the ball game from the grand stand with a pair of brand new crutches for company. O'Shea will be out of the line-up for a week anyway. Pat didn't want to give in to the injury, playing in Saturday's game when he should have been in bed.

Sacramento took the lead in the night-cap right off the reel, scoring a run in the first when Kopp walked, stole second and romped home on Davis's double to left.

McDowell's home-run drive over the w.k. soap sign in the fourth tied the score, but not for long.

Johnson started his own downfall in the Sacramento sixth, which he opened by walking Paddy Siglin. McLaughlin's single sent Paddy to third and both runners scored when Davis dented the left-center wall with a powerful double. Wachenfeld fanned, but Cunningham slashed an infield hit that almost tore Johnson in two. Davis taking third. Cunningham stole second and Davis scored when Whitney's throw to pick him off third was wild, Cunningham taking third on the wild heave. Johnson fanned Brown and Watson to end the inning.

As the Tigers couldn't do a thing to Shellenback during the rest of the game, the remainder of the afternoon was spent with the fans wondering how many men Johnson would strike out. The Tiger twirler topped off his performance by striking out Brown, Watson and Shellenback in the ninth. It was the third time he had fanned three in an inning, and the fourth time that Brown succumbed on strikes during the tilt.

Canfield's wildness allowed the Tigers to get two runs in the first inning of the opener, the Sac southpaw forcing in two runs with walks after Vernon had filled the bases.

Both sides counted in the second, and the Sacs gained another run in the third when Kopp, Siglin and McLaughlin bunched successive singles off Eckert.

However, the big Sacramento blow-out arrived in the fourth when Brown, Canfield, Kopp, Siglin, McLaughlin and Davis all singled, accounting for five runs and a lead which the locals were unable to overcome.

The Solons gathered their last run in the seventh when Cunningham reached first on Griffin's error, went to third on Watson's single to center and scored when Canfield sent a sacrifice fly to center, which Wolfer shagged after a long run.

Canfield gave way to Hughes in the home half of the seventh when he was attacked by another wild streak two runs crossing the plate before the relief hurler could retire the side.

The Tigers scored another in the ninth and had the tying runs on first and third, but Shellenback got rid of Warner on a pop to Davis, ending the tilt.

The rival athletes will celebrate Labor Day, which is none other than today, by engaging in a double-header, the first game to start at 1:30 o'clock. This will give the fans one of their few chances to see a double-header on a Monday, so a large crowd is expected. Scores:

WHAT'S WHAT IN SPORTDOM

illness had stricken from the list Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, Ct., and Mike McTigue, the former light-heavyweight king. The rise of the new champion's stock was attributed not so much to Paul's tremendous punching power as to Slattery's failure in two recent bouts to convince Metropolitan fans that he had profited by his defeat earlier this summer at the hands of Dave Shade.

• • •

Prospects of a Wills-Gene Tunney heavyweight match in New York this fall sped by the sharp publicity threats of Tunney's management, and given encouragement by the consent of the negro, were confronted by a tall hurdle in the form of a verbal agreement entered early this year between Wills and promoters of Newark, N. J. Released by the latter to engage in a recent fight with Charley Weinert, Wills now has been called upon to fulfill the terms of the unwritten New Jersey contract.

• • •

Baseball turned from the major league races, as the Senators and Pirates steadily widened the margin of their advantage over faltering challengers, to view with mixed emotions the fall from favor of its home-run monarch. The indefinite suspension of Babe Ruth with a $5000 fine was accompanied by apologies from the disciplined outfielder, scolding from the New York club officials and an abundance of critical comment offering many-sided explanations for the king's tumble. He probably will be reinstated next week.

• • •

The reduction of the highest paid player in the game and the idol of youthful America to a pathetic figure was accepted in many quarters as the outcome of the glorification of baseball greatness which failed to reflect in Ruth a full conception of the ideals associated with diamond fame by imaginative youth.

• • •

In the tennis world there were upsets, Jean Borotra and Rene La Coste, of France won an unexpected victory in the doubles of the interzone finals yesterday against the Australians, Gerald Patterson and J. B. Hawkes. La Coste's defeat at the hands of Patterson, balanced by the overwhelming triumph of Borotra against J. O. Anderson, fired the interest of American net followers as the racketers of the two nations prepared to enter final singles struggles tomorrow for the privilege of facing the United States team.

• • •

France, with a lead of one match, two to one, ruled a favorite, but Patterson's return to the height of brilliance he has ascended in former years and the possibility of Anderson's reaching the peak of his hard-driving game opened a door of doubt, contributing the necessary element of uncertainty for a dramatic tennis finish.

Football Experience Serves as Preparation for Career in Business World, Says Graduate Manager

H SUB

Football as Preparation for Life

[Copyright, 1925, by the North American Newspaper Alliance]

I can remember a time when a newspaper reporter got scant courtesy around college training quarters. This was partly due to the insularity of the average undergraduate body of that day, and partly to the fact that college athletics was not then enmeshed in the intricacies of big competitive undertakings which make publicity important.

But this isn't true any longer. Graduate managers coaches and undergraduates are just as alive to the value of publicity as any business man with a realistic point of view and there is a welcome on the mat for the visiting newspaper correspondent.

Like the other developments of college football, this has come about gradually. It is my impression that big business was a jump or two ahead of the college people in seeing the possibilities of utilizing the notoriety gained by a college athlete. A few years ago, it became noticeable that college stars were slipping into pleasant employment with big concerns, and that usually they were "out in front" somewhere, where the firm would be sure to get the adventitious advertising of their name and fame Graduate managers were not slow to see the significance of this, and hence "building a name" and guiding its possessor up to some dazzling eminence where he will be a lure to other ambitious boys, has become an important detail of the graduate manager's job.

PRACTICAL EDUCATION

When a scout goes after a high school boy, he is equipped with a convincing list of athletes from his college who have found soft landing places out in the big world of finance. Here the boy begins to get a new and canny point of view with regard to this rather vague thing called "education," and after he has been worked on by two or three other scouts and finally lands in some college, he is apt to have a long-range view of where he is going and what he wants.

Any curious person having a little time to spend for investigation would be astonished to see how smoothly the rough ways of life are greased for the successful athlete, or for any boy who gains fame in college. Let him look over a few biennial college reports on living graduates, and then take a stroll through the offices of concerns like the Pennsylvania Railroad, Lee, Higginson & Co., Kidder, Peabody & Co., of Boston, J. P. Morgan & Co., of New York, the People's Gaslight and Coke Company of Chicago, or any big city bank. By making a few inquiries here and there, about who's who in office and executive staffs, he will begin to think that the intricacies of signal practice are the best preparation for a financial career.

FOOTBALL AS BUSINESS ASSET

The point I am making is that big concerns are eager to get boys whose names get into the papers, and to put them in the show window. It obviously is to the interest of the college to help the boys build up reputations, as a lure to the annually recurring crop of high school stars, and of course it is good business for both the business concern and the employee.

An alert graduate manager watches the placing of his graduates very closely. In addition to helping them make the best possible connections, he must also take care that some of them are planted in soft berths somewhere close to the college. As alumni and former stars, they always continue to "plug" for the college, and when some high-school boy meets one of the budding giants of finance in a fraternity house or on the campus, he is, of course, impressed with the practical advantages of this particular college.

Watching the continual stream of eager, ambitious youth, as the years flow by, I have been intensely interested to see the subtle changes which are worked in the fumble-footed boys who come out of high school—many of them, of course, from humble homes. I have in mind a lad whom I shall call Jerry. His story, I think, will round up the story of these transformations, and their bearing on American college life.

MORGAN MAY LOSE TITLE

Coast Featherweight Champion Has Tough Foe in Harry Wallach at Auditorium Wednesday

Tod Morgan, Pacific Coast featherweight champion and the boy whom Jack Kearns and others who know the fistic racket, claim will be the next featherweight champion, stands a dangerous chance of losing his title Wednesday night at Jack Root's Olympic Auditorium.

Harry Wallach, the Brooklyn southpaw with the slashing Lew Tendler style of milling, meets the Seattle sensation in one end of the double main event. Many fans who saw Wallach perform in his two local starts say that Morgan is due for a "shellacking."

Frank A. Churchill's boy came to the Coast several weeks ago after beating a flock of good eastern featherweights. Since arriving here he has left-hooked his way to decisions over Patsy Flannigan, Babe Picato and Joe Gorman. He held Billy Wallace even in another bout.

Wallach administered a sound trimming to Jackie Fields, the local featherweight pride, in the Olympic trials in Boston a year and a half ago. Fields couldn't get out of the way of his left hook and the referee raised Harry's hand at the end of three rounds. An attack of boils kept Wallach out of the games in Paris.

OBSERVATIONS BY BILL HENRY

doubles matches against Williams and Richards on three successive days and then, after Tilden and Johnston had won two of the matches, picked Williams and Richards to play doubles. Tilden says that he had a bad arm at the time and only played because the committee insisted that the tests would be conclusive of the merits of the teams. Hence, he wants to know "how come?"

* * *

Our own guess is that football is going to be just about 10 per cent more interesting this year than last because of one single change in the rules—the one moving the position of the kick-off from the middle of the field back to the 40-yard line. The return of the kick-off is, to us, just about the greatest thrill in the hour of gridiron play that constitutes a game and last year there just naturally wasn't any such animal for the good reason that everybody seemed to be able to boot the pill over the goal line from the middle of the field.

* * *

It will really be too bad if the local yachting association goes on the rocks, as has been predicted by a lot of people who are on the inside and ought to know. The Southern California Yachting Association was organized to patch up the differences between the various yachting factions and the motorboat people. It may not have served to the complete satisfaction of anybody, but it seems pretty clear that the sport of yachting cannot continue without proper organization of some kind and it would be a real shame if this fine sport should be sacrificed because of inability to get along.

McCormicks Said to be in Quest of Tonnage

In the arrival here tomorrow of the oil barge Mohican, the Julian Petroleum Company will receive its first piece of floating equipment; showing a tendency to branch out in another field of the petroleum industry. The barge is being towed down from San Francisco by the Red Stack tug Fearless, and on arrival will be put in a new gasoline, light oil and crude oil trade, transporting the company's products from Los Angeles to San Diego.

The Mohican is 160 feet long, thirty-five beam and depth of nineteen, and of 744 tons net. She has steam pumps and a carrying capacity of 4800 barrels in her eight tanks, which will permit her to carry several kinds of products.

Built as a clipper ship at Chelsea, Mass., in 1875, the vessel engaged in commercial sailing for many years. The Matson Navigation Company stripped her of her masts and used her a long time towing molasses from Hawaii. Then the State of California, it is understood, gained control of her, but plans miscarried and she languished at San Francisco Bay until, by devious ways she came into the ownership of the Julian concern.

In addition to the Mohican, the Fearless also is towing the old sailing ship Gratia, recently bought at San Francisco by W. F. Storey and destined to end her days as a fishing barge off Long Beach.

Another Red Stack towing job will end here today with the arrival of the tug Sea Ranger, towing the tanker Phoenix from Salina Cruz. The latter suffered a breakdown on the lower coast on her initial trip here for gasoline to open a new trade to Boston, where her cargo would supply retail service stations for the American Tankers Corporation.

Two more former sailing ships, their masts now cut to stumps, are to be towed here from San Francisco shortly to be used as fishing barges. They are the L. J. Morse, formerly in the Alaskan fishing trade, and purchased by Allan Knight, and the Olympic, an old Maine bark, to be anchored off Long Beach.

That the McCormick interests need more ships immediately and either will buy Shipping Board vessels or private tonnage to put on the intercoastal run, is the report current in waterfront circles, following the departure from San Francisco of Charles L. Wheeler, vice-president and general manager of the McCormick Steamship Company, for the East Coast. Since the McCormick interests recently acquired the huge timber holdings of Pope & Talbot, their need of means for carrying their vast surplus of eastbound lumber cargoes has been admitted by officers of the company.

Seventy-one passengers arrived from Cristobal and Central American way ports yesterday on the Panama Mail line motorship City of Panama, stopping northbound on her first trip since being acquired from the Pacific Mail line. Among the passengers were Pedro, Leopoldo and Alberto Lopez, players of stringed instruments at Mazatlan, coming to Los Angeles to further their musical education. Also Melville Boynton, soldier of fortune; Johnny McLaughlin, Philadelphia middleweight, who has been fighting in Mexico and will be seen in California rings, and twenty-nine Chinese, en route to Hongkong after gaining riches in Mexico and Costa Rica. The vessel also discharged sugar, hardwood and other Central American cargo before sailing for San Francisco last night. The liner Corinto of the same line is due from San Francisco today with passengers and freight en route to the Canal and way ports.

The Panama Pacific liner Finland arrived yesterday afternoon from San Francisco and will sail for New York and Havana today, with several hundred passengers, most of whom will be taken on here, and with several thousand tons of California freight. The liner President Adams is due at daylight today from New York and Havana on her sixth voyage around the world for the Dollar Line, with 100 passengers, more than thirty of whom will disembark here, with an equal number sailing from here.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—An extension permit to operate vessels in the coastwise lumber trade between Albion, Cal., and coast ports south of here has been granted to the Albion Lumber Company, a subsidiary of the Southern Pacific, by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Officials declared that the new authority will not violate the terms of the Panama Canal Act.

According to an announcement here, an entirely new field, with two contact points in the South, will be opened up for local and East Bay shippers by the combination of the Santa Cruz and Monterey Steamship Company, and the White Flyer Line, with the Consolidated Motor Freight Lines and the South Shore Ports Company next week. The new arrangements between truck and steamship services will begin with the arrival of the steamer Cleone, scheduled to arrive at Oakland next Thursday.

PORTLAND (Or.) Sept. 6.—Close to 4,000,000 feet of lumber is among consignments aboard the steamer West Jessup, which left today for Japan, China and the Philippines. Paper and various other freight is embraced in the shipments that complete her cargo.

The West Cayote left up from Astoria yesterday afternoon, having discharged oriental cargo that is intended for reshipment to intercoastal ports. The steamer also loaded flour. She loaded freight here today.

The German steamer Hessen of the Pacific Coast-European service of the United American Lines will be here tomorrow to discharge freight. She is coming by way of Vancouver, B.C. The steamer Mystic of the Intercoastal fleet of the same flag will be here Tuesday, coming by way of San Francisco.

Beside the season's first export consignment of fresh apples for the United Kingdom, to be taken on here, the British motorship Loch Katrina of the Royal Mail flag, which is to arrive tomorrow, will load barley, flour, 8000 doors, canned goods and prunes.

The London Merchant of the Furness Line left today for United Kingdom ports with 28,000 cases of canned goods, shipments of doors and lumbers and other commodities.

SEATTLE, (Wash.) Sept. 6.—Work is to begin this week on stills for Seattle's first oil-refining plant, being constructed for the Olympic Calpet Refining Company. The plant is expected to start operations in about four months.

Nine storage tanks, having a combined capacity of 1,740,000 gallons are to be connected with a series of oil lines running to the company dock.

Bringing 400 passengers on her next to the last voyage this season in the Pacific Coast service, the liner H. F. Alexander is due here tomorrow. The express liner is to be reconditioned here before her departure for New York the 29th inst.

ANACORTES, (Wash.) Sept. 6.—The French steamship St. Paul, which went aground in Burrows Bay Friday night, was floated at high tide this afternoon, with the help of a tug, after her deck load had been discharged on lighters. The vessel is believed to be undamaged and is expected to proceed to Papeete tomorrow, after a survey of the restowing of her deck load.

TACOMA (Wash.) Sept. 6.—Carrying approximately 3,000,000 shingles, considerable canned goods and oriental freight for transshipment for the return voyage, the F. J. Luckenbach sailed early this morning for Everett, where she will complete her cargo for Gulf ports. The vessel arrived late last night.

A sister ship, the Horace Luckenbach, which has been loading lumber for two days, left last night for the Atlantic coast.

To load 2100 tons of freight for east coast delivery, the Floridian berthed late last night. Today she discharged general freight and because tomorrow is Labor Day will not begin loading her outward cargo until Tuesday. Included in the freight to be stored are shingles, 8000 Tacoma-made doors, tallow and general merchandise. The Floridian probably will clear from this port some time Wednesday.

With 2500 tons of ore from British Columbia the Mogul tied up at the smelter early this morning. The Amur, arriving last night from British Columbia, brought about 2600 tons of ore for discharge here.

Coming to load copper for delivery at Havre and other French ports, the Arkansas is listed for an early morning arrival tomorrow at the smelter.

The Admiral Dewey is expected to berth tomorrow morning to discharge and load general freight for California ports.

DEATH ENDS CELESTIAL'S LIFE DREAM

Aged Chinese Dies Aboard Ship on Way Across to Land of His Ancestors

A Chinese died in steerage, that's all. That's all that happened of moment on the the voyage from Central America, according to passengers arriving on the Panama Mail motorship City of Panama yesterday.

But to Chinese friends of Sue See aboard, the life-time dream of a kindly Christian old man was broken right at the point of realization. Years ago missionaries in China, winning him to their faith, had pictured America "the beautiful, the generous, where all could live in peace and plenty." Barred gates diverted See's destination to the little town of Puntarenas, Mex. There through years of self-denial, and as counselor to his fellow-men, See horded away a meager competence.

His dream was to go back to China. Finally the selected ship came in. See was actually going back. It seemed wonderful, but the excitement of it all was too much for him. The end was swift. "Old age," was the fatality report, but friends say it was more than that.

The steamship company is going to see that See gets his wish—to go back to China but his friends say if spirits are wishes, his soul is already there.

WATER CARNIVAL TODAY

Alamitos Bay Scene of First of Seven Meets Preparing for 1932 Olympics Here

Long Beach is in the sporting limelight today. Thousands of water sport fans are heading oceanward to attend the first annual Pre-Olympic Water Carnival which is being held in Alamitos Bay, in the eastern part of Long Beach. The entire bay district is in gala attire. Water-side seats have been constructed and the biggest crowd that has ever attended an aquatic meet in the Southland is expected.

The program starts at 12 o'clock noon. The official S.P.A.A.A.U. swimming and diving championships will open the show.

The first event will be a national championship event, the 880-yard junior free-style for men. Then follows: The 440-yard free-style for women; ten-foot diving for men; 100-yard back stroke for women; 220-yard back stroke for men; 100-yard free-style for women; 440-yard free-style for men; ten-foot diving for women; 220-yard breast stroke for men; 100-yard breast stroke for women; 100-yard free-style for men; 100-yard free-style novice for boys; 50-yard free-style novice for girls, and 440-yard relay for men.

The speed-boat races will be run in three heats, three laps to the course to each heat. The race will start and finish at a point off Treasure Island.

During the intermission between each of the speed-boat races a program of aquatic novelties will be presented, such as high diving, water tug of war, surf-board riding, escape from straight jackets in water, etc.

Long Beach will be represented by entries from Mason's Riding Academy. Hollywood will send Jeanette Ford and Tommy Custer, movie riders.

The evening program will begin at 7:30, at which time there will be a fireworks display.

ZBYSZKO IS CONFIDENT

"Bring on the big Italian, I'll beat him quicker than Joe Stecher did." Such was the boast of Stanislaus Zbyszko, veteran Polish grappler, to Lou Daro last night. The Italian referred to is Renato Gardini, whom "Zibby" meets at the Olympic Auditorium a week from tonight.

"Gardini got one fall from Stecher. He won't be able to throw me. I'll beat him in less time than the champ did and then Joe will have to give me that match."

Zbyszko is hot under the collar. He was matched with Stecher here recently, but the champ asked Daro for $10,000, which resulted in the bout being called off. Now Stanny is out to beat Gardini in a convincing manner and thus get the bout with Joe.

Jim Londos and Don Andres Castanos appear in the semi-wind-up, while Abie Kaplan and Joe Komar are slated to open the show.

According to a high authority, 175,000 aliens of all races found illegal entrance into the United States during the fiscal year 1923-24. It is reported that more Chinese slipped in than any other aliens.

OIL AND MINING

PORT GASOLINE EXPORTS HEAVY

Oil Production Increases in State Fields

California Leads Nation in Daily Output

Many Wells Not Active at Present Time

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

Coincident with a cut of 2 cents per gallon in the price of gasoline a few days ago in this district, Los Angeles Harbor during the past week exported 452,648 barrels of gasoline produced and refined here.

The London market took 100,000 barrels of this amount from the Standard Oil Company. The Atlantic seaboard trade took 234,359 barrels, and the Pacific Coast trade called for 118,289 barrels.

Gasoline stocks in California have been increasing considerably in recent weeks as a result of the tremendous quantity of crude oil produced in this district.

One year ago California was producing 617,650 barrels of petroleum a day. The daily average last week was 674,500 barrels, an increase of 4500 barrels a day over the daily average production of the preceding week.

Taking into consideration the production shut-in at Coalinga, Maricopa, Kern River, Murphy-Coyote and other points, which amounts to from 25,000 to 30,000 barrels per day, California would today be producing more than 700,000 barrels of petroleum a day if all her wells were permitted to produce.

Crediting the Ventura-avenue field at Ventura with a daily output of 25,000 barrels a day, and deducting that amount from the output of the grouped fields, in the daily production report, Southern California's most important fields are together yielding 420,500 barrels a day, while the balance of the State is putting out 254,000 barrels a day.

Compared with these figures, the American Petroleum Institute gives the entire State of Texas 294,900 barrels of petroleum a day; Arkansas 236,400 barrels a day; Oklahoma 453,050 barrels a day and Kansas 110,900 barrels a day.

The combined daily production of Texas, Arkansas and Kansas is reported officially as being 642,200 barrels a day. To that may be added a total of 23,400 barrels a day, which is the combined output of Montana, Colorado and New Mexico, making a grand total of 665,600 barrels a day, for six petroleum-producing States, which is still about 10,000 barrels a day short of California's daily production with 25,000 to 30,000 barrels a day shut in the ground.

KERN FIELD ADDS THREE NEW WELLS

Completions of Small Output Are in West End of Midway District

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 6.—Three small wells were completed in Kern county during the last three weeks, all in the west end of the Midway district. Several wells are due to be completed in the east end of the Midway field, near where the Federal Drilling Company opened a slight extension on Section 20-31-24. The Pacific Oil Company and the North American Consolidated Oil Company have reached the sand there. On the east end of the Buena Vista hills the Honolulu Consolidated Oil Company is about due to finish several wells on Sections 4 and 6-32-24.

In the Maricopa Flat district the Obispo Oil Company is proceeding slowly at about 2500 feet, using lots of mud to hold back gas pressure trying to get down to about 2700 feet where it wants to set six-inch casing as a sort of anchor to hold things. As the hole stands it is a rather ticklish job and the outcome isn't as certain as could be hoped. The Trojan Oil Company, about half a mile east, is between 3700 and 3800 feet with a fishing job, but should be the first to reach the 4000-foot horizon where the Obispo well started flowing.

The General Petroleum Corporation is starting to deepen a small producer from 1900 feet, on the northeast corner of Section 6-12-23, and has a new rig up on Section 32, just north of the Obispo well.

The El Dora Oil Company has a new rig up just east of the Obispo well and the Midway Northern Oil Company is building a rig west of the Obispo well. The Pacific Oil Company has a new rig up on Section 5-12-23, as a southern offset to the Obispo well.

The No. 2 well of the Southwestern Petroleum Company, on Section 28-31-24, at the northwest edge of the Buena Vista lake flat, has been abandoned, and the rig has been moved to a location on Section 22-30-24 made by the North Elk Oil Company. The abandoned test was drilled to 5020 feet, showing a little oil, but it could not be developed in paying quantity. The No. 1 hole nearly as deep, was worked on by Early & Hall and it began pumping forty to fifty barrels a day several months ago.

The old lake bed looks anything but encouraging for profitable oil production, with the St. Helens Petroleum Company, Ltd., and the San Jose-Elk Hills Oil Company tests standing as markers on Sections 1 and 26-32-24, the latter 5800 feet deep without a trace of oil. The St. Helens is shut down at 4578 feet, awaiting results in a Honolulu well on Section 2, to the west.

BELVEDERE OMENS GOOD

New Field Has Brickyards Like Huntington Beach and Cemeteries Like Signal Hill

If the brickyards of Huntington Beach, the cemeteries of Signal Hill, or the town lots of both those fields, and of Santa Fe Springs, had anything to do with the phenomenal production of the three districts, the Superior Oil Company should discover a new oil field at Belvedere Gardens.

The company has just completed one of the most intensive leasing campaigns in the history of the California oil industry, and has lined up more than 2000 lots between cemeteries and brickyards, and is now building the derrick for its first well at Third street and Pasadena avenue.

Besides its manufacturing and burial advantages, the Belvedere Gardens area is said by nearly all the geologists who have studied it to present a number of other features which make it a good prospect for an oil field. These characteristics have been known to many oil companies for a long time, but the difficulty of leasing a town lot area has deterred previous development.

TOPOGRAPHY SIMILAR

The topography of Belvedere Gardens, according to geological opinion, is similar to that of the proved oil-producing districts of the Los Angeles basin, and its location with reference to other known structures is such that another structure may logically exist there. It is pointed out that the chain of fields from Beverly Hills, Central Los Angeles, East Los Angeles to Montebello leaves plenty of room for a reoccurrence of the main structure at Belvedere Gardens, with good geological reason for the supposition that the main structure does reoccur.

The theory has been tested out before but not recently. More than ten years ago the district was prospected by the Dollar Oil Company, the Puente Oil Company and the Gilmore Oil Company, but drilling equipment in those days did not permit a depth of more than about 3500 feet, and coring was an unknown art. This fact, combined with the further fact that all these projects reported showings, had considerable to do with the Superior's decision to test the district again in the light of modern knowledge and improved drilling equipment.

LEASING ACHIEVEMENT

The Superior's feat in leasing more than 2000 town lots is regarded as little short of marvelous among oil men. The difficulty of getting several hundred individual lot owners to agree on a single plan of development is one of the recognized axioms of oil-land leasing. As a rule, every lot owner wants a well drilled on his own lot, and is not satisfied to enter an agreement making his lot a part of a community lease, giving him only his proportionate part of the royalty.

Fay L. Wright, head of the Superior's land department, who handled the gigantic leasing program, calls the campaign the "battle of Belvedere." The battle took eight months, during which more than 2000 lot-owners were lined up into five community leases. One of these leases comprises upwards of 500 town lots.

KERN RIVER WELL BEING COMPLETED

Sixteen New Holes to be Put Down on Lease Held by Petroleum Securities

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 6.—With the derrick for its third well finished the Petroleum Securities Company is completing its No. 2 well on Sec. No. 22, 28-27, on the west front of Kern River oil fields.

Sixteen new wells are to be drilled on the 160-acre lease, according to drilling contracts and it is expected that the group will all be done within the next few months.

A permit to drill its No. 2 well in the Elk Hills district, 30-24, has been granted to the Gross Drilling Company. A similar permit to start operations on Sec. 32, 26-28, in the Poso Creek area, twenty miles north of Bakersfield, has been granted to John K. Porter.

The Honolulu Consolidated Oil Company has spudded in its No. 63 and No. 23 wells in the Midway, both on Sec. No. 4, 32-24.

The North American Oil Consolidated has started work on three new holes, the Nos. 26, 27 and 32, all on Sec. 30, 31-24, in the Midway. Another Midway well is the No. 11 on Sec. 5, 32-24, being put down by the Pacific Oil Company.

The Elk Hills Petroleum Company has spudded in its Nos. 1, 4 and 9 in the Elk Hills on Sec. 34, 30-24, while Charles Differding has begun No. 1 well on Sec. 26, 30-24, in the same district.

Six months are given in which to begin drilling operations on the east half of the northeast quarter and the east half of the west half of the northeast quarter of Sec. 34, 28-28, on the south front of Kern River oil fields, according to a lease filed here by Baxter & Frank K. Lewis, who obtained a leasehold to the property from C. W. and Cad M. Newberry.

Should oil be struck forty wells will be drilled and a royalty of one-eighth will be paid.

With the filing of the lease the sale for a consideration of $6000 of the west half of the west half of the northeast quarter of the same section was recorded, the Newberry's selling the land to the Lewis interests.

The Lewises in turn transferred the property to W. A. Wing and George Shakel for $6000 consideration and assigned to Wing and Skakel a one-third interest in the Newberry-Lewis lease.

Blue Sulphide Ore Found in Nevada Works

Blue sulphide ore, different from anything ever before found in the Eldorado canyon district, Clark county, Nevada, has been discovered on the 200-foot level of the Eldorado Empire and in a blind vein on the 300-foot level of the Rand. This ore, it is stated, occurs in seams and streaks from two to three inches in width, assaying $1400 in gold to the ton.

In the development of its property the Eldorado Empire Company has driven a cross-cut in a northwesterly direction a distance of 175 feet from the shaft. Its face, at the present time, is in a formation traversed by stringers of this blue sulphide, with every indication of the near presence of an orebody, the objective being sought.

C. E. L. Gresh of Hollywood, manager of the company, who is in from the mine, states that the cross-cut will be continued with all possible speed, it being believed that the existence of the blue sulphide will lead to the uncovering a large deposit of highgrade within the next two months. Mr. Gresh reports increased activity in Eldorado Canyon district during the first six months of the year.

SACKS ORE FOR SHIPPING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SUPERIOR (Ariz.) Sept. 6.—High-grade copper-silver ore, to be sent to the Magma smelter, is being sacked on the McGinnell group. It is from a two-foot vein, at 146 feet of depth.

TAFT AREA OPERATORS IN PARLEY

Problems of Shut-offs and Water Strings Are Being Discussed

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TAFT, Sept. 6.—Oil operators of Maricopa Flat, adjacent to the Obispo Oil Company's deep-sand well on Section 32, recently met at the State Mining Bureau office to discuss ways of handling water strings and shut-offs, and will meet again tomorrow to talk it over further. These meetings of operators are secret, even stenographers being barred.

It has been reported that at the first meeting, twenty-five or more operators were present and that an agreement was reached to make two water shut-offs, the first above the egular top sand from which production is now coming, and the second at or near the top of the brown shale—known here in the fields as the "big brown" shale. Where water is found in the brown shale it is to be handled the same as water in any sand from which oil is produced.

Tomorrow's session may be to officially adopt a formula, since the Obispo Oil Company seems to be the first to have drilled through the "big brown" shale—or at least through about 1500 feet of it, as near as may be arrived at in an open hole, the exact depth of which is only guessed at—and it still being unknown if a regular sand stratum was touched when the well blew in at the rate of 7000 barrels a day. Judging from the heavy pressure, it seems probable that some sort of sand must have been entered.

Current field gossip is that the greatest known depth drilled into the "big brown" shale heretofore was about 700 feet, as that has been considered a sort of deadline below which no commercial oil would be found, the deep and heavy brown shale not having been regarded as oil-bearing.

Tampico Gets Largest Well in Long Time

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 6.—The largest well completed in the Tampico oil district in many months is the No. 218 well of the Mexican Seaboard Oil Company in the Cacalilao field for an estimated initial production of 25,000 barrels from a depth of 1760 feet.

The well is 310 feet shallower than its nearest neighbors, the No. 161, also owned by the Mexican Seaboard, which has made 1,160,000 barrels of oil without showing the least trace of salt water and is still flowing at the rate of 8280 barrels a day.

It is 400 meters from No. 218, which in turn cannot be offset by any other company within 700 meters. It is probable that in view of the shallowness of the new producer, drilling will be suspended in the immediate neighborhood and efforts concentrated in other parts of the hacienda.

LEASING BOOMS IN OIL DISTRICT

Huntington Beach Fields See Tracts Signed Up

Shell Company Reported to Have Obtained Land

Area Practically Taken Up From Ocean East

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Sept. 6. Recent leasing developments on the east side of the proven field at this place have grown to such proportions that virtually the entire strip of country from the ocean to a point east of the Santa Ana River to the Talbert-Huntington Beach highway has been leased by three companies. Some of this territory is to be given an early test for oil

It was reported Saturday that the Shell Company is just completing a leasing campaign in which it is said to have picked up 1500 acres extending from the city limits of Huntington Beach to the Talbert highway and following the general course of the Santa Ana River. Parsels of the land lie on both sides of the river, according to reports.

TAKES OVER TRACT

The Standard Oil Company has taken over the Newland south tract, on the east side of the proven field, which adds greatly to its holdings in that area. King Gillette, who lately invaded the field, has leased up a large number of town lots on the east side, rounding out the tract which fills up the gaps in the leasing between the ocean and the Talbert highway.

Gillette recently took over the Shoemaker No. 1 well, formerly owned by the Vista Del Mar Oil Company. The hole is being cleaned out for drilling and will be drilled from 2300 feet to a depth of 2500 to 2800 feet, where production in that area is obtainable. The Gillette leases extend from the eastern city limits to Nashville street, and from Frankfort street along the bluff to Alabama street and down to the railroad right of way.

The Gipsy No. 2 and No. 4 wells and the Elliott well were recently taken over by Mr. Gillette, in the Main-street area of the field. New equipment is being installed and efforts will be made to rejuvenate the holes.

REASONS GIVEN

The companies which are working in the area between the main field and the Santa Ana River are reported to be doing so on the theory that pumpers yielding from 100 to 300 barrels of oil a day from depths around 3500 feet may be obtained there.

The Standard Oil Company has just completed its Thompson No. 6 in the eastern part of the field as a 120-barrel pumper. When the well came in it developed so much gas pressure that it blew oil all over the crown-block.

Half Moon Bay Operator Has Hope for Well

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HALF MOON BAY, Sept. 6.—Craft & Ashton are drilling a well in the Half Moon Bay district, now 950 feet deep, after drilling out cement. J. H. Craft is rather enthusiastic about the undertaking, the high-grade crude being an inducement for his company to drill there.

C. C. Julian, who took over the San Mateo Gasoline Company's leases and drilled two of the holes down to about 2000 feet, is reported to have quit the district, and turned the acreage back to the San Francisco owners, who, it is asserted, will proceed with development. One well on the property is asserted to have pumped twelve barrels of 48-deg. gravity crude.

Well No. 2 of the La Honda Oil Fields Association, pumped about twenty-five barrels of oil in twenty-four hours and is waiting steady production until a small refinery can be completed. The company's No. 3 well is drilling, the first test for water shut-off having been made.

H. H. McClintock, San Francisco geologist and oil operator, reached a depth of about 2100 feet, with good gas showings and some oil. He intends to drill to 2500 feet should a production test prove unsatisfactory.

TUCSON OPERATORS ACQUIRE OIL LEASE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BOWIE (Ariz.) Sept. 6.—Le Cron & Wetmore of Tucson are reported to have taken over, from W. S. Morton, a lease on 2560 acres, lying ten miles north of Bowie, and to be preparing for erection of a standard oil rig, capable of sinking 5000 feet.

NOVEL ENTERPRISE STARTED

Refinery of California Pigments Company, First of Its Kind in Southwest, to Operate Soon

The new plant of the California Zinc Pigments Company is just being put into operation at Anaheim. The work was rushed ahead of schedule to take advantage of rises in the price of lead and zinc, caused largely by the restrictions of output in Europe, and the contracting of zinc and lead ores by French and Belgian manufacturers in this country.

This company is the first of its kind in the great southwestern mining region to utilize complex silver-lead-zinc ores for producing much-needed basic products for local consumption.

The plant is essentially an ore refinery in which, by a combination of furnace and chemical methods, the rich concentrates of ore are separated and made into marketable products. For the present the plant will be restricted to the production of a valuable acid lead concentrate containing about 200 ounces of silver, $20 in gold, and 25 per cent lead per ton, and the production of a high-grade, brilliant white, lead-free zinc oxide, 99 per cent pure. The former is shipped to smelters for further treatment, the latter finds an immediate market in the local paint trade, where it forms a most important paint base; as well as in the rubber tire factories, where each of the 15,000 tires that are daily produced in ten Pacific Coast factories contains from three to six pounds of zinc oxide; and in enameling plants where zinc oxide forms the most important part of the white enamels on bath tubs and other fixtures.

The immediate capacity of the Anaheim ore refinery is about two tons of zinc oxide per day, and two tons of acid lead concentrates, although two additional units are in construction which will treble this output.

The ores come from the Blue Light mines in Silverado Canyon, Orange county, where it is reduced to concentrates by flotation. The dried concentrates are shipped to the Anaheim plant by truck.

The company fills an important gap in the development of local mines and local manufacturing industries, by creating a market for previously unmarketable local ores, and by supplying some of California's most important industries with lead-free zinc oxide which has long been imported from the East.

J. J. Dwyer of Anaheim is president of the California Zinc Pigments Company. Associated with him on the board are Charles Eygabroad, C. M. Hollingshead, Ernst Harms, and John Allingham. The two latter are metallurgical engineers.

The methods used in the plant have been adapted especially for western complex ores, and are protected by patents issued by John Allingham. The plant was financed by a small syndicate of Anaheim business men and Los Angeles mining engineers.

This is reported to be the first plant of its kind built here on a commercial scale. The particular methods used in it are of especial interest to the mining fraternity, as the eastern deposits of more or coming depleted.

EL TRIUNFO GOLD FIELD OPENING UP

Resumption of Work in Rich Mexico District is Attracting Attention

BY JACK STARR-HUNT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 6.—Mining men in all parts of Mexico are expressing keen interest in the resumption of operations in the El Triunfo district's gold and silver mines by French interests. It is thought by many that this district may ultimately prove to be the richest mining area of the entire country.

No estimate of the gold and silver deposits at El Triunfo are available in mining circles here, and it is admitted that the possibilities there are practically unknown, for a real test of the wealth of the region was never before tried. It is stated that once the French investors became convinced that tranquillity had returned to that region no difficulty was experienced by the old shareholders in raising the necessary capital to resume operations.

The mining industry of Lower California has been more or less exclusive French property, and other interests have given the Paris capitalists rather a free field in which to operate.

French interests already control the big copper veins near Santa Rosalia in the northern district of Lower California on the California Gulf Coast and now, it is stated, 30,000,000 francs have been subscribed to work the El Triunfo fields, which were abandoned for more than ten years when political disturbances combined with revolutionary activities forced the mines to be shut down.

It is pointed out here that with the southern mines of Lower California in operation again, shipping to California ports may be greatly benefited and business throughout the La Paz district with California supply firms should register an increase.

LIFE INSURANCE WILL PROVIDE STUDY FUND

JERSEY CITY (N. J.) Sept. 6. The Fidelity Union Trust Company recently was appointed trustee for a $20,000 life insurance trust fund taken out by Rev. Augustin V. Dunn of St. Anne's R. C. Church, Jersey City. The income of this fund in the event of death of Father Dunn is to be used in educating young men for the priesthood, the beneficiaries of which to be designed by the bishop of the local diocese.

DIXIE QUEEN MINE BOUGHT BY TEXAN

PATAGONIA (Ariz.) Sept. 6.—George Elliott of El Paso has purchased the Dixie Queen mine, near the American Boy, and has started development. He states that his workmen have cut a five-foot ledge carrying silver, lead and copper.

DRILLING TO BE REVIVED IN OLD AREA

Santa Maria Land Leased by Golden West Petroleum of West Whittier

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA MARIA, Sept. 6.—Following the leasing of more than 2000 acres of land in this territory by the Goldenwest Petroleum Corporation of West Whittier, formal exploration, this district appears to be due for a revival of oil interest.

Public announcement of the signing of the leases was made today. Drilling on the property is expected to start within sixty days. The leases contain a drilling clause of six months.

The property leased by the Goldenwest is four miles southeast of Santa Maria and consists of Section 5 and Section 6 of the Bradley Land Company and Section 8 of the Maynard estate, of San Jose. This property was formerly under lease to the General Petroleum Corporation, and test wells were drilled there several months ago. The property was abandoned in the early summer and the G. P. moved its rig to property south of Guadalupe, on the western edge of the Santa Maria Valley.

The old Santa Maria oil fields, which have been under operation and production in this district for twenty years, are still active, but little development is going on. Only a few new wells have been started in the old fields during the past year.

NEW FIRM HEADED BY ANGELENO

Henry Whitcup Company Takes Lease on Land of Irvine Ranch

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEWPORT BEACH, Sept. 6.—An independent company headed by Henry Whitcup of Los Angeles has leased eighty acres of the Irvine ranch, near the old Santa Ana Country Club. This land runs north of Seventeenth street and from Tustin avenue back to the bay. It is reported that a rig will be on the ground the first of the week and that the heavy oil sand will be sought, as it is believed that this land is on the same formation as that of the Sharkey asphalt mine of the Newport Petroleum Company.

The Rosenberg No. 2 well on Costa Mesa is ready to start pumping. It is on the Rosenberg Community lease and comprises a large acreage in the vicinity of Victoria street. The first monthly rental payment of $10 per acre has just been paid to property owners under this lease, 148 acres being affected.

In the West Newport area the well on the DeKay Community lease is idle. A meeting of lease holders on Saturday is said to have authorized action to obtain possession of the property again.

ONYX QUARRY BUSY

Yavapai Company Ships 800,000 Pounds to Iowa Plant

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MAYER (Ariz.) Sept. 6.—About 800,000 pounds of onyx has been shipped this year from beds at this point by the Yavapai Onyx Company to its factory in Dubuque, Iowa.

One block lately shipped weighed eleven tons. In order to handle these heavy fragments, new machinery has been added at the quarry, including a large derrick and several drilling machines. Demand for the finished product is reported increasing.

PIPE LINES LAID FOR GAS SUPPLY

Fuel for Los Angeles Will be Obtained

Companies Connect With New Oil Wells

Ventura Avenue District Production Large

Reports to the effect that gas pipelines now being laid from the Ventura avenue field at Ventura to points in Los Angeles county to connect with the local gas distributing systems indicate that Los Angeles and its environs should be abundantly supplied with fuel for industrial and domestic uses during the winter.

The Midway Gas Company and Southern Counties Gas Company, which are now taking dry gas from the Ventura avenue field, are reported to be using only about 25,000,000 cubic feet a day, although the field is producing 60,000,000 cubic feet per day. It is asserted, however, that pipeline work now under way will make it possible for the two companies to take all the dry gas the field is producing before cool weather comes.

COMPANY GETS GAS

The Southern Counties Gas Company is taking gas from the Associated Oil Company wells and from some of the Shell Company wells, while the Midway Gas Company is getting dry gas from the General Petroleum Corporation wells and some of the Shell wells. Field reports indicate that all of the wet gas coming from the wells in this field is being run through the absorption plants for the extraction of casing-head gasoline before the dry gas is turned into the supply lines.

Operators reported Saturday that the average daily production of the Ventura avenue field was between 24,000 and 25,000 barrels of crude oil during the latter part of the week. This is the highest mark that the field has ever established.

The Shell Company's Gosnell No. 14, which came in about ten days ago, has settled down to an output of 3400 barrels per day.

The Associated Oil Company's Lloyd No. 17 is expected to reach completion stage within a week.

WELL NEARS FINISH

Associated's Lloyd No. 21 is down 4650 feet, well into the producing sand. The drillers are having a great deal of difficulty with gas pressure which threatens to heave the tools out of the hole. The well is expected to reach completion within ten days, but it may come in before that time, field men assert.

The Milham Exploration Company has just made location for its Sexton No. 1 well on the 4000-acre lease which it recently acquired from Dabney, Lloyd and Miley, who own the oil rights outright, having obtained them from Joe Sexton. This well will be a few hundred feet from the west line of the lease which adjoins the Associated's big Lloyd lease on the east.

The Associated is preparing to start drilling its Lloyd No. 101 near the east line of its big lease.

Keene, who is a newspaper owner of Taft, made the trip from San Francisco to Naples in sixty-two days.

At Shanghai he found a general strike and went ashore without ill results, although passengers were advised not to land.

MORE GAS FOR DALLAS

Lone Star Company to Build 138 Miles of New Pipeline

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DALLAS (Tex.) Sept. 6.—For the purpose of augmenting the natural gas supply of Dallas about 40 per cent, the Lone Star Gas Company will construct 138 miles of new gas pipe lines at a cost of approximately $5,000,000, according to R. A. Crawford, vice-president and general manager. Lines will be extended into producing fields.

These will include a sixteen-inch line from Breckenridge to Caddo, and an eighteen-inch line from Caddo to Gordon, and from there to Joshua, paralleling the present line. A line will be built from Desdemonia to wells seven miles north of there. From Joshua a new eighteen-inch line will be constructed direct to Dallas and will serve Midlothian and Cedar Hill, along the route.

Mine and Oil Notes From Far and Near

MINING CODE OF STATE ANCIENT

Need of Revision Shown by Federal Register

Many of Present Laws Date Back Fifty Years

Change May be Sought from Next Legislature

California, the foremost State in gold production and among the leaders in the output of many other metals, has a set of mining laws that have not been changed since 1909 and many portions of which are fifty years old.

This observation, prompted by the occurrence of a continuous string of mining conflicts arriving at his office over a period of nearly fifty years, and comparison with the statutes of Nevada, Arizona and Colorado, has so impressed Brainerd B. Smith, Register of the United States Land Office for the southern district of California, with the need for improvements that he has conferred with State Assemblyman Walter J. Little with the idea of introducing amendments at the next session of the California Legislature.

Flimsy, time-worn procedures, designed to protect claimholders, abound in the State mineral laws, according to Register Smith, who by profession is a mining engineer of twenty-five years' experience in the West. It is his contention that the citizenry of the State, as freeholders of the public domain, are in an even more vulnerable position to be robbed of their natural birthright by unscrupulous cliques.

The net result, taken from either standpoint, in his conclusion resolves itself into a wet blanket which stifles the development of California's great metallic resources.

The three major faults cited by the Register are:

That any number of claims can be held by performance of prescribed assessment work on one.

That descriptions required of a locator are so general by nature that a claim can be changed to within a radius of several miles unknown to the government.

That the so-called mining year, ending July 1, in which assessment work must be completed, allows entirely to much time to the claimholder.

Curatives for these legal ills, he says, tre brief and to the point, as follows:

Within ninety days after discovery assessment fulfillments should be finished on each separate claim, excavations—whether shaft or tunnel—being at least 240 cubic feet in content, or four feet by six feet by ten feet deep.

Within thirty days after discovery duties have been performed, affidavit to that effect should be filed with the County Recorder, identifying the ground as to government survey sections, thereby precluding opportunity to shift claims.

Local Company Enlarges Plant for Shale Oil

Diatom Products, Inc., of Los Angeles, is building three retorts, and is increasing the capacity of its reduction and manufacturing plant at Shurman Cut, near Santa Maria, Santa Barbara county, to handle 1000 tons of oil shale daily.

The company's plant, constructed for the extraction of oil from shale, and the manufacture of a number of commercial by-products, has been in successful operation for sometime. From the oil extracted from shale the company is manufacturing fuel oil, flotation oil and lubricating oil, while from the residium it is making several products, such as filtering powder, insulating powder, insecticides, insulating brick, calcined aggregate, and tile. The flotation oil is much in demand by mining companies in the concentration of ores, while the filtering powder is employed by oil companies in preparing gasoline for the market.

S. Ford Eaton, formerly with the company, has resumed his executive position in its service and will act as consulting engineer. George W. Bunton, until recently secretary of the Van Nuys Chamber of Commerce, is now secretary of the company.

COL. HURLEY NOT TO SEEK GOVERNORSHIP

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OKLAHOMA CITY (Okla.) Sept. 6.—The flat refusal of Col. Pat Hurley of Tulsa, veteran of the Spanish-American War and the World War, to permit any longer use of his name in connection with the Republican nomination for Oklahoma next year has thrown a mild consternation into the capital camps of the party leaders and has left most of them high and dry on a dune of speculation. For a long time, many Republican leaders have regarded it as certain that Col. Hurley regarded with favor the spreading of propaganda about his probable candidacy.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

Qualitative analyses will be given in this department of The Times to correspondents on ores and minerals free of charge. Make each sample of an ounce or so in weight. Be sure to write a letter stating what tests are desired and give the approximate locality from which samples were taken. Do not pulverize the specimens. Give your name and address on paper wrapped with samples.

High Grade Manganese

WENDEN (Ariz.) Aug. 15.—Question: I am sending you a sample of ore from the Big Williams River. Will you kindly make tests on same and oblige. N.

Answer: It is a grayish-black and black mixture of Psilomelane and Pyrolusite (peroxides of manganese) and should quantitatively analyze over 70 per cent manganese oxides, at least.

Pyrolusite is the most valuable of the ores of manganese; it contains approximately 5 per cent more oxygen than Psilomelane, and the file-streak is black and soiling. The streak of Psilomelane is brownish-black and shining. The sample shows botryoidal and stalactitic masses, and in part, carries a radiating and fibrous structure. The specimen is almost entirely soluble in hydrochloric acid with evolution of chlorine.

Mineral represented by the sample should find a ready sale, and let us hope that the locality is not forty-five miles from railroad with a mountain trail requiring burros to transport the ore.

Sinaloa Samples

WOODLAND, Aug. 16.—Q.: Please find inclosed in separate package samples of ore from Sinaloa, Mex. I would like you to classify the specimens naming the different minerals therein, and also state in what form the silver is found? X

A.: The samples contain cerussite, microscopic pyrite, galenite, and altered silver-glance in greater or lesser percentages. Native silver is present, and appears to be pseudomoph after silver sulphide. Dark ruby silver and hornsilver traces. Slight reaction for arsenic, and antimony found. Copper traces and traces of silver mulm (stephanite.)

Free Gold Absent

COMPTON, Aug. 17.—Q.: Please classify this sample. Is the gold or silver showing worth while? Samples taken eight feet from surface in South Antelope Valley. L.

A.: The rock is conglomerate (pudding stone,) in part. It contains iron and aluminum silicate with a slight reaction for Bauxite (aluminum-iron hydrate.)

Ruby Silver

RANDSBURG, Aug. 18.—Q.: I am sending you two samples from San Bernardino county, and also a sample of ruby silver ore for your cabinet. Please test sample No. 1 for soap-filler or oil filter; I am not able to classify this. Is No. 2 of any market value in the trades, and what are the uses it could be applied to? The soapy-feeling sample is the footwall for No. 1 sample. A Times reader who appreciates your "In the Earth" column. X.

A.: Sample No. 1, somewhat soapy-feeling, is not Bentonite (medicinal clay.) It forms a dough-like mass in water and is in part Pholerite (hydrated aluminum silicate.) It reacts also as hydrated magnesium silicate, and might be useful as a filtering medium of rather poor grade. It would answer for soap-filler with medicated soaps—if treated. No. 2 is of fine grained silica mixed with lime carbonate and slight strontium reaction; magnesia present. Why not try similar mineral for cement uses?

The sample of crystallized—in spots—ruby silver is appreciated highly. It has been added to the cabinet referred to by you with your name on label.

Arsenic Present

SANTA ANA, Aug. 19.—Q.: Please tell me if the four samples I am sending you are worth mining, and what are they? The specimens are from Silverado Canyon Orange county. Hoping to read that they are of some value. C.

A.: Specimen No. 1 carries traces of microscopical arsenopyrite, pyrite, and blende (zinc sulphide;) lead a trace. No. 2 is quartzitic rock containing traces of microscopic pyrite; free gold absent. No. 3 is on the order of No. 1. No. 4 reacts for iron oxides, shale, and slight zinc content. The samples are probably rather doubtful ores unless fire assays yield gold or silver values in paying quantities.

Chiefly Calcite

ESCONDIDO, Aug. 19.—Q.: I am sending a piece of rock. Please analyze it qualitatively. Oblige. F. B.

A.: The sample contains hydrous (yellow) iron peroxide, and on one side microscopical pyrite appears sparingly. Zinc and strontium present in low percentages.

Granular Mixture

PLEASANT GROVE (Utah) Aug. 20.—Q.: Please analyze the sample for aluminum. What are the charges? M.

A.: No charges whatever. The specimen is a rather doubtful aluminum ore, Kaolin (aluminum silicate) is present with iron oxides. A massive sample should be forwarded for further tests.

Four Samples

COALDALE (Nev.) Aug. 20.—Q.: Sample No. 1 comes from Fish Valley about twenty-four miles from Coaldale; is it borax ore? What kind of rock is No. 2, and what does it contain? It comes from near Red Mountain. No. 3 is from near Columbus Marsh. What is it? No. 4 was found eighteen miles from Coaldale on trail to Fish Valley. D.

A.: No. 1 contains no borax; it is high-grade sodium sulphate (Glauber salt.) No. 2 is Rhyolite and it carries quite a per cent of sulphur. No. 3 is Variscite (gem stone;) also known as amatrice, chlorutahite, and utahlite; it is, chemically, a green hydrous phosphate of aluminum, and No. 4 is high-grade Kalinite (potash alum.)

A Doubtful Filter

FULLERTON, Aug. 21.—Q.: A friend has left inclosed sample with me, knowing that I am a reader of The Times, with the request that I mail same to you for analysis. What uses can it be put to and what is its market value? M.

A.: The sample runs high in silica of fine grain; aluminum silicate present with a slight reaction for strontium. It is somewhat on the order of an abrasive.

Platium Absent

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 22.—Q.: The sample is from Inyo county, California. Please test it for gold, platinum, and valuable other metals. O.

A.: The concentrates contain a bare trace of native gold. Native platinum absent. Magnetite, microscopical pyrite and arsenopyrite present, with more or less titaniferous iron.

Two Samples

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23.—Q.: Samples from San Bernardino county, California. Minerals of value (?) G.

—A.: The yellowish specimen carries limonite (hydrous iron peroxide,) traces of microscopic molybdenite, traces of molybdic ochre, zinc in low percentage, antimony traces, aluminum silicate, and quartz. Bauxite not present. The other specimen reacts for microscopic pyrite; free gold bare traces with slight reactions for antimony, lead, and zinc. No specimen was tested for silver, and the sample, now under discussion, appears to be gouge matter and very much altered.

Alunite

BEATTY (Nev.) Aug. 24.—Q.: This sample is from an average of samples which has been tested and reported as diatomaceous earth kaolin, borax, and silicate of soda. It occurs in the Funeral range of mountains, and I hope you'll hit the mark as to what it is! F.

A.: The sample received by The Times is a white, earthy, and powdery Alunite (alum stone.) It is of pearly luster and reacts for sulphuric acid, alumina, potash and water.

Wind Topples Over Derrick Near Phoenix

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, Sept. 6.—Operations at the site of the Hayden Oil Company's well, nine miles east of Phoenix, have been delayed by the smashing of the eighty-five foot derrick, blown over by a wind storm.

The tower has been rebuilt and machinery for sinking is being assembled. Preparations are being made for going 4000 feet with an initial bore of twenty inches. Work is in charge of J. J. Rayburn.

Ample funds are said to have been provided. A relatively small amount of land has been tied up in leases. A short distance to the eastward is the western border line of the Salt River Pima Indian reservation.

Director
Southern Seas Club

MR WALLACE is president of the First National Bank and Treasurer of the City of Newport Beach. A native of Canada, he graduated from Hamline University, St. Paul, and became associated with Gold, Stabeck & Co., of Minnesota and North Dakota, bankers. After seven years with this firm, he came to California in 1906 and anchored at Newport. During the same year he organized the First National Bank and has remained its head. He has been a most important factor in developing the harbor, coast highway and the excellent public improvements of the Bay district.

Mr. Wallace is a veteran of the Spanish-American war and was wounded in the capture of Manila, Phillipine Islands. His Clubs are: Elks, Shrine, L. A. Athletic, Santa Ana Country and Newport Harbor Yacht. He married Miss Theresa Wagner of Red Wing, Minn., and they have three daughters, Margaret, Elizabeth and Pauline, students of U. S. C.

Mr. Wallace Says:—

"The Club Apartment feature of the Southern Seas Club is an innovation in seashore residential facilities. It means doubling our present Bay-front population and the beginning of a Bay Boardwalk that will be frequented by the best people of Southern California. The price of these apartments, ranging from $3,500 to $6,000 is less than the present price of a vacant lot on the Bay. They represent such exceptional value that many of our own local people are buying them; and their sale will make it very easy for the Directors to finance an early construction program."

LOCAL MEN BACK TEST IN VALLEY

Good Oil Showings Found in Several Wells Through Sacramento County

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 6.—Although oil in commercial quantities has never been found in the Sacramento Valley, an extensive exploration campaign is proceeding in many counties.

Los Angeles, Long Beach and Bakersfield capitalists are backing several ventures in co-operation with local interests. Strong flows of natural gas and small amounts of oil have been tapped in several wells, with indications considered promising at some points.

Two miles west of Zamora, the San Martinez Oil Company is down 4100 feet in an encouraging formation. The Yolo Oil Corporation, four miles west of Woodland, is bailing its 3150-foot well and preparing to resume drilling. Near Winters the Ridge Divide Oil Company is selecting the site for its second well.

Near Elliot station the Pacific Petroleum Producers is drilling through the cement in the expectation of tapping a commercial flow shortly. The Prize Oil and Gas Company is drilling near Arbuckle, and the Montana Royalties Consolidated, is working at Sites, thirteen miles west of Maxwell. Several other companies are active in Colusa, Yolo, Sacramento and San Joaquin counties.

Old Kern Wells of Republic Oil Are Redrilling

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 6.—The Republic Producing Company, with twenty-four wells in Kern county, is doing some redrilling to freshen up production on its several leases. Some of the holes were completed more than fifteen years ago and little has been done to them since, although they are pumping with little decline in output. Eugene Mackey, 14 Wall street, New York, is president of the corporation, and A. J. Quinn is secretary. Ed Robinson is superintendent.

After getting down 4450 feet on Section 30, 29-22, northeast of McKittrick, the Barnsdall Oil Company has backed up to 3400 feet for a redrilling job. Just west, on Section 25, 29-21, the Standard Oil Company's two Weston wells are down 3000 and 4000 feet.

Eumber is on the ground for rebuilding the derrick over the Lowell No. 2 well on Section 1, 11-24, which was burned two weeks ago. The rig destroyed was one of the oldest in the Sunset field, having been set up in 1902, and the well has produced ever since.

The Tannehill Oil Company has a new well on its property on Section 33, 12-24, down about 500 feet and Supt. McGill is debating whether to complete in the upper producing sands or go on into the brown shale, making a test well of it.

TEXAS WILDCAT STIRS HOPE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ARTESIA (N. M.) Sept. 6.—The prospect of opening up a new oil field in Western Texas is seen in the performance of the P. V. Petroleum Company's wildcat well—Wheat No. 1—on section 26, block 1, Loving county.

The well has been regarded as the rankest kind of a wildcat, but when it was opened up yesterday it produced twenty-eight barrels of oil testing between 40 and 50 degrees gravity.

The oil came from a depth of 4263 feet. It is reported that the bit only penetrated the sand for three feet. Scores of geologists and lease men have been on the ground during the past two days, and considerable land has changed hands. Most of it has been picked up by the big companies at prices averaging about $100 an acre.

Man Killed in Crash Said to Be Angeleno

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

YUMA (Ariz.) Sept. 6.—The man who died in a hospital here of internal injuries last night following an automobile collision on the new Warrenite highway at Ment Corner in which three others were injured, and Rev. Paul Bosworth of the Christian Church of Yuma, narrowly escaped death, is now believed to be George W. Scott Barrier of Los Angeles, formerly of Alma, Ark.

SILHOUETTE FIGURE PASSE THIS SEASON

WINTER MODES TO DEMAND PLENTY OF FEMININE CURVES

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, Sept. 6.—An unexpected decree making the "shapely" figure again stylish, brings relief to thousands of worshipers at the shrine of fashion in Great Britain. The silhouette figure of last year demanded a leanness bordering upon emaciation, and also a perfectly flat, boyish type of figure difficult to attain. Now all is changing—women need no longer be thin. Hence the skeleton beauties are taking rest cures and going in heavily for Devonshire cream and other fattening luxuries and pursuing every possible aid to plumpness.

The new winter figure will of course, never suit the actually stout woman, but the fashion creators insist that "a becoming amount of plumpness" with a few "graceful curves," will be decidedly the thing. Ankles, arms and throats must remain slender, but hollow chests and sunken cheeks are now unfashionable.

The reason is largely found in the new gowns, which are waistless and fit closely to the natural curves of the figure. The dresses now, therefore, lose all their effect on an angular figure. In the words of one who knows, "The winter girl of 1925-26 is to be a girl smart but supple, neat, yet dainty, and feminine from velvet hat to fur flounces."

SOUTHWEST HAS NEW PRODUCERS

New Mexico Fields Bring in Seven Wells

Proven Areas Still Hold Drillers' Interest

Considerable Gas Found in Artesia District

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ARTESIA (N. M.) Sept. 6.—Seven more producers have been added to the local oil field, several of which are big wells for this area. On Sec. 21, 18-28, Flynn, Welch & Yates have completed their No. 21 and No. 22. Considerable gas has been encountered and the wells are being cleaned out after having been shot. The No. 21 filled a 250-barrel tank in one flow. To the west of these producers, Snowdon, McSweeney & McNutt have brought in their No. 4 which ranks with their No. 2 on the same lease, the latter showing better than 400 barrels flush production, when completed several weeks ago.

On the northeast quarter of Sec. 9, 18-28, Flynn, Welch & Yates are completing their No. 16 which offsets the Ohio-New States producers to the south. This well is making better than 500,000 feet of gas and considerable oil. The Texas Company in the same neighborhood has shot its No. 2 with 160 quarts of glycerin and the well has been flowing by heads.

CLEAN-CUT WELL

On the Southwest one-quarter of Sec. 17, 18-28, the Dancigar Oil and Refining Company is cleaning out the Cummins No. 2 following a shot of 200 quarts of glycerine run from 2103 to 2140 feet. This well stood to within 150 feet of the top in fluid before shooting, having encountered the two sands of that section.

In the south end of the field Snowdon & McSweeney have turned a rather doubtful test into a nice producer, it being their No. 2 on Sec. 33, 18-28. A shot of forty quarts of glycerin in nine feet of sand from 2051 to 2060 feet caused the hole to fill 700 feet with fluid overnight, a second shot of the same size was run from 2022 feet to the bottom of the hole.

As the result of these completions production from the Artesia field is now estimated at around 4500 barrels per day, a large percentage of which is being turned into the pipe lines by independent operators. The recent cut in the price of crude will not affect development work here in the least, but has caused considerable comment, most of which is relative to the building of an independent pipe line.

At present production from this field is being run by the Illinois Pipe Line Company, which is a branch of the Ohio and the New Mexico Pipe Line Company. Both companies are to erect refineries here. They have a large amount of storage.

STILL ATTRACTS

While the proven area still attracts its share of attention, operators are closely watching a number of wildcats, two of which are nearing an interesting depth. One of these is the Snowdon, McSweeney on the Twin Hills anticline, Sec. 4, 21-30, which has resumed drilling and is now below 3200 feet. The contract calls for this test to go to 4000 feet and if structural conditions count for anything this should make a well.

Northeast of the producing area the A. H. Ramage No. 1 on the southwest one-quarter of Sec. 31, 17-29 is drilling below 2000 feet, having encountered several nice showings and considerable gas. To the east of the field the D. C. Cheesman No. 1 is down 3150 feet and in all probability will be carried to 3500 feet for a thorough test.

GOAT RAISING PAYS FARMERS IN CANADA

BULLETIN SHOWS MANITOBA HAS FORTY MILK HERDS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WINNIPEG (Man.) Sept. 6.—Goats formerly regarded as fit companions for discarded tin cans and backyard rubbish heaps are butting their way into the farm economy of Western Canada. Manitoba has forty milk goat herds and breeders in the Province are taking steps to organize a goat society, according to a bulletin of the department of agriculture.

Tests on the farm of Capt. H. A. Walters, pioneer goat breeder of Petersfield, Man., have shown that goat produce milk more economically than cows and can be raised successfully under conditions where cows would not thrive. Eight goats, according to Capt. Walters, can be kept in full milk on the same amount of feed that it requires to maintain one cow. The average good milk goat produces from two to three quarts of milk a day. Moreover, the goat unlike the cow is nontuberculous.

The milk goat has already established itself in British Columbia. Goat raising has developed into a profitable branch of the livestock industry. There are more than 200 herds, comprising thousands of pure bred animals, in the Province as well as large numbers of grades.

COCHISE COUNTY FAIR TO HAVE FINE DISPLAY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) Sept. 6.—Plans are being perfected for the annual Cochise County Fair, to be given in Douglas the 24th to 26th inst. The agricultural display is expected to be of notable importance, from the San Simon, Sulphur Springs and San Pedro valleys, especially including Valencia onions of mammoth size and fine quality and superior fruit from the mountain districts.

MILLION FROM GAS TAX

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PIERRE (S. D.) Sept. 6.—Total income from the State tax on gasoline in South Dakota during the fiscal year 1925 amounted to $1,415,479, according to State Auditor Jones. Of this amount $178,807 was refunded to purchasers of gasoline not used in motor vehicles, leaving a balance of $1,238,672 as the net receipts of the State from this source.

INGLEWOOD PUT IN IDEAL CLASS

Three Outstanding Features Found in Field

Two Factors Depth and Lack of Water Trouble

Large Average Production of Wells is Third

Inglewood, the field of many surprises, which has done the unexpected so often that oil operators no longer are astonished by anything it does, appears to have all the characteristics of an ideal oil field. Its large per well production obtained at shallow depths, without mechanical difficulty or water trouble, are three characteristics which have been known and recognized for some time.

The last and possibly the most important quality of all—consistency of production—is a factor which can never be determined until a field has been fully developed. Now, two months after its peak, Inglewood still hovers within a few thousand barrels of its highest record, and manifests symptoms of maintaining this rate of production with only a minimum decline.

Drilling in the Inglewood field is at its lowest ebb since the intensive development of the field began last spring. Including the outposts and wildcat wells, clustered around the edge of the field, there are at present only twenty-eight drilling projects there. Practically all of these are being carried on by the large companies, who are completing their drilling programs at their leisure.

The Standard Oil Company has ten wells drilling at Inglewood, the Pacific Oil Company has five, Associated Oil Company has four, Shell Company has three, Petroleum Securities Company has two, and the Brown-Shasta Oil Company, California Petroleum Corporation, Brownmoor Oil Company, and Oscar Howard, have one each.

Of these twenty-eight wells approximately twenty are likely to be productive, the remainder being located either off the structure entirely, or on the edge where water will effectually prevent successful completion. In the opinion of oil men, when these wells are finished, Inglewood will be through drilling, so far as the shallow sands are concerned, as the structure is well defined, and unless the unexpected happens, there is little chance of an extension of the producing area.

In the meantime enterprising operators are doing their best to find a reoccurrence of the Inglewood structure to the north, south and west. The Pacific Oil Company on its great Anita Baldwin lease has hopes of finding a new structure north of present development, and the Standard Oil Company hopes to do something of the kind in its Stoker No. 2, south of the present field. On the west the Elbe Corporation, and the Petroleum Securities Company both are trying to prove that the Inglewood structure rises again, the former on the flats near the Culver City Speedway, and the Petroleum Securities in the hills at The Palms. None of these extension wells have yet developed anything special in the way of showings.

King Solomon Mine Expected to Yield Well

The main working shaft of the old King Solomon mine in the Randsburg district, Kern county, owned by the San Francisco Gold Mines Company, has attained a depth of 460 feet from the surface, and the last few shots have indicated the entrance of the mine workings into the sulphide zone, and at depths of from 700 to 800 feet it is expected secondary enrichment will be in evidence. Developments of this nature, it is believed by the management, should enable the mine, at no distant day, to take rank as one of the big producers of the district.

According to an estimate made by an experienced mining operator, who recently examined the King Solomon, the mine has over $900,000 in ore in sight in its workings, and the company is now getting ready for a larger tonnage capacity in mill treatment.

The ore now being handled, as shown by mill heads, is reported to assay better than $30 in gold to the tone. Occasionally it runs much higher; mine samples, it is said, running up to $350 per ton.

Several important discoveries have been reported in the district of late, the recent important strike in the Big Four, half a mile east of the King Solomon, having created much excitement in mining circles in Randsburg, as well as in Los Angeles.

This strike, at a depth of 1295 feet in the Big Four, is not far from the property of the Randsburg Associated, owning adjoining ground.

CONFIDENCE IN MINE

Success Expected to Result from Reopening of White Hills

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

KINGMAN (Ariz.) Sept. 6.—Strong confidence is felt locally, that success will attend the reopening of the White Hills mines. Old miners declare the property to have been poorly developed, despite its recorded production of $9,000,000, all taken from above the 400 level. It is reported that the new management will sink a shaft to at least 1000 feet.

The Premier Gold Mines Company is doubling the capacity of its milling plant at Stockton Hill, after development of a large ore body in the mine. The same corporation operates mines in British Columbia.

DETECTIVE RESCUES FAINTING SWIMMER

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Detective James McIvor of Tottenville was in bathing at Tottenville Beach during his time off, when he saw Miss L. Bobeck, 25 years of age, of Jersey City, another bather, sink beneath the surface. He brought her ashore. She said she had fainted while in the water.

ROSECRANS OIL PRODUCTION UP

Daily Average Increased by 3000 Barrels

Gain Reported as Heaviest for Some Time

New Completions Mostly in Athens District

The Rosecrans field boosted its average daily output by about 3000 barrels last week. This is the greatest increase the field has registered for several weeks and is the result of several completions, mostly in the Athens area—none of which were large, but which added substantially to the grand total.

The California Petroleum Corporation, George F. Getty, Golden State Refining Company, Fullerton Oil Company, and W. H. Fisher, and Union Oil Company all reported completions during the week, the new wells averaging between 650 and 750 barrels a day.

Operators expect several new completions at Rosecrans during the week. The Superior Oil Company, Marine Corporation, Associated Oil Company and several others have wells on the verge of completion.

The outpost wells to the west and northwest apparently are finding nothing exciting. The Burnham Exploration Company, which has been drilling Wagner No. 2 west of the field, has shut down after reaching 4310 feet without showings.

The Bilhorn well of the Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company, located about half way between Athens and Inglewood has a fishing job at 4825 feet, and the Pan American Petroleum Company's Anderson, No. 1 south of the Bilhorn about one-half mile, is making hole at about 4600 feet without indications.

These developments have almost convinced some of the operators that no production is to be expected between Athens and Inglewood, although geologists have for several years been trying to figure out a structure somewhere in that vicinity. These experts have figured that the structure after plunging at Athens has plenty of room to come up again before reaching Inglewood, and that possibly it has, but they have not yet found it.

E. J. Miley's deep well continues to get deeper. Last report showed the bottom at 7454 feet. Several days were spent in reaming the hole to reduce the chance of freezing the casing when Miley gets ready to make a test. The last cores taken are said to have shown oil sand even richer than the formation first found at 7203 feet.

MARKET IN COTTON IS IRREGULAR

Divergence of Opinion on Progress of Crop Causes Wide Fluctuation

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—The cotton markets were irregular and unsettled throughout the week due to the wide divergence of opinion throughout the trade here and in the South with regard to the progress of the crop and the course of prices. A week ago, when there was a great deal of liquidation and southern hedge selling on the market and also considerable speculative selling there was a consensus that the crop was doing well enough for the coming government report to show an increased yield to a prospect of about 14,300,000 bales without linters from the indicated crop of 13,990,000 bales in its last report issued August 24 from the 62 per cent average condition to August 16.

Such expectations caused the decline in the market last week approximating about $5 a bale from the previous Saturday's closing quotations. The market started off this week with a continuation of that pressure. It brought prices down 50 to 55 points further from last Saturday's closing by early in the week to 21.85 for October contracts, December 22.10, January 21.57, March 21.88 and May 22.18.

Those were the lowest prices reached since last May. The consideration of this and the tendency to reduce crop estimates from later private reports lowering the average condition of the crop to about 57 per cent for the September 1 condition, turned the market up with active covering of shorts. In the resultant advance October contracts sold at 22.65 early Friday, December 22.95, January 22.40, March 22.70 and May 23.02. Those prices showed a maximum recovery of between 80 and 85 points, or $4 a bale from the low levels of early in the week.

There was some fresh profit taking and southern selling during the late afternoon Friday on which the market reacted 20 to 25 points from the top, with October finishing yesterday at 22.40; December, 22.70; January, 22.20; March, 22.50 and May, 22.80.

The New York and New Orleans exchanges will be closed Monday. Business will be resumed at the usual time Tuesday morning.

At noon that day the government's semimonthly crop report will appear calculated to the 1st inst., and the market will fluctuate during the greater part of the coming week in accordance with what it will show.

The trade is now expecting it will make the condition 57 per cent and the indicated crop 14,000,000 bales, without linters. This would go against a condition of 62 and a crop prospect of 13,990,000 bales in the last report, figured to August 16. Private crop reports have made the condition as low as 53 and as high as 60, with crop estimates ranging all the way from 13,000,000 to 14,500,000 bales.

The crop reporting board gave out a statement a few days ago that it had again raised its "pars" for figuring the yield of lint cotton per acre, as was the case in calculating the last two reports. This will serve to offset to some extent the deterioration in the average condition of the crop the trade is expecting the coming government report will show from that of a fortnight ago.

The amount of the crop brought into sight this week is 418,000 bales against 273,000 last week and 267,000 last year.

Petition Seeks Land Grant for Pioneer Miners

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BISBEE (Ariz.) Sept. 6.—M. M. Mills, a pioneer Arizona miner, is circulating a petition, to be turned over to Senator H. F. Ashurst, asking a governmental grant of 500,000 acres, to provide homes for aged and unemployed miners. A grant of land was made Arizona in the enabling act for establishment of a miners' hospital, but the idea has not been carried out, although occasionally favored in party platforms.

It is declared that most of the pioneer English-speaking miners have left the State and that most of the mining now is done with Mexican, Slav and Italian labor.

VOLUME OF ARABIC LEXICON EXPENSIVE

PUBLICATION COST HIGH FOR WORK OBTAINED BY TEXAS PASTOR

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Sept. 6. Each of the eight folio volumes in the Arabic lexicon that Rev. Edward Day, librarian at Duncan Field, has just obtained cost not less than $100 each to publish. Mr. Day, is the pastor of the Unitarian Society in San Antonio.

The eight volumes constitute Edward William Lane's lexicon published in 1865, under the patronage of the Duke of Northumberland and subsidized by the British government. Mr. Day obtained the lexicon through a book firm of New York. A letterhead found in one of the volumes showed that they had been at one time in use in Constantinople.

So great is the cost of such an Arabic lexicon, according to a communication from Chicago University that an Arabic scholar of the university writes that he must wait fifty years for a new one. Meanwhile, those who can get a second-hand copy of Lane or Freytag, which is thirty years older, may count themselves fortunate. Rev. Mr. Day has had a Freytag, published in 1837, which he has used for two years.

Rev. Mr. Day has been working as a biblical scholar for a quarter of a century.

EXTENSION GRANTED IN SALE OF PAPER PLANT

NEW YORK SYNDICATE MAKES APPLICATION IN CANADIAN COURT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) Sept. 6.—A surprise was dropped in the lap of the Whalen Pulp and Paper Company's bondholders when instead of being able to buy the assets of the concern valued at $7,000,000, at their own price, excluding creditors and second mortgage debenture holders, application was made by a new syndicate headed by J. R. Harbeck of New York for an extension of thirty days in the sale time.

These three pulp plants went into the hands of a receiver some time ago and the receiver asked the court for their sale. The order was granted and the sale date fixed.

The bondholders made a temporary agreement with the Royal Securities Corporation for the sale of the properties, and it was understood that this offer would be made to the court and accepted.

According to the plan there was apparently no provision made for the second mortgage debenture holders nor the creditors when application was made for an extension of time. The feature that appealed to the judge was that the proposition made by Harbeck and his associates provided preferential stock for the second mortgage debenture holders and common stock for the creditors.

Justice Murphy agreed to a thirty-day extension of time for organization.

COUPLE WED SIXTY YEARS STILL HAPPY

Los Angeles Residents Say Their Marriage Has Been Pleasant Success

From the summit of the years Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Post of 846 North Kingsley Drive yesterday looked over six decades of living together and in face of being thought old-fashioned declared marriage to be a pleasant success. Both are in their eighties.

Sixty years ago they were married in Dundas, Ont. They came to Riverside thirty-three years ago and to Los Angeles six years ago. Mr. Post was with the Arlington Heights Fruit Company of Riverside until retirement.

Many friends stopped at their home yesterday to felicitate them. They have three children here, George H. Post, Mrs. St. Clair Ledgood and Miss Ethel Post; another son, F. W. Post in Bellflower and another, P. W. Post in Chicago.

City Petitions Roads to Cease Fight on Depot

Formal adoption of the resolution calling on executives of the Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and Santa Fe railroads "to cease further opposition to this great public improvement"—the union passenger terminal and grade-crossing elimination projects—has taken place and the resolution now is spread on the City Council's records.

In the resolution the City Council declare that years of effort, large financial outlay and unanimous reports of expert investigators back of the Interstate Commerce Commission's recent action favorable to the projects should, with the Federal action, be sufficient to cause the rail executives "to co-operate with the city, county and State authorities to the end that this improvement may go forward—concurrently with the magnificent Civic Center project already approved by our citizens and to be located in the immediate vicinity" of the proposed terminal.

REDS BEHIND CHINESE REVOLT, SAYS VICTIM

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, Sept. 6.—Bolshevist influence is behind the Chinese revolt, according to William B. Goldrick and Miles A. Goldrick, formerly of Los Angeles and now of Shanghai, here on their way to New York. William Goldrick was stoned by a mob of coolies just outside the foreign settlement, escaping injury by leaping into a passing automobile. The attack was made in the belief that he was a British subject, he thought. He was the first American attacked. The revolt will die out in a few months unless Bolshevist money and propaganda are thrown strongly behind it, the Goldricks said. They have no doubt that there is some Red influence already at work. The Goldrick brothers served with the Chinese Red Cross in several internal wars.

WILDCAT HITS SAND

Standard Reports Showing in Lost Hills Hole

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LOST HILLS, Sept. 6.—The Standard Oil Company is reported to have picked up an excellent sand in its wildcat well being drilled on Section 12, 25-19, northwest of the Lost Hills field, the strata having been encountered at a depth of approximately 2850 feet.

The ten-inch casing was cemented off at a depth of 2800 feet. Whether this find will prove to be a commercial sand is not determined as yet, but since it is the first important sand found, it is to be given a test before going deeper. The well is on the south end of the Kettleman Hills structure.

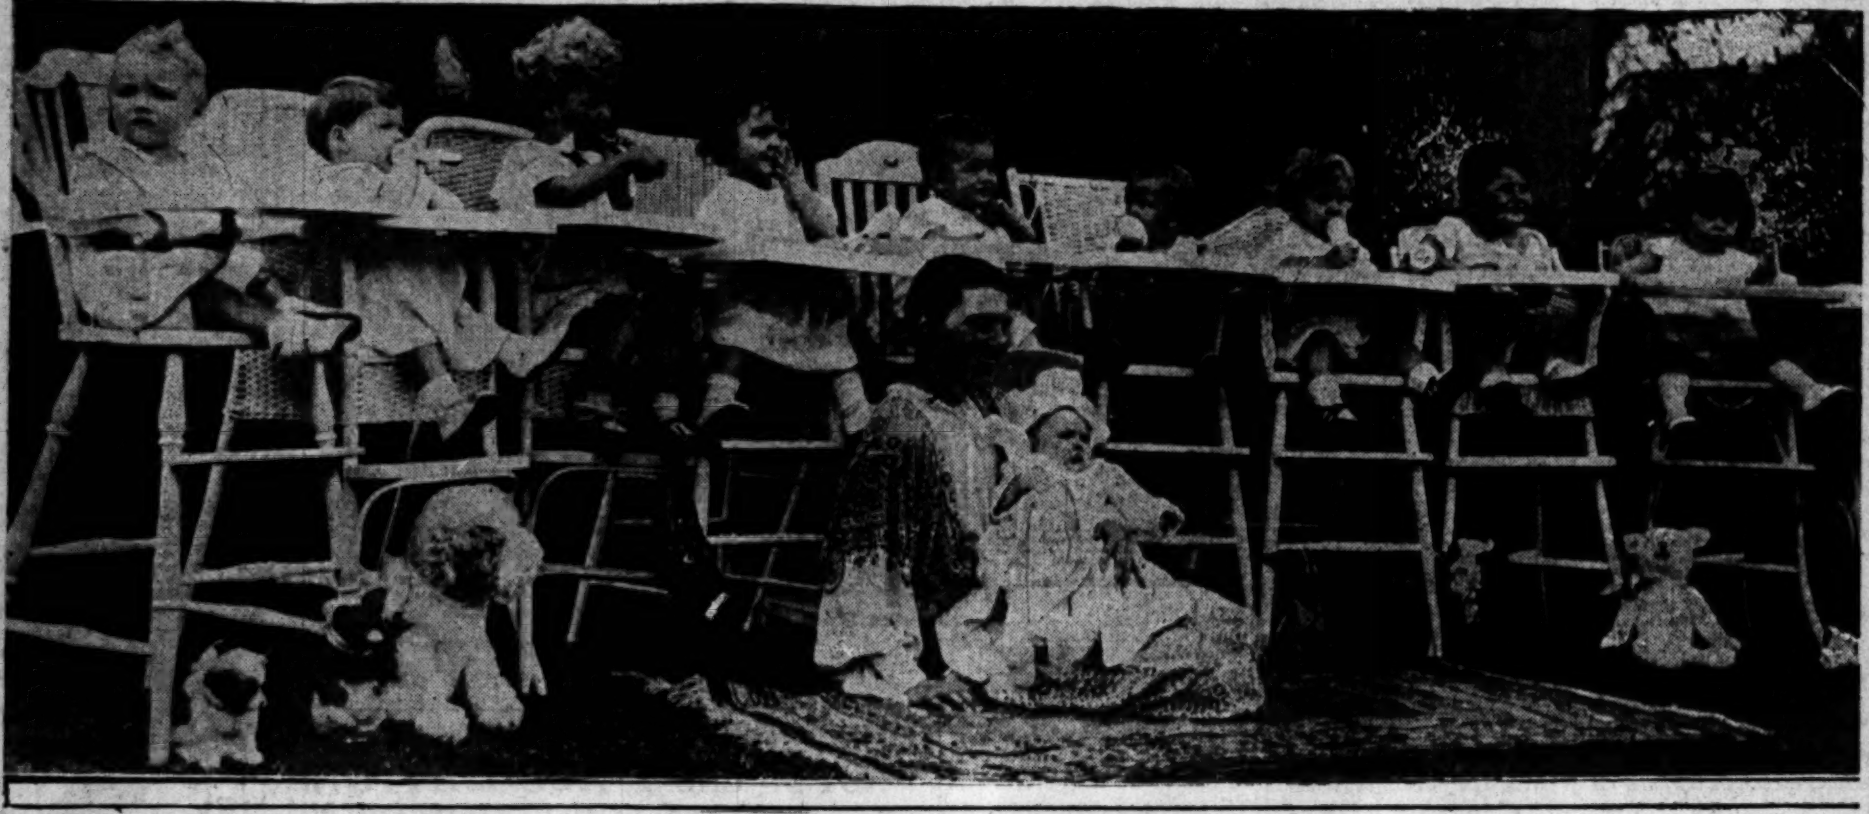
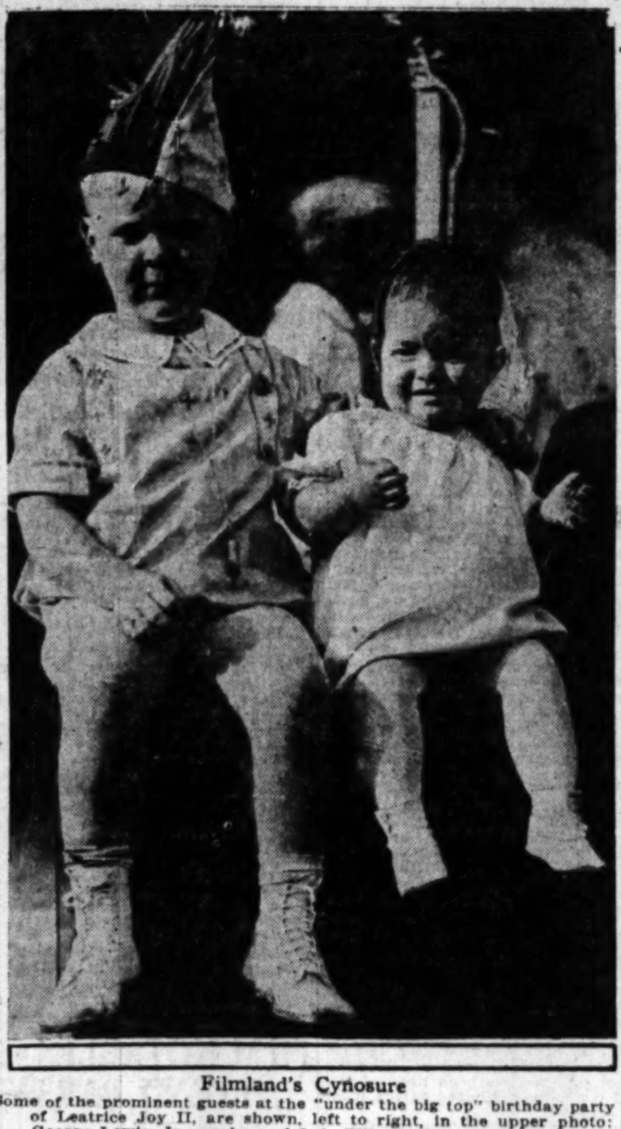
SCREEN NOTABLES OF FUTURE ATTEND REAL "JOY" PARTY

Leatrice, the Second, Hostess as Children of Celebrities Attend Fete





Filmland's Cynosure

Some of the prominent guests at the "under the big top" birthday party of Leatrice Joy II, are shown, left to right, in the upper photo: George Lewis, Jr., nephew of Lois Wilson; Betty Ann Armstrong, daughter of Arthur Charles Armstrong; Charles Meredith, Jr. and Diane Meredith, children of Charles Meredith; Barbara Roscoe, daughter of Al Roscoe; Leatrice Joy II, Karen Hale, son of Allan Hale; Walter Sidney Franklin, son of Sidney Franklin; Barbara Ford, daughter of Jack Ford; sitting are Leatrice Joy and Sally Ann Rawlinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rawlinson. The lower photo shows William S. Hart, Jr., and Leatrice Joy II.

LEATRICE JOY II celebrated her first birthday anniversary yesterday by officiating as hostess and walking for the first time.

It was a gala day for the younger generation of filmdom. The small sons and daughters of Hollywood's celebrities made merry all afternoon under a big tent which had been erected on the lawn adjoining the home of Leatrice Joy, film star, at 1375 Sweetzer avenue.

The famous "Our Gang" came over from Hal Roach's studio bearing gifts for the young hostess, and were the life of the party, which was voted one of the smartest and most unique affairs in the social history of the film colony. The big tent was decorated with Japanese lanterns and toy balloons. One of the many attractive favors consisted of silhouettes of each of the small guests cut out by a Hindu artist.

Leatrice Joy II, assisted by her famous mother, made a most gracious hostess. So anxious was she to do her full social duty that she walked for the first time. Her table at the birthday feast was one of the features of the party, all the guests being seated in little white highchairs and supplied with rattles.

William Hart, Jr., son of the "western" star, had a birthday party, also, at the home of his mother, Winifred Westover Hart, but he gallantly paid his respects to Leatrice Joy II by visiting her party in the course of the afternoon.

Silk Stockings for $1—Try and Get 'Em

BY ALMA WHITAKER

Now which, I ask you, of us guileless, trusting feminine souls, with a perfectly honorable silk-stocking yearn, would not bite?

Oh, dears, just the nicest firm is doing superaltruistic business in our midst . . . oh, they have found you, too, have they?

Didn't your fond eyes just beam with gratitude when the lovely plan was explained to you?

Five pairs of silk stockings for $1. Didn't it thrill you?

And after the first mild shock of discovering that it is only a coupon you get for your first dollar, your faith wasn't seriously shaken, was it?

Because, when you presented it to headquarters, it all sounded so delightfully simple. And besides, of course, it was pointed out to you tenderly, patiently, that you had signed a contract . . . dear me, there always seems to be a horrid contract somewhere.

But it seems that you pay three more paltry dollars and become the proud and happy possessor of three more coupons. Jolly things, coupons.

The stockings? Oh, they are still reposing on the firm's shelves—perfectly honest, real silk stockings.

You have now paid $4, for which you posses four coupons. And you listen to a siren voice murmuring something about "three friends."

What, didn't you understand? Funny woman. Why, you have to sell three of those coupons to three friends for $1 apiece. And that gives you three of the dollars back—even if it means the last of your three friends.

A trifle dazed, and feeling involved in bigger business than your feminine mind usually copes with, with your love for coupons dwindling and your yearn for silk stockings increasing, you sally forth to headquarters to report progress.

And, of course, to get the stockings.

Tut, tut, my dear. Come, come, you didn't really think those alluring stockings could be yours as easily as that? Why, your three friends haven't bought their three coupons apiece yet.

Don't you let your friends do any backsliding on you. Keep after them. Read up on the "Psychology of Salesmanship."

PLAN ARCHITECTS' BUILDING

University of Southern California Will Erect New Structure for Special Course

In pursuance of the plans recently announced by officials of the University of Southern California for the establishment at the local institution of a school of architecture, a decision has been reached to erect a new building on the campus, complete in every detail, which will house the activities of this school. Plans for the structure already have been prepared and contracts for the erection of the building have been let.

The site selected for the new building comprises an acre of ground between University avenue, Figueroa street, Thirty-fifth street, and Thirty-fourth street. The building, which will have a frontage on Thirty-fifth street of 131 feet, with a depth of 120 feet, will be built in the form of a hollow square, and all of the activities of the school will be housed around this court.

The accommodations will include a library, a drafting room for 136 men, a studio with north light for the drawing division, lecture and classrooms, a room for modeling, and a secluded outdoor court for the still and life drawing classes.

The old building, formerly occupied by the department of architecture, will be converted into the university high school. The decision of the university authorities to establish the new school of architecture, and to erect a new building to house the school, was made as a result of specific recommendations toward this end by the Allied Architects' Association at the close of the last school term. During the past year the association has supervised instruction in the department of architecture, without charge to the university, and courses in architecture and allied arts have been given by members also have prepared the members of the association, all of whom are practicing architects. The members also have prepared the problems in design and supervised their execution. The arrangement between the association and the university will be continued during the coming year.

The association, feeling that Southern California should have a separate school of architecture, on a par with that of the University of California at Berkeley, recommended that such a school be established by the University of Southern California, and the recommendation was adopted. The course of training has been increased from four to five years, at which time the student is given the degree of bachelor of architecture. The new school of architecture also will offer a six-year course, with the degree of master of architecture. Complete courses, with degrees, also will be offered in landscape architecture, community planning, architectural engineering and decorative arts.

VACATION DAYS CLOSING

ARMY OF FRESHMEN TO SIGN THURSDAY

About 4000 young men and women will taste for the first time of the thrills, joys and inspirations—mixed with unavoidable heartaches here and there—attendant upon registration in the higher institutions of learning when universities and colleges of Los Angeles and vicinity throw open their doors for the fall semester, beginning with the registration of freshmen next Thursday.

The local institutions have been preparing for the new year by revising courses, making additions and bringing in new teaching talent. It is expected that there will be about a 10 per cent increase in the total student enrollment locally over that of last fall.

The Southern Branch of the University of California plans to accommodate more than 6000 students, 2000 of whom will be freshmen. This is an increase of more than 1000 over last year's registration. The University Training School is being temporarily moved off the campus which will increase the classroom space 40 per cent. thus providing for the augmented student body.

Twenty-six new professors have been added to the faculty, which now numbers 230 instructors. Dr. William Bennett Munro will come to the political science department from Harvard University. Dr. Charles Grave Haines, who is also to join the teaching staff of the aforementioned department, is famous for his unusual collection of United States and foreign documents. Prof. John Rigeleman, M.A., also comes here from Harvard. Sir John Adams, who is to lecture at the branch, arrives here from the University of London. He recently has been knighted by the King of England in recognition of his research on the subject of education. Dr. Gordon Watkins comes from the University of Illinois to join the economics department. Bill Spaulding, well-known coach from Minnesota, is to be director of physical education.

Registration and necessary examinations at the branch will take place the 11th to 14th inst., instruction beginning the 15th inst.

SCHOOL LEGIONS TO RETURN TOMORROW

With the opening of school tomorrow morning the vacation period ends for more than 200,000 boys and girls.

The enrollment for the new school year is expected to surpass last year's registration by several thousand, it was announced last night.

By the end of the first month the average daily attendance will be in excess of 150,000, according to present indications.

For the last few weeks an army of workmen has been rushing to completion scores of new building and additions to many schools. Among these are the James A. Garfield High School in Belvedere Gardens and the David Starr Jordan High School at Watts.

More than 7400 teachers will be on the pay roll, an increase of 200 over the number who were employed when school closed for the summer vacation period. The pay-roll budget for the new school year starting tomorrow is in the neighborhood of $19,000,000.

With the doubling of the school population in Los Angeles during the last four years and with all indications pointing to a substantial increase in the next few months, the Board of Education is rushing to completion dozens of new high schools, grammar schools and kindergartens.

The McKinley Evening High School, corner of Vernon and McKinley avenues, reopens tomorrow night. A large number of courses will be offered, among them being the commercial branches, English, Spanish, dressmaking, millinery, furniture making, mechanical drawing, printing and linotyping.

An employment bureau will be opened to aid students in finding work, and also to be of assistance to employers by recommending suitable people to them.

Classes will be held four evenings a week, including Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 7 to 9 o'clock.

There are no charges of any kind, both books and instruction being furnished without cost to the student.

THE SINNER'S SONNET

BY E. D. CAHN

[Copyright, 1925]

I never was one for strife, yet I am not the sort that
Will take any back talk from anybody. I do not believe
In the daily spat and I have a natural aversion to Family jars. Wrangling and jangling and those debates
Commonly called acrimonious just grieve me to death.
I am for peace and harmony. I desire to maintain friendly Relations not only with my neighbors but also with my Folks. But I take no lip from anybody. I always stick up
For every last one of my rights. I can chew the rag as hard
As anybody if I have to. Nobody puts it over me if I know
It. I can scrap until the peace is rent into tiny bits—
And somehow or other—I frequently have to do it. Yet
Every time I hear other people quarreling I wonder why on Earth they can't manage to get along.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—There was once a day when Washington was famous for its restaurants.

They are now about the worst in the world.

Good eaters tell me with sobs of grief that this is due to prohibition.

That may have had something to do with it; but the automobile probably had more. People aren't so much interested in eating any more. They are too intent on going somewhere.

REDUCING

There is no question, too, but that the present fashions of women have had much to do with the decline of luxurious eating.

No woman past the flapper age can wear these young-girl clothes and not count her calories. And she starts her old man counting them, too.

TRAFFIC! HUH!

Washington thinks it is having a frightful struggle with a traffic problem.

About every other street seems to be marked off as a boulevard stop. And the populace rages and screams about: "What shall we do with this terrible traffic jam!"

The funny part is that you could put the combined traffic of Washington on Broadway, Los Angeles; and everybody would be asking with dismay: "What's the matter? Why are the streets empty this morning?"

GET YOUR LIP STICK!

When you get away from Los Angeles, you begin to realise the influence of the Hollywood film stars.

No where else in the world, unless it be in New York, are there so many well-dressed women, so many beautiful women—or so much make-up as in California.

A day spent in Washington would disarm any Puritan who objects to make-up. You feel like saying to them: "For heaven's sake, go home and get your lip stick."

THE VETERAN FAILED

Vean Gregg, the baseball player, who was the wonder of the Pacific Coast in 1924, has been given his walking papers by the Washington club.

He has been sent to the minor leagues; and probably never will come back.

He had been a big star with Cleveland before he went to the Coast. Washington paid $15,000 for him; only to meet disappointment.

Baseball critics say that the failure of the old veteran with the world champions was due to the changed methods of pitching.

BELLE OF WASHINGTON

I asked one of the Washington society reporters the other day to tell me the name of the greatest belle now in the capital.

She thought a minute; then replied that it is still Alice Roosevelt Longworth.

A TWENTY-YEAR REIGN

"When she enters the drawing-room there isn't any girl in Washington who could hold the attention against her," she said. "With perhaps the exception of Dolly Madison, no woman who ever came to Washington could hold a candle to her. And the funny part is, she doesn't care."

THE ADMIRAL DANCES

Flappers do not hold the center of the stage in Washington as in other parts of the country.

For instance, one of the finest dancers in Washington, and one of the most popular partners, is an old admiral—very near the retiring age.

There is so much competition to be his partner that, for diplomatic reasons, he has stopped dancing — except in private homes. He has as much difficulty as the Prince of Wales.

IT WAS BUNK

By the way, that St. Louis girl who was chosen by the Prince of Wales as his dancing partner on board ship when he last came to America—

Ever since, she has been spoken of by the papers as "the favorite dancing partner of the Prince of Wales."

Yes she was; huh!

That very brief dance, I am informed, was danced by request of the British Foreign Office, sent by wireless to the ship. The young lady had a pa with a pull.

TRIPLE CONCERT IS KHJ FEATURE

Sunday Afternoon Program Regular Number

Martin Music Company Host During Evening

Monday Silence to be Broken for Radio Show

BY PAUL SHEEDY

Melody ruled yesterday from KHJ. Three splendid concerts were sent out into the air through the tower studio of The Times. From midafternoon until late evening, groups of the city's accomplishd artists gav programs of unusual excellence and beauty.

Of the three concerts given, two were unprecedented. At 4 o'clock, in the quiet of the Sunday afternoon, the station made its bow with an innovation for the pleasure of the thousands of patrons of KHJ. The Western Auto Supply Company made its debut with a presentation of a group of artists in a concert that promises to become a regular weekly feature for every Sunday afternoon.

CONCERT VOTE ASKED

Believing that radio set owners feel the need of music on Sunday afternoons, this prominent sponsor of programs from the tower had yesterday's program arranged as an experiment to determine the attitude of the patrons, with requests made over the air that the listeners signify by mail if they desire these additional weekly entertainments. If sufficient responses are received, they are to be given each Sunday afternoon throughout the year.

With the numbers arranged in honor of the radio show at the Ambassador Auditorium, and also to mark the introduction of their new receiver, the Western Air Patrol, the supply company presented its Western Air Patrol quartet, composed of 'cello, piano, organ and Edward Fitzpatrick, violin, directing.

The quartet rendered as their offerings, "Largo," by Handel; "Kamenoi Ostrow," by Rubenstein; "Narcissus," by Nevin, and "Neapolitan Nights," by Zammenick. I. Mendelsohn played two beautiful piano solos, with Joseph Heindl, also delighting the audience with his playing of "Reverie," by Cheroff. Edward Novis, baritone, who is one of the favorite vocalists of the station, contributed to the beauty of the concert with several selections.

The evening concert was given from the tower studio from 8 until 10 o'clock through the courtesy of the Martin Music Company, which has created an enviable place for itself by the high character of its programs.

RUTH PITTS SINGS

As has been the standard of this sponsor, the presentation included names that are synonymous with fine music. Ruth Pitts, coloratura soprano, possessor of a range of exquisitely modulated notes, perfectly adapted for radio reproduction, opened the evening with "I Love Thee," by Grieg, accompanied on the Gulbransen registering piano by John Martin, who later added to the high quality of the evening with several delightful solos on this instrument.

Keaumoke Louis again demonstrated his mastery of voice, his baritone solos meeting with waves of applause. His first offering was "Land of the Sky Blue Water," by Cadman, and was followed during the course of the evening by "Just Awearyin' for You," by Bond and "Lay My Head Beneath a Rose," by Falkenstein.

The Gulbransen Trio was another testimonial of the beauties of ensemble rendition by talented artists. This fine group, composed of Joseph Heindl, 'cello; Joseph Jean Gilbert, flute, and Catherine Jackson, harp, were perfection in their "Serenade," by Saint Saens and "Dreams," by Streletsky. Each of these musicians also appeared with solos.

Immediately at the close of this program from the studio, radio-set owners in the Southwest were given an unusual musical fiesta direct from the radio show in the huge Ambassador Auditorium. KNX and KFWB, the other two splendid units of Los Angeles, joined with KHJ in the simultaneous broadcast, arranged as a striking example of the co-ordinate efforts of these three prominent studios in co-operating with the remarkable exposition and showing their appreciation to the unseen audiences that follow their high-class programs.

FIRST JOINT PROGRAM

Last night was designated as the first of KHJ's two evenings for this simultaneous broadcast direct from the auditorium, with a similar feature to be given at the same hour, from 10 until 11 p.m., Thursday night. On the other evenings of this week the tower studio will assist KNX and KFWB in sending out their concerts

The Broadway Department Store was the sponsor for last night's concert from the auditorium as this great organization wished to make further extension of its appreciation to the radio audience in addition to their regular concerts broadcast at intervals from the studio.

Evidencing its own high standards, this sponsor made special arrangements for the presentation of one of the city's stellar groups of musicians, the Biltmore Concert Orchestra, directed by Edward Fitzpatrick, violinist. The roster of this group included Joseph Heindl, 'cello; M. Chernoff, double bass; A. Jankowsky, second violin; Israel Mendelssohn, piano, and Carlo Angelotti, organist and composer.

The group of carefully selected compositions played at the auditorium for this special hour included "Pomp and Circumstance," by Elgar; "Valse Trieste," by Sibelius; "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," by Johnson as a 'cello solo; "Indian Love Lyrics," by Finden, including four movements; "Romance," by Svendsen as a violin solo, and their finale, "Vienna Folk Songs," by Komzak.

The long list of widely known persons who have visited KHJ while here for the big radio show includes Ada Morgan O'Brien, director of KTAB, Oakland's new 1000-watt station.

Because of the radio show, the customary "silent Monday" of KHJ will not be adhered to as strictly as is the rule. From 1 until 2:30 this afternoon the visitors at the exposition will be the guests of the station at a presentation of many of the tower's most prominent artists on the stage of the Ambassador Theater, and this program will be broadcast. After the program, the visitors will be given free tickets to the exhibition proper as the guests of the station. From 10 until 11 o'clock tonight, the station will also be on the air, joining in the simultaneous broadcast with KNX in sending out the program presented at the show by KFWB.

LUMBER SHIPMENTS GROW

Atlantic Seaboard Turning More to Pacific for Supply, Says Eastern Timber Magnate

Pacific Coast lumber is being used to an ever increasing extent on the Atlantic seaboard, according to Frank L. Luckenbach, treasurer of the Gillingham Company, one of the largest concerns dealing in lumber in Philadelphia.

Mr. Luckenbach, who arrived at the Biltmore yesterday, said he is here to arrange for increased quantities of western lumber, which will be shipped east through the Panama Canal.

"Time was that we obtained most of the material in which we deal from the South but those days are over now," he said. "Our principal source, especially for the large timbers in which we specialize, is today the Pacific Northwest."

Referring to the vanishing timber supplies of the East, Mr. Luckenbach stated that when he went into the lumber business in 1889, there were forty-four sawmills in the one town of Williamsport, Pa., alone, while now there is only one mill.

"There is no question that as a nation we have been too wasteful in handling our natural resources, especially timber," said Mr. Luckenbach. "I received an object lesson in what saving lumber means a few years ago when I visited Europe. In England, for instance, no carpenter makes a demand for an entirely new equipment of scaffolding every time he builds a house. He carefully saves every piece of lumber from his scafford and uses it again and scaffold and uses an illustration of the methods of conservation that I found prevailing in all the European countries. At that time, our country was using annually about 400 feet of lumber per capita. I found the consumption in France only forty per capita, showing the results of conservation.

Speaking of the evils of forest depletion from the standpoint of its objectionable effects on climatic conditions, the lumberman said he had observed an example of this in Georgia. "Many of the sections which formerly were heavily timbered have been denuded with the result that the winters are colder, the summers hotter, and there has been such disturbance of the rainfall as to create serious summer droughts and excessive precipitation at other seasons of the year."

Six electric sewing machines and materials are available to provide work for those who wish to help, according to Mrs. O. P. Clark, president of the Friday Morning Club. Mrs. John H. Shewry is directly in charge of the sewing work, and officials of the organization are setting a good example for other members by wielding needle and thread.

CHEAP HOSIERY NOT SO CHEAP

Weep on them if necessary. Because, you see, unless they pay the firm $3 for three coupons—thus assuring $10 safely in the hands of the firm—you really could not expect those lovely silk stockings to leave the shelter of the firm's shelves for your top long drawer, now could you?

Don't like to annoy your friends? Oh, nonsense, that is what friends are for.

"Suppose one of these friends I sell a coupon to doesn't come in and take up her coupons?" you ask, wretchedly.

"Oh, well, if she doesn't, it is easy for you to give her her dollar back and sell to someone else who will come in," you are optimistically informed.

"And," you inquire, doubtfully, "when each of these three friends—if they still could be called friends—buy three coupons, must I wait till each one comes in and pays $4?"

"Oh, you won't have a bit of trouble," you are assured, with hearty encouragement. "Hundreds of women are doing it and getting $10 worth of silk stockings for $1."

So there you are. I will wager those hundreds of women will read this story with poignant emotions. Anyway, they probably got the adorable and compelling coupons. If they have succeeded in enjoying the full benefactions of the plan and earned their stockings, the chances are they have lost three friends, nice trustful friends, too—into the bargain.

However, we have the satisfaction of learning that the plan is perfectly legal. It seems that it is not really a "chain sale" as such, after all.

Well, but . . . surely, we can get our $4 back, if not the stockings?

Don't be silly, dears. Don't you remember you signed a contract? Jolly things, contracts. So decisive.

What? You really thought it meant that you would receive five pairs of superior, real silk stockings for $1?

Now, dearie?

Damage Suit for $50,000 Dismissed as Woman Holds Character Upheld

Declaring his client's character was cleared when Judge Vicini declined to consider charges made against her in the recently tried divorce suit of Mrs. Doris Ruppe against Louis E. Ruppe, mortician, Ezra Neff, attorney, has dismissed the suit for $50,000 damages brought by Miss Laura Mathews against Mrs. Ruppe for asserted defamation of character.

Mrs. Ruppe named Miss Mathews in the divorce case, which was tried before Judge Vicini last July. Judge Vicini granted Mrs. Ruppe a decree on the ground of cruelty, asserting the evidence was insufficient to substantiate the charges involving Miss Mathews.

Following the filing of the divorce suit, Miss Mathews instituted her action for damages against Mrs. Ruppe, whom she charged with making remarks derogatory to her character.

"Miss Mathews has been completely vindicated, so there is nothing for her to gain by pressing these slander charges except money," said Neff in dismissing the action. "This she does not need and does not want."

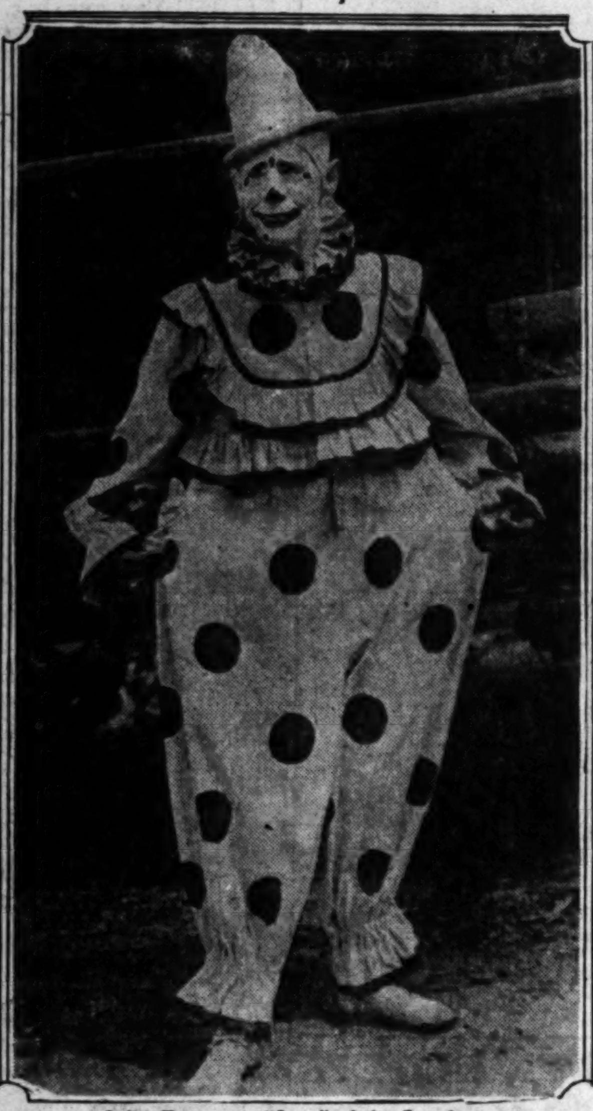
SEPTUAGENARIAN STILL CLOWN

Turnour Retains Spirit of Youth



Jules Turnour—"Joey" of the Sawdust

THE distinction of being the oldest clown in the circus profession today goes to Jules Turnour, the septuagenarian "Joey," who more than holds his own with the merry fellows who will be seen here with the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey combined shows four days, beginning Saturday, the 12th inst.

In spite of his years Jules is as nimble a tumbler, as facile a pantomimest and as quick-witted a comedian as the youngest of his brother clowns. He points with pride to his long record before the public as a professional merrymaker, for he was literally born and bred in the circus business. Although of French parentage, he came into the world on the Spanish side of the Pyrenees, and most of his career has been passed on American soil.

It was Jules Turnour who served as the prototype for "Diggledy Dan," the lovable, laughable clown who lives in the pages of Edwin P. Norwood's books for children. And it is this same Jules, with his quaint Old World personality and kindly physiognomy, who has been indirectly responsible for the "Diggledy Dan" toy.

RAYS SUED IN FORECLOSURE

Judgment Asked on $53,471 Note Secured by Beverly Home of Film Actor and Wife

Coming as an aftermath to the filing of involuntary bankruptcy proceedings in Federal court against the Charles Ray Productions, Inc., Joseph H. Himes has filed suit in Superior Court to foreclose a mortgage securing a promissory note of $53,471.43, said to have been executed January 2, 1924, by Charles Ray, motion-picture actor, and his wife, Clara Ray. The mortgage is against property said to be owned by the Rays in Beverly Hills.

The note, which was executed in favor of Mabel G. Stone, was due three years from date of execution, and interest of 7 per cent was to be paid semiannually, it is stated in the complaint. On November 13, 1924, Mabel Stone assigned the note and mortgage to Elizabeth Vance, who assigned the documents to the plaintiff on the 4th inst., according to the complaint.

Himes states the note provides that in case of default of payment of interest, the principal and interest are to become immediately due and payable at the declaration of the holder of the note. Himes declares Ray and his wife defaulted in the payment of interest due July 2, 1924, January 2, last, and July 2, last, and states he is exercising the option provided in the note for declaring the money due.

Himes askes a judgment for the full amount of the note, with interest, against the Rays, and that the mortgaged property be sold, the proceeds to apply on payment of the judgment. The Rays reside at 901 Camden Drive, Beverly Hills.

Attorney E. J. Fleming prepared the complaint for Himes.

"No doubt a bureau of aviation will be created by the government in due time. In fact measures with that end in view probably will be introduced at the next session of Congress."

FAVORS MITCHELL IDEA

Stout favors Gen. Mitchell's idea of an air department entirely separate from the Army and Navy. "Flying never will be a real success unless it is conducted by men trained for that line of work alone," he said. "It is unlike any other form of human activity and requires a type of personnel peculiar to itself. This has been demonstrated time and again during the formative stages of development."

He added that the only danger in aviation lies in unreliable engines. "This is the greatest problem that confronts the aviation engineers today," he said. "In the Liberty motor we already have an engine far superior to that of any other country in the world, but it is constantly being perfected and eventually we will have motors that will meet every possible demand."

In this connection he compared American airplane construction with that of Europe, asserting that every item of equipment in American-made planes is superior to European construction. "For speed no European plane can touch the Curtis machine," he said, "and there is no plane in the world that equals the Douglas, manufactured here in Los Angeles, for carrying loads. Without the Douglas planes the globe-circling flight of last year would have been impossible."

TREATMENT HURT SPINE, SUIT STATES

Woman Asks Damages of $18,932 from Long Beach Chiropractor

Charging P. F. Brandt, Long Beach chiropractor, with dislocating a vertebra in her spinal column during the administration of a treatment, Mrs. Rose Zellers has filed suit for $18,932 damages against Brandt.

According to the complaint, the defendant "negligently and carelessly" twisted Mrs. Zellers's spinal column September 7, 1924, resulting in the asserted injury.

As a result of the asserted treatment, Mrs. Zellers said, her legs were affected and a chalky formation occurred in her back, necessitating an operation and wearing of a plaster cast for a period of two months.

Her complaint was prepared by Attorneys Hibbard, Kleindienst and Elliott.

Many Reservations Being Made From Out of Town for Address Date

Hotels yesterday reported as a result of the announcements that Vice-President Dawes will speak in Olympic Auditorium on the evening of the 11th inst., under auspices of the Chamber of Commerce and the local American Legion posts, that scores of reservations from out-of-town persons have been made for rooms on that date and that from all advance appearances a huge throng will visit Los Angeles expressly to hear and see the Vice-President.

The Chamber of Commerce said that several hundred queries from residents of suburban towns have been received concerning the event, indicating a widespread interest. The Chamber and the Legion now is engaged in naming a reception committee of 300 to welcome the Vice-President.

WIFE ASKS DIVORCE ON NONSUPPORT CHARGES

If James Patrick Dillon had not lacked a gun, according to his wife, Tessie Agnes Dillon, she would not have had to sue him for divorce, and this story would never have come to light. For Dillon, his wife said, told her that he knew "where he could get some easy money if he only had a gun." But he never obtained any money, "easy" or otherwise, for his wife, she said, so she sued him for divorce, charging that he failed to support her.

Wife's Pity for Sailor Fails to Move Husband

Mrs. Jean Parker felt very sorry for the poor sailor boy, her husband, O. V. Parker said.

Naturally, he was surprised when he came home to his apartment unexpectedly one day and found a tar named "Shorty" Bower sitting in his wife's lap, according to his complaint for divorce.

"What's this about?" he inquired.

Mrs. Parker explained it all nicely, as related in the complaint.

"Oh, I feel so sorry for this poor fellow," was her reply. "He is in such a terrible fix. A fortune-teller just told him he had only thirty days to live, and I am trying to comfort him, poor boy."

NOT SO MODEL

The New York girl who stole $25,000 from a Wall street man is described as being a model, but she doesn't seem to behave that way.

NEAR THE LIMIT

Even when the Fords get into the airplane business on a big scale it is doubtful if their vehicles can speed over many more people than they do now.

FINANCIALLY ABBREVIATED

The name of Florida generally is abbreviated "Fla.," but a great many of the people who go there soon find themselves abbreviated "Flat."

PROOFS DAILY

People are not nearly so superstitious now as they used to be in preceding generations, but we have more reason than ever to believe in the actual existence of evil spirits.

"DAY BY DAY"

Day by day and in every way the world is getting more and more generous. Even John D. Rockefeller gaves away bright new dimes where he used to confine his personal donations to Buffalo nickels.

RIGHT OVER AGAIN

A man was arrested recently for desecrating the flag of the United States and the judge who sentenced him ordered that he write a poem about the flag; in other words, to desecrate the flag again.

COMPARATIVELY SAFE

A French meteorologist has forecast the weather for the year 2669. But don't imagine he is crazy. It is a whole lot less risky to forecast the weather more than 700 years hence than it is to forecast it for next month.

GULLIBLE'S TRAVELS

Gen. Lincoln Andrews, the new dictator of prohibition, says that men who drink in these days must have colossal gullibility. They have all of that and an inconsiderate thirst on the side. If it were not for this colossal gullibility the bootleggers would have to go to work.

REASON WHY

Leonard Schepp, the much-discussed millionaire, had more money to give away than he knew how to dispose of beneficially. He asked for suggestions where they would do the greatest good to the greatest number. He was literally buried with suggestions how to do the greatest good to the least number—that is to "me."

HARDLY

An Ohio man has recently written to a friend in Los Angeles asking if it were true if the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce had appropriated funds for transportation of persons who desire to visit this city. It is to be wondered where he got this great idea. Of course, Los Angeles welcomes all people, but the city has hardly reached the kind-hearted stage where it furnishes transportation.

SCIENCE REVOLUTIONIZED?

Dr. Adolph Meithe and Dr. H. Stammreich of the Charlottenburg University of Engineering are reported to have increased the quantity of gold which could previously be secured from a given amount of mercury. If later investigations prove definitely that mercury can be transformed into gold the science of chemistry will undergo a revolution. If it becomes a certainty that metals may be transmuted the elements lose their favored position as basic substances in the universe.

FLYING IN EUROPE

Nearly a dozen different lines of airships are making regular daily landings in the city of Amsterdam. The Dutch metropolis welcomes the aviators of more different nations than any other capital. There are many aerial routes in Europe and flying is an established habit. The commercial flyers take few risks and make no effort at sustained flight. As a result accidents are rare and fatalities very infrequent. Some of the lines have never had a tragedy of any kind. The dangers of the air are only emphasized when some desperate feat or unusual performance is attempted.

RUBBER IN AFRICA

The Firestone interests are obtaining a concession in Liberia which will materialize in a rubber ranch of a million acres. A rubber ranch is very elastic and this immense total may be further stretched. Anyhow the big idea is to get Akron out of the clutches of the British rubber combination. The soil and climatic conditions in the negro republic in Africa are said to be all that could be asked in the cultivation of the rubber tree and it is figured that the necessary help can be cheaply obtained. It is possible that a large percentage of the tires of the future will be based upon African rubber under American auspices.

EDUCATION AND PROHIBITION

No one thought that prohibition would become a fact at once after the passage of the Volstead law or within a year or two. Millions of people had been accustomed, as a matter of course, to drink intoxicants very much as they now drink tea and coffee, and the immediate effect of the law was to change their daily life. Acting upon his own volition, it is a difficult matter for an individual to change habits which have become in a large measure a second nature. The laws of nature themselves deny any such adaptability.

But prohibition will become a fact under the processes of time and the conditions that must necessarily develop along with the enforcement of the law. The mental attitude of those who once talked about "personal liberty" and "personal rights" is changing or has undergone so much of a change that such arguments are no longer heard, not even the paid propagandist or shifty politician now mentions the right of a man to be a drunkard, a criminal or a social outcast. However, the question was never one of rights; they are always relative and may be changed from time to time to suit the will and convenience of the majority.

The law itself was not the result of precipitate action, although its passage as a war measure was of that nature. The history of the struggle for prohibition is a long one. Indeed, no other question of national policy was so long before the people, and when they at last acted upon it they did so as a matter of mature judgment, with all the facts and arguments before them.

With the enactment of the law all the arguments once made against it became obsolete and those who now protest against it and its rigid enforcement are in the minority, lacking all the power and influence that were once in their hands. And it should be noted that they are altogether a different class of people and actuated by motives and means that would have been scouted years ago. Those who were engaged in the manufacture and sale of whisky and beer when it was legal were doing a legitimate business, one sanctioned and protected by the law of the land. Frequently, and very properly, they occupied high places in the business and social life of the country and contributed to its development in the same spirit of good citizenship that moved others of the community.

Perhaps they did use their influence and means to defeat prohibition, and they were justified as any other class or particular kind of business would be in an effort to protect itself against destruction. Their quality of human nature was not unusual. But in their place have come the moonshiner and bootlegger; men and women whose occupation has always been to violate the criminal laws and in whose ranks may be found the ignorant and vicious of every nationality; men and women whose kind fill the prisons, poor farms and asylums and for whose care and support the decent and respectable citizen is taxed to the limit of his power to pay. One picture is respectable, the other contemptible.

It is natural and logical that the attitude of the public should be changed; if it had not, every principle involved in the question of prohibition would have been condemned and also the fitness of the people themselves for self-government made doubtful. Education, and not that education one gets in the schoolroom, but that which comes from a free and frank discussion of public issues, has made the bootlegger and moonshiner skulking companions of the burglar and robber and always a source of fear and danger in the community. Their presence is a constant threat against peace and an open challenge to those who believe in law and its enforcement. These are arguments that appeal to the thoughtful citizen, and they are many times more potent than those brought against prohibition during all the years it was agitated before it became the law. Then it was a question of policy, now it is one of law and government. And when the facts are brought clearly, with all their convincing force, before the people they will act positively and, as a matter of mature judgment, in favor of the enforcement of the law as it stands.

MANAGEMENT

The subject of the child is constantly confronting us. The question, which is the more important, heredity or environment, has provoked endless discussion. "He is just like his father, and you can't do a thing with him," accounts to some people, frequently the mother's people, for all the bad traits a child may show.

Others are sure that, no matter what his parents may have been, every child starts fresh and the conditions which surround him determine absolutely what he will be. Every one knows that children from degraded homes who have been adopted by well-to-do families and have been given every advantage, some have turned out disgracefully and some so as to make worth while everything that has been done for them.

What made the difference in results? Heredity? Perhaps. As the proverb has it, "You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear." Environment? Perhaps, also, some children who were surrounded by bad conditions during their early years were already started in unfortunate habits before they were transplanted.

It is useless to attempt to settle whether heredity or environment is the more important. Every living being is affected by both.

The parents are the ones who control the destiny of the child and make the environment to a very large extent. Parents can even determine in what kind of atmosphere the child's mind shall grow: one of discontent, selfishness, wrangling, deceit and hate, or one of generosity, cheerfulness, sincerity and love.

Often the child is as the parent thinketh.

THE WILD MEN OF BORNEO

When the Governor of a vast and prosperous State comes before his people and emphatically asserts that William Randolph Hearst is not fit for a Tammany Democrat to associate with he is certainly making a strong statement.

Tammany has never been delicate in its companionships. It has given the glad hand to wastrels who have only been able to keep out of jail through the exercise of perjury and other felonious arts. It has been chummy with those to whom burglary has been a personal passion. It has shared its bed and board with those whose morals were as unfragrant as stale fish. It has consorted openly with those whose private lives are unfit for contemplation by the virtuous-minded.

Therefore, when Gov. Smith announces that the notorious publisher is not and cannot be of Tammany—and may not even be allied with Democracy—he is conferring an infamy that in the wide spaces of the West would be met by a fight or a lawsuit.

Somebody would either be shot or sued.

It is pitiful when the politics of the Empire State fall to that meager plane wherein politicians begin to tell unhappy truths concerning each other's lives. It seems like a ghastly parade of skeletons—bony cadavers that should only be kept in dark seclusion. To expose the grim contents of the family closet in a Broadway window is a shock and a crime. Who could imagine a procession of evil spirits led by a brass band?

Surely Gov. Smith should never have been so ungallant and inconsiderate as to inform his people concerning the character and private life of Mr. Hearst. The reckless Governor is letting out of the bag facts hitherto unsuspected and over which—had they been known—a discreet and gentlemanly silence should still have been maintained. Public morals would so demand. The code of courtesy would so suggest.

The eminent editor may not be worthy of association with hyenas, but why gloat over it? Why should the Governor of a State boast of its garbage? Think of the example!

William Randolph Hearst has carried his newspapers into numbers of homes in many communities. He has posed as an apostle of morality and decency. He has even come out in favor of virtue. To now find himself roughly and blatantly branded as a slave of infamy—and a blooming liar to boot—is terribly unfortunate. As a whited sepulcher he is not only dangled in chains in Riverside Drive, but held up before the affronted vision of many peoples in numerous civilized communities. Respected and respectable families, shocked by the harsh revelations, are forced to inquire whether Mr. Hearst is really as virtuous as he says he is. His capacity as a moral teacher and exponent of righteousness has been terribly impaired by the thoughtless disclosures of a reckless Governor. Isn't Al a holy terror?

Gov. Smith asserts that it should be a shock to the youth of the land to realize that a Hearst is permitted to wield any considerable influence in any community.

He has administered the shock himself.

Shocking, isn't it?

Gov. Smith admits that he himself has had a picturesque and adventuresome record, but he insists that he has had a training in personal morals to which the publisher is total stranger. He must be hinting at something.

Or is this a reference to allusions?

Nevertheless, it is pitiful indeed when politicians 'n' publishers fall out to the extent of advertising each other's personal frailties. That is no way to shine up a naughty world.

FOOD FOR FLIVVERS

The outbreak of another gasoline war in the Middle West after a similar development in the East a week or so ago seems to indicate that the dominant factors in the industry are experiencing increasing difficulty in keeping the market under control. Great quantities of independent gas are being poured upon the market at prices well below those fixed by established distributors, who have no alternative but to cut. They cannot afford to surrender their business.

Behind this year's gas war are substantially the same factors which demoralized the gasoline market two years ago. Despite record consumption, crude oil is being pumped and gasoline produced faster than it can be consumed. With a decline in consumption not remote, with the end of the touring season at hand, stocks are being unloaded to the consumers' advantage.

The wise consumer, however, will not hope for a price of gasoline which does not cover its cost of production. The consumption of that product is now so heavy and the commercial interests of the nation are so directly tied up with an adequate supply of it that its production needs be on a stable basis. Wildcatting in oil is likely to injure rather than benefit the consumer. On the other hand, there is no occasion for concern over the position of the big oil and gasoline-producing companies as a result of the new competition which they are meeting. They are perfectly able to take care of themselves.

DODGERS

In Los Angeles and in Los Angeles county many reputable business men are members of worthy organizations. But when it comes to doing jury duty they shirk their duties and responsibilities and become slackers. The result is that many of our best men of the community are not often found on juries.

If the National Crime Commission composed of big business men desires a profitable field in which to begin its crusade to suppress crime they can do effective work among these men.

Juries are as vital in the eradication of crime as the police and the judges. Citizens who dodge this service are aiding and abetting the criminal. Jury slacking comes with particularly poor grace from the wealthy, against whom most of the crimes of property are directed.

As long as leading citizens shirk their humblest public duty it is not at all strange that those less favored will go a step further in more serious transgressions against organized society.

Los Angeles county judges have been pretty strict in the matter of requiring jury service and have not been inclined to accept excuses, be it said to their credit. But there is still room for much improvement in the make-up of our juries and every good citizen should aid in bringing about that improvement.

LEADERSHIP

Isolation has ceased not only for the United States as a nation, but also for the productive enterprise of its inhabitants. From now on the field for mills and factories, American-owned, American-financed and American-managed, will probably gradually girdle the earth. In minerals the tendency has existed some time, particularly as to oil. Neither is the establishment of foreign branches for the distribution of commodities made in this country unusual. But their development, of which signs are appearing, promises to overtop by far everything that has gone before. It may be a great many years before the visible evidence is extensive. The chances are, however, that the period for conclusive demonstration will not be extended. Just as Great Britain led all nations as a colonizer, so it looks as if the United States would have the principal role in the future economic development of the world.

More and more the uncertainties of the years immediately after the war have disappeared. Finance having opened the way, manufacturing naturally follows. This not only applies to Europe, but to Latin America, Canada and Newfoundland and Asia and Australia. We shall continue to make large quantities of goods to be shipped and sold abroad, but our productive horizon also will include our own plants in other lands, entering into trade and commerce from centers closer to the desired markets. Economic leadership for the United States is beginning to take on a new meaning.

AMERICA, WORLD CRIME

BY REV. C. F. AKED, D.D., D.LD.

In Los Angeles last year there were 170 murders. In were eight. As London has a population seven times Angeles the proportion would be: Los Angeles 750 eight.

In England and Wales there are about fifty mur the United States there are 10,000. Allowing for differ tion, say 10,000 murders in the United States, 200 in Wales.

In Great Britain there is one murder a week; in the United States there is one every forty minutes.

There are more than 100,000 murderers, unwhipped of justice, free, independent, ready for their next job, walking about the cities of America, riding in the cars, rubbing elbows with us in the streets. A Chicago judge carefully estimates the number at 135,000—all murderers—and not a single one of them but should have been hanged long ago.

It is now September, 1925. The armistice was signed November 11, 1918. And the number of innocent men, women and children, peaceful, useful, law-abiding, murdered on American soil with the Stars and Stripes floating over them since the last gun was fired in the World War is greater than the sum total of those who fell in the ranks of the American armies in the greatest war of all history.

If those who have been murdered under our flag and on our soil since the armistice had been buried in one trench that trench would span the distance from San Diego to Los Angeles.

Allowing ten automobiles to the funeral procession of each innocent person murdered in America since the armistice, that procession would reach from San Francisco to Chicago.

Well, but hang it, who is hanged for it?

The facts cited above are taken from a new book, "The Follies of the Courts," by Leigh H. Irvine, one of the most startling and one of the most useful books published in America within the last fifty years. No student of social conditions can afford not to read this book. The average decent citizen, man or woman, ought to read it—ought, there is an obligation of good citizenship and of patriotism and of self-respect. Men and women who have brains and can read and think ought to master these 250 pages before they are a week older.

Leigh Irvine does not spare the lash. And God knows we ought to be lashed by scorn and self-contempt. It is the first time in human history that men have not been willing to protect their women and children. But this is the case in America today. American manhood is unaroused, supine. The defenses of society against crime have broken down. The criminal has us by the throat. Mr. Irvine says that there is nothing so astonishing as this in all the life of America. And he is right. His words are:

"American indifference in the midst of a reign of murder unparalleled in the history of man is the most astonishing fact of our national life."

Without parallel in the history of mankind, says Irvine; and the judge already quoted (Judge Marcus Kavanagh of the Superior Court of Chicago) says the same thing. He declares that there never was anything like present American conditions of crime unpunished in any other civilized nation operating under a civilized government.

Mr. Irvine says:

"It is humiliating for Americans to confess that their country's flag floats over the most wicked spot of sea or land beneath the stars—a country notorious for more than 10,000 murders annually, disgraced by the complete collapse of most of its criminal-law machinery, and the public indifference in the presence of increasing crimes of violence that are a reproach to this republic."

Humiliating! Who feels humiliated by it? Where is the man or woman who is ashamed and angry and indignant, ready to give money, give time, give thought and effort to wipe this black disgrace off the American name? There are more brutal murders in America than anywhere else on the face of the earth. But, my dear sir or madam, as you read this fact—and it is a fact—are you ashamed of it? And if so, what are you going to do about it? In Paris last year there were fifty-nine murders; in Berlin there were thirty-two; in New York there were 333—ten times more than Berlin. In Chicago this year there has been so far more than one murder every day. In America—to quote Judge Kavanagh once more: "We stand humiliated before the nations of the earth, and this generation of Americans will be disgraced through all history."

The administration of law by American courts is the worst in the civilized world. Law and lawyers breed murderers. Courts make criminals. The worst farce, the silliest, most idiotic farce—and heaven help us!—the most tragic farce on earth is a criminal trial in an American court.

Some years ago I was in England. The entire country had been stirred by what seemed to be a most callous and cold-blooded murder. A young Hindu student had shot Sir William Curzon Wyllie, an official of high rank, who had done good work in India and was highly respected on personal grounds. The young Brahmin considered that he was doing a patriotic thing in "executing" Wyllie. He thought that he was striking a blow for the emancipation of India from British rule.

I went to the trial. The Lord Chief Justice of England presided. It took two minutes to get the jurymen into the box and swear them. Nobody was challenged. The trial lasted one hour and a half. The Attorney-General himself conducted the prosecution. The jury found a verdict of "guilty" without leaving their seats and Dhingara was hanged. He killed Sir William Wyllie on July 1. He was brought to trial before judge and jury on July 23. He was hanged on August 20. In this country, if they had not been the jurymen up to the gara would still be appeal from court to

7—Days—7

TEN years ago this coming Tuesday J. W. Robinson Co. came, alone, to Seventh Street.

What would be the outcome of that bold move? The whole city talked. Everyone predicted—something.

People would not leave the established traffic streets to get merchandise—even Robinsons' merchandise, it was said.

The Robinson policies, which the public had approved so long, went with the business to Seventh Street. These and the increased facilities and the greatly improved stocks attracted trade and a new business district was founded.

Ten years ago the Robinson Store structure stood like a magnificent outpost of growing Los Angeles.

Today the Robinson Store at Seventh Street and Grand Avenue stands prominently in the center of one of the great Retail Shopping districts of America.

This Sale, Ten-Years-on-Seventh-Street, is more than a mere adventure in store publicity. It is the celebration of an occasion of great significance in the history of Los Angeles.

Of Interest to Women.

The Woman and Her Job

BY VALERIE WATROUS

[Questions concerning the problems of women will be answered in this column if addressed to Mrs. Watrous at The Times.]

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

My dear L. A. G.: Since your question opens up a subject that interests a large number of people, let's talk about it here.

Formerly house rent was supposed to absorb about 25 per cent of salary. That figure has changed, however, as men and women in your profession would not live in the districts where houses may be rented for that price.

There do not seem to be any places where budgets are worked out for use as a guide in distributing one's income I am told by those know that they would be problematic. For example, the mechanic earns a higher wage than a teacher, yet what would satisfy the family of one would not satisfy the family of the other.

You also speak of marriage. What kind of woman is going to share this budgeted income of yours? Will she be able and willing to darn the family hosiery so that it may be worn with comfort? If she is it will make a difference in the item set aside for clothes. If she doesn't have this ability your clothes allowance will have to be greater.

Will you marry the kind of woman who can make an inexpensive cut of steak look and taste like sirloin? Will she make the family pastry and salad dressings?

Of course, you will not think of any of these things when you marry. It's after marriage that they become so important.

I might tell of a mother and two grown daughters, who have lived comfortably, entertained a little, paid off a trust deed on a house in a good neighborhood in the West Adams district, and paid the living expenses of one Ford sedan, on $2000 a year. One of these women is in the public eye all the time and must appear well-dressed and smartly shod if she is still to command the present salary. This also covered a doctor and dentist bill that averaged $20 a month over three years' time.

A number of people with whom I have talked tell me that the plan they have followed is to set aside an arbitrary sum for savings. They make it a goal, and then "cut the balance of the garment according to the cloth."

Personally I have found it an excellent plan to estimate my weekly expense, draw a check for that amount, and see to it that another check is not drawn before the week is up. If I have been extravagant one day, I am penurious the next.

Many people buy a home because they are forced to meet those payments every month. They know the obligation is there, and they plan to meet it. They seem to find it easier to save in this way, than to have a savings account.

To declare that you cannot save enough for summer school out of $2000 a year is absurd.

Dear H. L. H.—No copyright is necessary for your stories. The publication which prints them has all of its material copyrighted, and when you have sold a story you do not need to protect it further. In the reference department of the public library you will find a book called "One Thousand-and-One Places to Sell Stories," or something near that. It will give you the names of magazines in the market for children's stories.

While in the library look over the various home magazines and jot down the names of those having a children's section. Send them your stories, three to each one. Don't be discouraged if they come back; send them out again and again. The price paid varies with the publication. As your name becomes known and your product popular you will be paid a higher figure. Magazines employ their own illustrators, but if you can supply clever, original drawings, your stories will sell more readily. Be sure your manuscript is typed, folded, wide-spaced, one side of paper only. In the upper left margin put your name, address, about the number of words, and "submitted at usual rates." Always send return postage, or a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THE LAST WORD.

BY ALMA WHITAKER

HIS KISSES

"Oh, Charles, that automatic peck of yours doesn't mean a thing. And you know you nearly forget it half the time. You have been reading some sob sister's advice to husbands. 'Never forget to kiss your wife good-by in the morning and when you come home at night.' "

That, writes Charles, is the taunt his wife sprang upon him recently. He takes special exception to the ridiculous, silly voice in which she mimicked the sob-sister's advice.

"We have been married nearly six years," says Charles, "and I thought we were a model couple. I have done everything a husband should. And it wasn't a 'sob-sister,' but an old aunt of mine, who told me never to forget the morning and evening kiss. That is why I have taken special pains to remember it, no matter how much of a hurry I was in.

"And now my wife calls it my 'automatic peck' . . . It may seem a small matter to you, but it has shocked me more than I care to admit. I am afraid it indicates that my wife has ceased to love me."

Charles's confidence was certainly a bit of a shock to me, too. Dear me, haven't times changed? For, really, I can remember when Charley's aunt's advice was considered highly commendable and effective. In fact, I can recall reading such advice to husbands, offered by a very well-known writer . . . perhaps twenty years ago.

I also recall that she advised wives "never to forget their bit of ribbon"—that bit of ribbon symbolizing the wife's duty to make herself appear attractive to her lord. And I am rather afraid that bits of ribbon don't work any better than automatic pecks in these practical days.

I don't suppose for a moment that Charles's wife had ceased to love him. But the naughty girl probably has a well-developed sense of humor and that highly dutiful 'automatic peck' struck her as funny.

Of course, she was mistaken when she told him it "didn't mean anything." On the contrary, it meant that Charles best expresses his affection in stereotyped dutifulness—which, even if it isn't the most romantic way, is quite precious too.

And the fact that Charles takes her teasing so seriously does prove that he is rather a dear—just a wee bit too serious an old dear, perhaps, because he has imagination enough to tremble for the happiness of his home.

And Charles's wife was probably only trying to provoke Charles into giving her more interesting kisses—she was careful only to ridicule the "automatic peck." I rather think Charles's cue when she said that was promptly to supply a more romantic brand, and tease her for a naughty little realist.

Such a lot of little domestic misunderstandings melt away under laughter and counter-teasing. But it must be merry, good-natured teasing. Otherwise, of course, it can easily degenerate into mere aggravation.

But, oh, Charles, dear, it was so interesting to receive your letter. You see, so many of the letters to this column run in the other direction—wives complaining that their husbands never try to be lovers any more.

At that, that is what is the matter with you. You practically admit that you had allowed yourself to become an automatically dutiful husband, where you were probably once rather an attractive lover. It is all very well, an automatic peck may be better than no kiss, but it does lack glamour. I can see where you ought to be glad that she isn't quite satisfied with that kind.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Crumbs in Bed

When taking toast or any crisp article of food to the invalid, first cut it into strips. This will avoid a shower of crumbs over the bed when the food is broken.

Rib Roast

Ask your butcher which is better, the standing roast or the boned and rolled rib roast. He will soon tell you to leave the bone in the roast, as it means more juice and sweeter meat.

Olive Oil

Olive oil should be poured from the tin can as soon as opened into a glass container and then kept in the refrigerator. It will keep sweet indefinitely if this is done. But kept in the tin in a warm place it will soon become rancid.

Making Ends Meet

If the armhole of the dress is just a bit smaller than the sleeve which is to be fitted into it, try snipping the edge at intervals all around the arm hole, the "snips" being not over one-eighth inch deep. This will probably give sufficient play for the sleeve to fit well.

MATTRESS COMPANY SUED BY RAILROAD

The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company has on file in the Federal court a suit asking the recovery of freight charges amounting to $153.90 on a shipment of bedsteads from the Standard Mattress and Manufacturing Company of San Diego. The complaint recites that the railroad accepted 300 bundles of bedstead ends and 486 bundles of bedstead rails, as well as sixty springs, for shipment from Brooklyn to San Diego in January, 1923, on which the charges were $789.97. The mattress company, it is averred, paid only $636.70, and won't remit the remainder of the bill. Judgment, including costs and interest at 7 per cent, is asked.

THANKS PORT BOARD

San Pedro Grateful for Street Improvements

The improvement of curbs and sidewalks in Harbor Boulevard from Seventh street to Fifteenth street in the Los Angeles Harbor district, as carried out by the Board of Harbor Commissioners, has resulted in the board's receiving a letter of thanks from the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce.

COUNCIL WILL REQUIRE TRACK WORK AT NIGHT

The Santa Fe Railroad Company will be required by the City Council to have the construction crews in charge of laying spur tracks across Sixth street, between Mill and Mateo streets, work at nights only, so that traffic will not be impeded while the track work is in progress.

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

Among the charming visitors in Los Angeles this season are Mrs. James Lynch and Miss Catherine Coyle of Taunton, Mass., sister and niece of Rev. William E. Corr of 1885 North Lake street, Pasadena, who have been the house guests of Rev. Corr for the past month.

Mrs. Mary Young Moore and her mother, Mrs. R. B. Young, of South Hoover street, were hostesses at a delightfully planned bridge-luncheon Tuesday afternoon at the Women's Athletic Club in honor of the visitors. Corsage bouquets of orchids and rosebuds, with candy baskets to match, marked the covers for the guests, and perfumes were given as prizes at the bridge games.

Those present included Mrs. Lynch, Miss Coyle, Miss Berthe Ducommun, Miss Gertrude Grant, Miss Irene O'Neill, Miss Mamie Sheedy, Miss Anna Kellam, Miss Lydia Kellam, Miss Ardienne Esnard, Mrs. Lee Neisweinder, Mrs. Ralph Byron, Mrs. Ethelyn Walker Hyter, Mrs. C. C. Ganahl, Mrs. Louis Denker, Mrs. Thomas Hearne, Mrs. Thomas Murphy, Mrs. Lee Holland, Mrs. V. G. N. Clarke, Mrs. Charles Holliday and Mrs. Charles Stavnow.

Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Young entertained again Wednesday afternoon with a bathing party and luncheon in honor of the visitors at the Beach Club, Santa Monica, the tables being centered with baskets of autumn flowers. The favors were candy bouquets. Dainty tulle handkerchiefs were the prizes at the card games. Those invited to honor the visitors were Mrs. Lee Neisweinder, Mrs. Thomas Hearne, Mrs. Ethelyn Walker Hyter, Mrs. Ralph Byron, Miss Irene O'Neill and Miss Alice Burton.

Mrs. Moore, who passes the greater part of every summer at her beach home in Playa Del Rey, entertained the eastern visitors at her beach home for a fortnight, motoring with them to Hotel del Coronado for several days, and en route home they stopped in Riverside for a brief visit at the Mission Inn. Those included on the motor trip were Mrs. Lynch, Miss Coyle and Miss Mary E. Pease of Los Altos.

Marriage Announced

Judge and Mrs. Joseph H. Chambers of 3980 Dalton avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Rofena Chambers, to Clarence Teter of Alhambra, the ceremony being performed by Judge Chambers in the patio gardens of their home Monday evening, August 31, in the presence of the immediate members of both families. Mr. and Mrs. Teter are motoring in the north on their wedding trip and will make their home in Alhambra after their return.

Home Again

Mrs. Arthur Van Borden and her two attractive daughters, Virginia and Archine, have returned home after enjoying several months in their summer cottage at Avalon, Catalina.

Betrothal Told

Formal announcement is made by Mrs. E. Rosenwald of 666 South Kingsley Drive of the engagement of her daughter, Miss Regina Rosenwald, to Harold D. Heiser, formerly of Albany, N. Y. The wedding will be one of the events of the late fall.

Honors Visitors

Among the delightful affairs of recent date was the tea with which Miss Ruth Gentle entertained at her home in North Berendo street Friday afternoon in honor of Miss Lois Stratton of Orange Drive, Hollywood, and her house guest, Miss Helen Voight, of St. Louis. The autumn tints were employed in the decorations of the house and tea table. Sixteen guests were bidden. Miss Stratton, who has been passing the summer visiting in Canada, Lake Louise and Banff, came home by way of St. Louis, where she stopped for a visit, bringing Miss Voight to the Coast with her. There are a number of affairs being planned in the near future honoring Miss Voight.

Church Wedding

The marriage of Miss June Kathleen Jacobs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Russell Jacobs, to Edward George Houseman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Houseman of Hollywood, was one of the events of the 2nd inst., the ceremony taking place in the Church of the Messiah. Mrs. Robert Britton was matron of honor, wearing orchid taffeta with picture hat to match, and carried deep pink rosebuds and ferns. Miss Helen Thompson, maid of honor, wore yellow taffeta, with hat to match, and carried pink roses and orchid sweet peas, while dainty little Mary Ella Sullivan, in turquoise blue, carrying a pink basket, was flower girl. Elgin Houseman served his brother as best man, and the ushers were Rosswell Jacobs, Wesley Houseman, Elwood Goalder and Robert Britton. The bride wore beaded white georgette crepe, the veil was of embroidered tulle, and she carried an arm shower of gardenias, orchids and lilies of the valley. After a month's wedding trip to Lake Tahoe and Yosemite, Mr. and Mrs. Houseman will make their home in Hollywood.

Visitors Entertains

One of the enjoyable affairs of the past week was the bridge-luncheon with which Mrs. A. H. Murchison of Vernon, Tex., entertained Thursday afternoon at the Mary Louise, the decorations being effectively carried out in the pastel shades of autumn flowers and ferns, and the favors were dainty motifs in the same colors. Mrs. Murchison, who has been the house guest of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Kell, in Manhattan Place, is leaving the last of the week for her southern home, and is planning, with Mr. Murchison, to pass the winter in Florida. Those included in the afternoon's affair were Mrs. Bertram Green, Mrs. William Guthrie, Mrs. Jessie Taylor, Mrs. Millard Pace of Terrell, Tex., Mrs. William F. Brice, Mrs. George Cannon, Mrs. Sarah Pearson, Mrs. Robert Field, Mrs. J. H. Wood, Mrs. Maud Hutchins, Mrs. E. A. Lloyd, Mrs. J. H. Stewart, Mrs. D. A. Rennard, Mrs. Nettie Bryson, Mrs. A. S. Cochran, Mrs. J. M. Edwards, Mrs. J. E. McMorries and Mrs. T. M. Kell.

For Bride-Elect

Honoring Miss Rebecca Patterson, one of the season's most popular brides-elect, whose marriage to Adrian C. Stanton will be one of the events of Wednesday, a charmingly arranged garden luncheon was given last Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Frederic Beckley at her home, 1632 Fletcher avenue, South Pasadena. Covers were arranged for twenty-four guests. Mrs. Beckley was formerly Miss Mary Doerr, daughter of the Albert Doerrs of South Pasadena, a bride of the summer.

The marriage of Miss Patterson to Mr. Stanton, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Stanton of Avalon, will take place at St. James' Episcopal Church at 7 o'clock Wednesday. Miss Catherine Patterson will be her sister's maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be Miss Mildred Drain and Miss Maxine Williams, while Mrs. George Hall will be matron of honor.

CARBUNCLES (Part 1)

Satan thought he hit upon the most potent thing to make Job denounce the Lord when he afflicted him with boils, but he might have been a little more devilish had he given him carbuncles. For a carbuncle is a multiple boil; instead of one hair follicle or oil gland's being infected, there are thousands of them.

The definition of a carbuncle in Stellwagon is as follows: "A carbuncle is an acute, usually egg-to-palm sized, more or less circumscribed, flattened, phlegmonous (pus) inflammation of the skin and subcutaneous tissues, terminating in the slough that usually finds exit at several points."

The disease begins with an innocent looking pimple which, however, is far more painful than the ordinary pimple. Within twenty-four hours it becomes larger and more painful and is accompanied by a good deal of constitutional disturbance such as chilling, fever and nervous irritation. As the disease progresses, the inflammation extends both on the surface and deep into the tissue, the pus works its way very deeply among the fat cells and burrows in shafts like a mine, becomes deeper in color, more painful and throbbing. The constitutional disturbances may be so great that the patient has to go to bed.

Within ten days or perhaps longer, it may be two or three inches or more in width. There is a hard base of irregular shape, and the tissues around become swollen. Now it begins to soften and the pus begins to pour out of a number of openings. Sloughing takes place through these openings and there results an irregular, deep ulcer with overhanging edges. In very bad cases the whole mass may fall out at once. The ulcer gradually fills up, leaving a scar.

Carbuncles are very serious in those who are old or "run down." They are more common in middle and old age, and in men. The most frequent sites are the back of the neck and shoulders, buttocks and forearms. There is usually but one at a time.

Causes: As with boils (and other diseases,) we have to think of two causes—the predisposing cause and the exciting or immediate cause. Both of these are the same as with boils: The predisposing is anything that causes an undermining of the skin resistance, especially diabetes, overweight or underweight. The exciting cause is the staphylococcus germ accompanied by pressure or irritation so that the germ is rubbed into the skin.

Treatment: As carbuncles are serious, the treatment should be left to the care of a physician or surgeon. However, as I know some of you are in places where physicians are not available, I am giving you some of the methods used.

Stellwagon states that if treatment is begun early enough, carbuncles may be aborted. This abortive treatment consists of covering the parts with hot compresses of gauze or cotton soaked in a strong antiseptic solution, usually 5 to 10 per cent carbolic acid lotion (that would be one tablespoonful of carbolic acid to five ounces of water—a little over half a glass) or a saturated boracic acid solution (one tablespoonful of the crystals or powder to the pint of hot water,) or ichthyol solution, made of equal parts of ichthyol (you can get this in tubes) and boiling water. Ichthyol is especially recommended by Blaisdell of the Harvard medical school.

Tomorrow I'll finish this article.

"WHISPERING WIRES" KEEPS YOU ON QUI VIVE

By Grace Kingsley

"The Cat and the Canary" and "The Bat" and ancestors of a queer progeny, and the inbreeding is doing the stock no good. In other words, that mystery play, "Whispering Wires," which opened yesterday at the Morosco, is neither as spectacular nor as charming a play by a long way, as either of the two above named. It is ingenious, but too involved, and hasn't the inspiration of its forbears.

You have nearly to carry your own electrician along with you to understand it! For it centers all about the tricks you can do with electric wires.

However, let me not be so rude! I beg your pardon. Pray let me introduce the new Morosco leading man, Gavin Gordon. The reason I forgot him, I guess, was because he is so necessarily and involuntarily unobtrusive in this play. You see it is the minor people who seem to have all the big roles, and the stars who appear seldom, in this odd play. Mr. Gordon, judging by his comparatively few scenes, is a most skillful and effective young actor, even as he is also a very engaging young man. He belongs to the newer school of actors, a sort of staccato-voiced repressed method, but one that permits of a quiet, tense concentration of emotion when a scene calls for it. I like that method very much. It seems very natural. I think Mr. Gordon is going to be popular. But after all, I did miss Harland Tucker dreadfully—that radiant, original actor, who is like no other actor, and whose personality could carry him along, method or no method.

After seeing "Whispering Wires," which was written by Kate L. McLaurin from the story by Henry Leverage, you will probably hesitate for two hours thereafter at least, about answering a telephone —the play is that spooky! Because you see everybody who tries to answer a phone in the Stockridge home is mysteriously shot. The program begs prettily that the audience won't give the ending away, so I won't, though it is likely that plenty of you read the original story.

Suffice it, there is a murder of the father with threats and an attempt to murder the daughter, and a keen and baffling mystery about it all.

The play, as I said before, gives the minor players of the Morosco their chance, and right bravely they carry their honors and opportunities. Indeed, you realize that many of them are star players when they get their chance. Joseph Eggenton is capital as the capitalist, not meaning any pun; Jane Morgan—a very fine actress this, always—is excellent as ever in the exacting role of the Stockridge secretary; Ann MacKay—how that girl is improving!—gives as dainty and chic an interpretation of a French maid as anybody could desire; Will H. Gregory is fine as the inscrutable valet; but it is perhaps to J. Morris Foster—as the embittered Trouble Hunter, scapegoat of his employers, that the real laurels bestowed on the supporting members, go in one exciting scene in the last act. The other players, including Richard La Salle, Harry R. Hoyt, Irving Kennedy, all do capable work.

Charlotte Treadway is very charming with her bobbed hair, and did most pleasing work in a somewhat thankless role.

ANITA STEWART IS LURING AT LOEW'S

If never the twain do meet, it certainly isn't going to be the fault of the picture producers, who have given us miles and miles of stories about the half-caste girls in love with the white men who weary of them. And so we have it again in "Never the Twain Shall Meet" at Loew's.

The high spots in this picture are Anita Stewart's exquisite portrayal of the Tahitian princess—and she has a lot of comedy, too, for these native girls laugh much and weep little—the wonderful backgrounds of the South Sea Islands, some gorgeous marriage ceremonial festivities, Bert Lytell's delightful playing of the romantic hero—Bert Lytell always can be relied on to keep romance up to its proper level—and a never-to-be-forgotten scene, in which Lionel Belmore, as the brave old sea captain, finding himself afflicted with leprosy, bows his head for the lei his daughter weaves for him and then leaps gallantly into the sea.

But these high spots are high enough to make the picture a very well worth while one, even though one be pretty tired of the theme.

Please let me hand it to Peter B. Kyne, too, in that he let his heroine run true to form by having her, while the tears still are wet on her face after bidding one lover adieu, turn straight to the arms of another lover!

But, on the other hand, while Miss Stewart's comedy is delightful, I think the idea of a native Tahitian girl coming all the way to New York and landing here dressed only in a pareau, even in one as well-fitting as Miss Stewart's, is pretty far-fetched!

I suppose that in the soul of every actor and actress there must lie some role that is just peculiarly his or hers and nobody else's in the whole wide world. Some obscure reality of self, some deep subconscious trait, some devastating or illuminating experience, or maybe merely heredity, finds expression in that role. So it was with Mansfield and "Beau Brummel," with Charlie Chaplin as the pitiful little shrimp of a fellow knocked about by the world.

And now we have Anita Stewart exquisite and appealing beyond words as the Tahitian princess. The changing moods of these half-cast girls, the graceful sort of gaucherie when they are shy and among strangers, their utter sweetness and docility—these qualities Anita seems not to have assumed at all, but to be giving out from the very soul of the native girl. I don't want to condemn Miss Stewart to a career of native South Sea girls, especially as I know the heights and depths of her powers, but I certainly do want to thank her for a pleasant hour at Loew's.

"Why, she is exactly like those half-native girls—exactly like them!" exclaimed Tom Chatterton, who went to see the picture with me, and who has just returned from Tahiti, and so is still full of the enchantment of that enchanted land.

"But what a pity," went on Tom, as we watched the beautiful landscape unroll, "that it couldn't have been done in colors, this picture!"

I cannot see how the makers of it could have overlooked this bet.

The Fanchon and Marco dancers are pleasing, but I do wish these every-day steppers wouldn't imagine that they can dance the hula at a moment's notice!

MONG STAR OF FORUM BILL

Rather surprisingly, "Off the Highway" is a title which really means something. Unlike most films, the current offering at the Forum bears a close relationship to its name.

And—"Off the Highway" is interesting and unusual. Based on the novel, "Tatterly," it actually takes one far from the beaten paths into the strange life of a stern old man, autocrat by reason of his wealth, who, nevertheless, is so weak, or so brave, that he longs to discover how his fawning contemporaries really regard him.

When his meek butler dies, the Tatterly who is a servile replica of his master—Caleb Fry changes places with him, and servant is buried for master. And Fry discovers—with cruel certainty—just how true his valuations of his fellows have been.

William V. Mong plays the dual role—Caleb Fry and Tatterly. And he gives a fine performance—finished and convincing. If at times he tends toward the theatrical, it is obviously the fault of the direction. Also featured in the cast are John Bowers and Marguerite De La Motte. As the inevitable sweethearts, working and starving a trifle in the cause of art, they are regulation types, irreproachably pictorial.

However, the minor roles are given interpretations worthy of Mong's fine lead. Charles Gerard is unforgettable as the sleek hypocrite. His scene with Mong, where he piously explains his aims in life, is one of the cleverest pieces of acting seen for a long while. Gino Corrado is insinuatingly humorous as the prize pupil, while Buddy Post is a highly satisfactory grizzly bear. At all times, the insouciance of the studios is well depicted, without exaggeration. Smoke Turner, another art student, gives an interesting characterization, while Joseph Swickard, as the master, is perfect.

Cleverly, the life of London's Bohemia is used as a startlingly contrasting background to the isolated existence of Caleb Fry. The fabulous duel between our hero and the grizzly bear is a welcome touch of humor.

"Off the Highway" often moves at a pace which is unbearably slow. But the ironic touches are masterly, as when the millionaire, who has deliberately become a servant, discovers that because he has neglected to provide for his old friend in his will, he is now penniless. Also, the photography in the opening scenes is notable—though highly reminiscent of Griffith's treatment of the Limehouse district. The film was directed by Tom Forman and personally supervised by Hunt Stromberg.

The Forum bill also includes a really funny Fox Imperial Comedy, "Sweet Marie," the Arnold Tamon dancers in a lovely fantasy and several numbers by the enlarged orchestra.

GRAND OPERA CHORUS PRAISED BY ROSING

Keen interest in the development of the California Grand Opera Company chorus of ninety-five has been awakened in eastern musical centers. Vladimir Rosing, director of the opera department, Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y., yesterday placed his stamp of approval on the quality of the Los Angeles voices.

"I consider the California Grand Opera Company chorus one of the finest in the country," said Mr. Rosing, "and I regard as remarkable the achievement of Alexander Bevani in teaching these men and women seven operas in three months. The tone is excellent. The ensemble is perfect."

Mr. Rosing, besides directing the opera departments of the famous Eastman school, is a distinguished baritone. He is returning east via Los Angeles following a successful recital tour of the Northwest.

FRANCES WHITE BACK ON ORPHEUM PROGRAM

Labor Day, today, will bring back to Los Angeles and the Orpheum one of the favorite stars of the world—Frances White. This little comedienne made her first stage bow in Los Angeles not so many years ago. She brings Billy Joyce at the piano, and a budget of new songs.

Jim Toney and Ann Norman, in "You Know What I Mean," will be a feature of the new bill. Ernest R. Ball, who wrote the ballads of the nation, will bring a bevy of girl musicians, but will himself at the piano continue to be the big hit of the act. Bard and Pearl, held over, Bert Melrose, Redmond and Wells, and the Fehnova dancers will also appear.

CIRCUS ATMOSPHERE SUPREME AT RIALTO

Applications for concessions to sell hot dogs, pink lemonade, cracker-jack, peanuts and popcorn, have been flooding the office of Frank L. Newman, head of the Rialto Theater.

The applicants seek the privilege of setting up their stands and dispensing their wares in the lobby of the Rialto, which has been transformed into a veritable circus atmosphere for the showing of D. W. Griffith's "Sally of the Sawdust." Carol Dempster and W. C. Fields are featured in the picture, which is a delicious comedy-drama of circus life and the latest effort of Griffith, the master.

Character Man Adds Comedy to "Iron Horse"

J. Farrell Macdonald, character star of the films, whose droll presentation of Corporal Casey, the grim comedian with the twisted lip, is responsible for much of the mirth in "The Iron Horse," now at the Criterion Theater, has revealed the origin of the character which brought him world-wide fame.

Corporal Casey is a composite picture of all the railroad Irishmen Macdonald has met in nearly twenty years of study of sons of the shamrock who make history in the laying of steel rails.

When John Ford, the director, was entrusted with filming the thrilling drama of the spanning of the continent by rail, for William Fox, he remembered Macdonald's work in "The Three Godfathers," and sent for him. Ford knew Macdonald and he knew that Macdonald knew Irishmen, so he turned the part of the Civil War veteran section boss over to Mac and left him largely to his own devices in making the part.

Strangely enough, Macdonald had always wanted just such a part. He had spent days and days talking to the men who lay rails along the tracks and knew just what "Corporal Casey" should be like.

"I borrowed the peculiar twist of the lip from a comical old character who herded the 'paddies' who repaired the tracks not far from my home in Connecticut," says Macdonald.

It is the laugh-provoking antics of Corporal Casey, as the moving spirit of the trio of veterans, "The Three Musketeers," that does much to relieve the tension of the thrilling drama of the building of the transcontinental railroad, which stars Madge Bellamy and George O'Brien in an absorbing romance.

GOLDWYN COMPLETES "STELLA DALLAS" FILM

Samuel Goldwyn announces the completion of Henry King's "Stella Dallas," which has been in production for the last two months. King, the director, is now busily engaged upon the editing and titling fo the screen play before he launches into the making of "Partners Again—with Potash and Perlmutter," the newest of the Montague Glass comedies to reach the screen. "Stella Dallas" a picturization of Olive Higgins Prouty's famous novel, has been interpreted by a notable cast, including Ronald Colman, Belle Bennett, Alice Joyce, Jean Hersholt, Lois Moran, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and others. It will be distributed by United Artists.

WILD HORSES AND WILD MEN AT "MET"

Zane Grey Film Exciting in Spots; "Grand Opera vs. Jazz" Highlight of Bill

BY HERBERT MOULTON

With "Wild Horse Mesa" on its screen at the present time and "Wild, Wild Susan" scheduled for next week, the Metropolitan appears to be clearing the decks for a season of general disorder.

There is a reckless quality about even the musical offerings which is quite in keeping with the spirit of things. Dear old tottering Grand Opera is dragged up in the glare of the footlights and made to do his stuff in competition with peppy, youthful Jazz.

The old man labors valiantly under a fearful handicap and comes out in the end with just about the same honors as his blatant young rival. It is up to the spectators to act as jury in the case, but judging from their audible expressions of opinion they are highbrows after each operatic number and jazz fiends after each noise fest. The obvious conclusion is that the average theatergoer likes plenty of variety in his musical fare as well as in his screen entertainment.

Evidently this variety in the musical numbers is offered as compensation for a dearth of anything even faintly resembling that quality on the screen this week. "Wild Horse Mesa" starts off in a well-worn groove and remains there until the very end. It contains about as much variety as a diet of lamb chops and pineapple.

In other words, "Wild Horse Mesa," from the prolific typewriter of Zane Grey, is a concoction of fast-riding action and homely hokum which exploits at great length several hundred more square miles of the great American West. It has virtually all of these elements which the habitues of the cinema are supposed to consume with avidity, such as a stalwart, but misunderstood hero, a trusting, pulchritudinous heroine, and a couple of dastardly villains. Thrown in for good measure are several thousand wild horses. The latter run away with several sequences of the picture.

The plot revolves around that highly important question: Will a herd of stampeding horses tear themselves if their path is barricaded by barbed-wire entanglements?

The hero declares they will and the villain maintains they won't. Just as everyone is getting excited about it and is preparing to witness exactly what will happen, along comes the hero and diverts the stream of galloping horseflesh away from the wire.

To prove that he's right, however, he stages a fight with the villain next to the barricade, which convinces everyone that unless horsemeat is a lot tougher than the human kind, it was just as well that the hero did his heroics when he did.

Aside from these and one or two other incidents, "Wild Horse Mesa" is mildly enjoyable — providing you're not fed up on the West.

Jack Holt is his usual stern-visaged self, and Billie Dove imbues the character of the heroine with both beauty and common sense. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., has a sympathetic role as Holt's kid brother and does very commendable work.

Noah Beery's part is a disappointment. It isn't large enough. He appears at infrequent intervals and his close-ups are meager. If talent was ever wasted, surely Beery's is in this picture.

'Gold Rush' Said to Pioneer New Era in Comedy

Since Charlie Chaplin introduced the world to comedy sustained through a real drama in ten expansive parts, in "The Gold Rush," now at Grauman's Egyptian Theater, admirers of the master comedian in cinemaland are pointing to the production as disclosing a new field in photodramatic construction.

Chaplin is quoted as predicting that the films of the future probably will be enlarged character presentations which follow one individual through a series of episodes, rather than continuing to revive time-worn plots that have raised the question, "What's the matter with the movies?"

His admirers in the field of film endeavor say he has pioneered the very era of his prophecy in "The Gold Rush." In the baggy trousers, the floppy shoes, the cutaway coat and the trick moustache of early association, he presents the vicissitudes that befall a valiant weakling braving the frozen North with the hordes of goldseekers in the famed Klondike rush.

Chaplin calls the Alaskan picture a comedy-drama because it presents tragedy, drama, romance, pathos and mirth in portraying the trials and tribulations of the vagabond prospector. Those who profess to be in the know say that Chaplin plans in his next production to concentrate on laughs, romance and charm, without the thrills of tragedy of "The Gold Rush," and that his next effort will be an expansive character presentation.

Sid Grauman has conceived his most elaborate prologue spectacle, presenting a novel variety of entertainment in a glittering panoramic setting of the Land of the Midnight Sun to introduce "The Gold Rush" in the Egyptian.

Ray Cutting Film Version of Old Song

"There's no rest for the actor," is Charles Ray's interpretation of the old slogan anent leisure.

Immediately upon the completion of his work in "A Little Bit of Broadway" for the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer company, Ray returned to his own studio to begin cutting and editing of "Sweet Adeline," on which the camera work was completed just before he went to the Culver City studio.

As soon as this picture is ready for release, he will begin work on the story for his next picture in the series of four he is making for the Chadwick Pictures Corporation.

Public Partial to Film Pathos, Russell Holds

Statistics recently compiled by William Russell from the answers to 500 letters which he sent out to small-town exhibitors substantiate this star's previous claim that the public is partial to only those stories which radiate genuine pathos.

"Paradoxical as it may seem" says Bill, "we seem to be susceptible to a tingle of sadness and demand it in our entertainment. And this, notwithstanding the fact, that it is all mimicry and artificial."

Despite ten strenuous years in motion pictures that have abounded with thrills, Russell declares that his fan mail gives him the greatest thrill. The confession from one of his admirers that his acting elicited a tear, fills him with happiness.

However, there is another type of thrill which the public is not aware of. For instance in "The Still Alarm," which Bill starred in recently under the direction of Eddie Laemmle for Universal. Clambering down five-story buildings and forming the middle man in a human chain that stretched seventy-five feet above the ground, from one building to another, and fighting his way from the top floor of a blazing building to the ground are examples of the risks he had to take.

"That all comes under the heading of 'work' in cinemaland" says Russell in explanation. Recently he completed the starring role in "Big Pal."

"FREE LIPS" WILL BE ADAPTED FOR SCREEN

Hope Loring and Louis Lighton have started work on the adaptation of their third production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. The collaborators have been assigned the work of writing the screen version of Carey Wilson's original story, "Free Lips." Hobart Henley will direct the production. Loring and Lighton recently completed the script for Rex Beach's "The Auction Block," which will be one of the big Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer specials directed by Al Roboch. With the completion of their script on "Free Lips," Hope Loring and Louis Lighton will have written twelve screen adaptations within the last sixteen months. This record includes such successful productions as Mary Pickford's "Little Annie Rooney," on which they worked with the star. Besides these many adaptations, the writers have titled several productions. They recently signed a term contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

PLAN "WHITE CARGO" LABOR DAY MATINEE

According to announcement from Thomas Wilkes, there will be a special Labor Day performance today of Leon Gordon's sensational tropical drama, "White Cargo," which returned yesterday by popular demand to the Orange Grove.

While holiday performance disregards Wilkes's policy for matinees, the suggestion of a special show this afternoon was met with approval by all the members of the cast, comprising Arthur Clayton, Marcela Zabala, Adolf Milar, George C. Pearce and others.

Conversation of the Jungle

The mating call of a tiger, the mournful, whining "ah-woough," repeated five or six times in succession at intervals, is really a very loud "miaow," and when mating, tiger, or tigress, will roam the jungles for miles, miaowing all through the night, and sometimes till as late as noonday.

But when a tiger is angry at being disturbed, especially a tigress with cubs, it gives a low, humming, murmuring growl, very cat-like, and followed by a long-drawn "haa-eeh." A tiger will often give its "ah-woongh" and a leopard its sawing roar when on their way to their kills.
